NAZI ARMAMENT MOVES WATCHED WITH SUSPICION

Other European Nations Vigilant Against Move On Czechoslovakia

MANEUVERS LOOKED UPON AS OMINOUS REMINDER

Berlin Press Seeks To Allay Suspicion Over Military Exercises

LONDON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Germany's preparations for nation-wide military maneuvers have made other European powers unusually vigilant against anything which might lead to a swift Nazi stroke upon Czechoslovakia.

Reassuring reports, however, reached European capitals from envoys in and around Germany. Moreover, Germany, in a Berlin press release today, sought to allay suspicion over the military exercises which are expected to reach their peak between September 9 and 14.

Nevertheless, the high government and military officials of other nations kept their staffs in a state of preparedness.

Their chief fear was that some incident might topple the delicately balanced peace structure of Europe. Closely linked with the fear was the fact that Germany's whole economic life as well as military was on a wartime basis.

The British war office warned all Britons holding military rank that they must get special certificates in order to avoid "trouble" if and when they travel in Germany. This resulted from a recent German order to guard the secrets of her fortified zones.

All quarters recognized that Europe faced a crucial period in the next few weeks of summer with peace possibly hinging upon Viscount Runciman's efforts to work out a solution of the

FARMERS TO GET ADDITIONAL CASH

$77,600 To Be Paid In Louisiana For Old Pool Certificates

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 13.—(Special)—Uncle Sam, through the Agricultural Adjustment administration, is passing out $77,600 to Louisiana cotton producers from "worthless" certificates they still hold in the original AAA cotton producers' pool.

Certificates are being bought up at the rate of $1 per bale and it is estimated there are certificates in Louisiana covering 77,600 bales.

These are the C-5-I certificates, known by and large as "brownies." They were given out in the first pool which began in the plow-under program of 1933. Options were issued to producers at 6 cents a pound, with the agreement that if their cotton sold for more than that, they would get the profit, but if it sold for less, Uncle Sam would take the loss. Producers could either have their cotton sold or put into the pool.

Farmers who put their option cotton in the pool received an advance of 4 cents per pound plus a C-5-D certificate. Later they could sell these certificates to the pool at the market price, with the original 6 cents and

TEST OF 27-MILE BOUNDARY OFFERED

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., Aug. 13.—(AP)—A. L. "Roy" Gillman, Port Arthur sportsman, volunteered today to bring a test case to challenge, in federal court, the action of the Louisiana legislature in extending the state boundaries 27 miles gulfward.

A $2 license fee for fishermen has been ordered effective on East Jetty and adjacent waters, under the authority of the legislative act.

Gillman said he was willing to devote "time and money" to test the provision.

HENDAYE, France, (At The Spanish Frontier) Aug. 13.—(AP)—The southwest city of Cabeza del Buey, long considered the key to Almaden's rich mercury mines, fell to the insurgents today, but a reinforced government army kept the door to Almaden closed with new defenses in the mountains. Heavy fighting still raged around the nearby little town of "Ox Head."

GULF SHIPPING GIVEN WARNING

Small Craft Told Not To Venture Too Far Out Until Further Notice

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The United States weather bureau tonight placed at about 400 miles nearly due south of New Orleans a tropical storm which moved into the Gulf of Mexico last night from the northwest Caribbean sea.

Weather bureau officials advised caution to vessels in the path of the disturbance, which it said was moving west-northwestward at about 18 miles per hour.

Small craft were warned not to venture into the gulf in the area from Pensacola, Fla., to Brownsville, Tex., until further notice.

The weather bureau said the storm, described as "small," probably was attended by hurricane winds over a very small area near its center, and shifting gales over a slightly larger area.

At noon, the weather bureau forecaster said, the center of the storm was 430 miles south of New Orleans. It was charted yesterday in the northwest section of the Caribbean sea and moved through the Yucatan channel into the central Gulf of Mexico during the night, slightly trimming its rate of movement.

In order to keep closer account of the storm's course the coast guard today sent the 2,000 ton cutter Sara-

CARROLL STARTS ON LIFE SENTENCE

THOMASTON, Me., Aug. 13.—(AP)—A prison cell's barred door clanged shut today on Maine's prisoner No. 6907—Francis M. Carroll, 43, sentenced to pass the rest of his "natural life" in the state penitentiary here for the murder of Dr. James G. Littlefield, 67.

In the same cell-block was Paul N. Dwyer, 19, also under life sentence for murder—the same strangulation for which Carroll, a one-time law officer, was convicted at his native South Paris last night.

For 10 days, at least, said Deputy Warden Stanley A. Macgowan there was little chance Carroll would meet the slender boy whose accusations founded the state's case against him.

During that period, the official said, Carroll would remain "in solitary" for the customary medical quarantine.

Afterward, Macgowan said, he "probably" would work on the rock-pile until officials had determined to what kind of a prison labor he was best suited.

Dwyer, as the state's star witness, testified he had pleaded guilty to garroting "Doctor Jim" in the Dwyer Paris hill home 10 months ago tonight solely through fear Carroll would slay him.

Within "three or four minutes" after Carroll's arrival at prison, Dwyer knew of it, Macgowan said, but showed "no reaction."

JOHN FREY SAYS REVOLUTION AIM OF COMMUNISTS

Asserts 280 Members Of Party Acting As Organizers For Lewis

THINKS MASS PICKETING USED AS TRAINING CAMP

Tells House Investigating Committee Surface Only Skimmed So Far

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—John P. Frey of the American Federation of Labor charged today that John L. Lewis' rival labor organization was honeycombed with members of the Communist party, whose purpose he said was revolution.

Informing a house investigating committee that 280 Communist party members were or had been on C. I. O. payrolls as organizers and officials, he added "in fairness" that Lewis himself and the majority of his followers were opposed to communism.

Frey, chief of the metal trades department of the A. F. of L., told the committee:

"It's time the public knew the truth about efforts of the Communist party in the United States to carry out the purpose of Moscow and the third international, which purpose is revolution."

For 20 years, he said, the American Federation of Labor had held communistic influences in check in the American labor movement, but the Communists had gained a foothold in recent years, Frey charged, through their influence in and in some cases domination of C. I. O. unions.

"The sit-down strike and mass picketing have been used by the Communists in our country," he said, "as a training camp in which Communists can become familiar with the tactics they are to apply when their revolutionary program is put into action.

"The sit-down strike and mass picketing have been used as front line trenches in which the mass revolutionists of the future are to receive experience and training to equip them for the day when the signal for revolution is given."

Frey was particularly outspoken re-

OFFICERS HUNT 2 DESPERADOES

Robber Pair Believed To Be Floyd Hamilton And Ted Walters

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Officers from two states, aided by bloodhounds, pressed late today a search through densely wooded country along the Arkansas-Oklahoma border for two men, believed to be Floyd Hamilton and Ted Walters, southwestern desperadoes.

A detachment of Arkansas state police headed by Assistant Superintendent Cliff Atkinson routed the pair from an automobile near King, Ala., with a burst of machine gun fire this afternoon.

Atkinson reported to headquarters here that when he fired on the car, the two men leaped from a bridge into a shallow stream, waded ashore and escaped in thick underbrush.

Headquarters reported that county officers and Oklahoma authorities had joined the search. Due to the difficult terrain in which the search centered, authorities expressed doubt the 25 or 30 men engaged in the hunt would be able to completely block off the area where the men were last seen.

The fugitives were believed to be the same men who robbed a bottling company at Nashville, Ark., of $100

BURNED PLANE'S WRECKAGE FOUND

Eleven Persons Aboard Ill-Fated Aircraft All Believed Dead

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The burned wreckage of a missing Compania Mexicana de Aviacion air liner was sighted late today in a deep mountain gorge near the southeastern gulf coast of Mexico.

The 11 persons aboard when the liner disappeared yesterday in a severe storm were all believed to have been killed.

Captain Luis Boyer, chief of pilots for the air line, reported the plane was found about four miles from Apalapan, in the Tuxtlas mountains of Vera Cruz state.

The ship was directly on its route from Villa Hermosa to Mexico City when it plunged into the gorge.

Ground parties were organized and started immediately toward the scene, about four miles east northeast of Tlacotalpam, on Alvarado bay in southeastern Mexico.

The country in the vicinity is mountainous, with numerous risky gorges making it difficult to negotiate the distance.

An airways official said he believed all the passengers were Mexicans except one who was booked as Eugene Carlson. His address was not known.

The report that the wreckage had been sighted was the first word on the plane since its radio became silent at noon yesterday after reporting it was encountering rough weather.

The plane, with eight passengers and three crew members aboard, had not been heard from since shortly after noon yesterday, when it ran into a heavy storm while flying from Villa Hermosa toward Mexico City.

WAR MANEUVERS REAL HARDSHIP

Third Army Rolls Homeward After Extensive War Games In Mississippi

BILOXI, Miss., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Ray Fleming, adjutant general of the Louisiana national guard, said today that all Louisiana officers and men were enthusiastic over the third army maneuvers but the war game was a considerable hardship for the mass of men.

"They would not want to go through such activity every year," he said. "Once in four or five years would be enough. The men took the work cheerfully and when the next maneuvers are held definite plans should be made to look after the personnel better, providing more rest and better bathing facilities.

"It was good training even if it was a little too strenuous.

"We are leaving in hospitals only two men, Harvey H. Posner, 156th infantry band, Plaquemine, who has malaria, and Ira Fallon, Company F, 156th infantry, Ruston, La., an appendicitis case."

General John A. O'Keefe of Mississippi said also that the health of the state troops had been exceptionally good with fewer sick men than at the regular field training periods.

"The morale of the troops was fine and we all appreciated the hospitality extended us locally," he said.

The third army rolled home tonight after its extensive war games, leaving only 16 men behind at Biloxi hospital.

Forty-four special trains and 1,900 army trucks evacuated the 27,000 officers and men who took part in the maneuvers. Part of the quartermaster corps will remain a few days longer,

Wage And Hour Law May Affect 4,000,000 Persons

By Reg Ingraham

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Labor department officials estimated today that as many as 4,000,000 workers—about 1,750,000 more than congress counted on—might obtain shorter working hours ultimately under the new wage-hour law.

Estimates as to the maximum number who would receive wage increases by the time the law's provision for a general 40-cent-an-hour minimum takes effect—in 1945—remained unchanged at "upwards of 1,000,000."

Officials said the upward revision of the number to receive shorter hours resulted largely from two factors:

1. A narrowing of the interpretation of "seasonal" industries which are exempt from the law's regulation of hours.

2. Indications that many employers, in a so-called "twilight zone" of uncertainty as to whether they were subject to the law, would comply with its provisions rather than risk the penalties of violation, which include fines of double the difference between the wages paid and the amount required by the act.

Regarding exemptions for "seasonal" industries, officials said it was clear congress had intended such concessions only for industries which operate in particular seasons and not for those which operate on a year-round basis but have employment peaks in certain months. The truly seasonal industries will be permitted to work their employes in excess of the maximum work-week fixed by the law without being required to pay them time and one-half for overtime.

The act, which becomes effective October 24, requires generally that industries in or affecting interstate commerce must pay not less than 25 cents an hour and work their employes not more than 44 hours a week. The general wage minimum will increase automatically to 30 cents at the end of

MODE ROOSEVELT LASHING FEARED BY CANDIDATES

Uncertainty Of His Attitude In Several States Causes Tension

MAY CARRY CRUSADE FOR LIBERALS INTO MARYLAND

Otherwise Elections Generally Appear Devoid Of National Interest

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Uncertainty as to where the Roosevelt party primary lightning may strike nxt gives an atmosphere of breathless expectancy to the two weeks of campaigning immediately ahead. Otherwise, this period in which four states pick party tickets seems politically featureless.

The president's radio address Monday night, observing the third anniversary of the social security act, affords him an opportunity to carry into Maryland the crusade he began against Senator George in Georgia. Representative David J. Lewis, running against Senator Tydings for the Democratic senatorial nomination in that state, had a big hand in framing and passing the social security law. Mr. Roosevelt could in effect endorse Lewis against Tydings without naming either, since Tydings voted "present" when the act passed the senate.

Elsewhere, the political situation seems devoid of national interest and possible thrills until the California and South Carolina primaries August 30, in which Roosevelt pressure will be a factor in senatorial contests.

He came out strongly for Senator McAdoo's renomination in California. In a South Carolina train-stop talk, he seemed to frown on Senator Smith's candidacy, calling on his South Carolina hearers to send New Dealers to Washington to help rehabilitate the south.

Before August 30, nothing is on the primary schedule to warrant national interest except a Texas run-off August 27 in which administration hopes ride with Representative McFarland's last chance effort to reverse anti-

12,000 VOTERS IN PARISH REGISTER

Books Closed Yesterday Until After September Primary Election

Just over 12,000 Ouachita parish voters were registered and qualified to vote in the Democratic primary election next month when the registration books here were closed yesterday evening at 6 o'clock, according to a report by Miss Lillian Collins, parish register of voters.

A total of 1,635 persons were registered yesterday and a staff of six assistants helped the registrar during the last-minute rush with the registrar's office jammed with persons anxious to register and thus become eligible to take part in the September election when a congressman, school board members and a director of the state bar association will be nominated.

Although Miss Collins expressed her gratification with the voters' response to her appeals to register she pointed out that approximately 6,000 voters failed to sign up for the four-year registration period when the books were closed and will therefore be disqualified to vote next month. At the close of the last four-year period which terminated December 31 last, the total voting strength of the parish as shown by the registration books stood at a little more than 18,000, Miss Collins reported.

The registration books will remain closed until September 14, the registrar said.

Blaze Second Most Disastrous Ever Experienced Here

Captain H. H. Hales And Fireman Charles Roddy Taken To Hospital After Being Overcome By Thick, Acrid Smoke

2 NARROWLY ESCAPE WITH LIVES

Thousands Watch Most Of Afternoon And Far Into Night As Valiant Fight To Save News-Star—World Building Waged

By DeWitt Henry

The second most disastrous fire in the history of the entire Monroe trade area occurred here yesterday afternoon when a blaze gutted the Monroe Furniture company's three-story brick building in the 100 block of North Second street. The loss, including the building and four floors loaded with furniture, was estimated at more than $250,000.

The fire was discovered at 2 p. m. when an employe of the store noticed smoke emerging from the basement floor at the rear, on the north side of the building next to the Illinois Central railroad tracks.

Firemen, summoned to the scene, immediately began laying down hose lines from North Second street to the spot where the smoke was emerging. The smoke, black and ominous, suddenly was blasted away by burst of flame.

H. K. Touchstone, secretary-treasurer of the company, sped from the front entrance around to the side yelling to Fire Chief Frank J. Roddy: "Frank, the whole front end's on fire!"

Apparently, when the burst of flame occurred in the basement at the rear, the fire leaped from one end of the first floor to the other. Spectators in front of the building could see flames jumping from one article of furniture to another with lightning speed. Firemen quickly trained hose lines through the front door and extinguished the blazing furniture.

Handicapped, they said, by a lack of outside windows leading to the basement floor where the flames were centered, firemen strove to get water at the source but failed to do so effectively.

At one time it seemed that the blaze was beginning to be brought under control, but at that moment new flames burst out at various points in the building. Finally, at 5 o'clock, three hours after the blaze was discovered, the fire fighters announced they were gaining and would be able to confine the flames to the furniture company structure.

The three-story brick building occupied by the Morning World and News-Star, which adjoins the furniture company with a connecting wall two feet thick, was seriously threatened. Heavy smoke that choked newspaper employes drove them from the building and they were not able to resume operations until 7 o'clock. Considerable water seeped through the connecting wall and ran over the floors in the newspaper building. Tarpaulins were placed over the Associated Press automatic printer machines and the linotype machines to keep them from being ruined in the event the building became so hot that the automatic sprinkler system should be turned on.

A gentle wind kept most of the smoke blowing in a northerly direction across the railroad tracks.

Two firemen, overcome by thick, acrid smoke that sometimes hung close to the earth and blotted out all vision, were rushed to St. Francis sanitarium. They were Captain H. H. Hales and Fireman Charles Roddy, son of the fire chief. Young Roddy only recently had partially recovered from an attack of malaria but he hurried to aid his fellow firemen when the alarm went out. Neither he nor Captain Hales was injured seriously. Four other firemen were reported badly nauseated by the smoke but were able to remain on the job after quick treatment.

Police Chief Frank Reitzell estimated that 20,000 to 25,000 persons visited the scene during the afternoon.

The management of the News-Star—World Publishing company wishes to express its sincere appreciation of the successful efforts of Chief Roddy and the Monroe fire department in preventing the spread of the Monroe Furniture company fire to its building. The firemen worked untiringly and intelligently in confining the blaze to the furniture building when it seemed certain that the newspapers' building was doomed.

The News-Star—World building was considerably damaged by water and smoke, but the fire itself did not penetrate the walls between the two buildings.

Executives of the publishing company last night were unable to make an estimate of the damage to the building, machinery, stock and other

SENATOR GEORGE TO TAKE STUMP

Will Comment Upon President Roosevelt's Opposition In Radio Address

ATLANTA, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Senator Walter F. George, Democrat, Georgia, takes the stump Monday for the first time since his unqualified acceptance of the challenge in President Roosevelt's bid to defeat him.

The gray-haired senator declined today to disclose what he would say in the address to be broadcast over WSB at 11:30 a.m., eastern standard time, from Waycross in deep southeast Georgia but acknowledged there would be references to the president's history-making speech at Barnesville last Thursday.

George, who has opposed several important administration bills, suavely took up the gage of battle from his president and party chief on the Barnesville platform by shaking hands with Mr. Roosevelt and saying, "I accept the challenge." Democratic voters will decide the winner September 14.

That same night in Atlanta he told supporters, "We've just begun to fight" but beyond these two brief statements he has not disclosed what strategy he will pursue in fighting the prestige of the chief executive.

FLAMES SECOND WORST IN CITY

At 3:15, when it became evident that firemen faced one of the most difficult and dangerous fights of their lives, police set up fire lines to keep the milling spectators back. At 4:10 the entire 100 block of North Second street was cleared.

Thousands continued to watch the spectacular fight from points of vantage in nearby buildings. Scores sat on the fire escape of the Bernhardt building and many watched from the roofs of tall hotels.

When the fire was first reported it seemed so confined to the rear of the basement floor and the base of an elevator that no one thought the blaze would sweep the building. Many of the employes in the front went about their regular duties for several minutes.

Fire Captain Tom DuPree, accompanied by Walter Veach and an employe of the company, attempting to find the source of the smoke, narrowly escaped when a thin partition suddenly collapsed. It was soon after this incident that flames burst forth in earnest.

For a long time firemen centered their hose lines in the area where the fire originated. They broke as few windows as possible in an effort to keep from creating a draught. Soon, however, the flames spread to the second floor at the rear. Eventually this part was partially brought under control but by this time great clouds of smoke were seeping through windows on the second and third floors at the front.

Until this time no hose had been trained through the front, except on the first floor when the flames first burst out. Firemen had been working on the theory that smoke on the second and third floors was coming from the fire in the rear. This was true then, but by the time the blaze in the rear had been checked it had spread toward the central, upper portions of the building in places difficult to reach directly with the water lines.

Firemen set to work to break out the windows, and while they were doing this Chief Roddy ordered his men to set up a hose tower for use in hurling a horizontal stream of water directly into the upper floors.

From then on it was a bitter battle. Firemen, sickened by the extreme heat and dense smoke made more deadly by fumes from varnish on burning furniture, sweated and struggled to conquer the flames.

Finally the roof broke into an inferno. Great clouds of black smoke, accompanied by huge bursts of flame, rolled high above the city.

Firemen and employes of The World and News-Star, fighting side by side on the roof of the newspaper building, trained immense streams of water into the raging flames only a few feet below where they stood. Much of the time they spent wetting down the sides of the adjoining wall to keep it from becoming hot enough to buckle. This was what caused so much water to seep through and flood the floors of the newspaper building.

By 8 o'clock the fire was history, and the furniture company's building was a mere shell.

Immediately after receiving the alarm Chief Roddy ordered out every available piece of fire-fighting equipment and taxicabs were sent to bring in firemen who were off duty. Soon, Fire Chief Earl Taylor of West Monroe arrived to aid with his men and one of his trucks. He left the other truck in West Monroe for use if another fire broke out anywhere in the Twin Cities.

Chief of Police Reitzell and his force also rendered valiant service in handling the enormous crowds that jammed dangerously close to the burning building. Every policeman off duty was called in. The police chief feared a live wire might fall and strike among the spectators and for this reason the entire block was cleared.

An Illinois Central freight train was delayed in West Monroe an hour and a half but the line's schedule was not effected, it was stated by J. F. Hardin, division freight agent. The westbound passenger train went through as usual at 7 o'clock.

The fire was the most disastrous in Monroe in 20 years, the other being that which swept the old Sugar building which was located across the street from the furniture company. Yesterday's blaze caused probably the greatest loss from fire in the city's history.

As news of the fire spread thousands of persons flocked downtown. Business was at a standstill and some merchants were said to have closed their doors until the blaze was controlled. Soft drink and ice cream vendors did a thriving business.

Almost immediately after the fire broke out at 2 o'clock, smoke began pouring into the offices of The World and News-Star where employes were working on today's editions. Soon, with their eyes smarting and their throats objecting, the newspaper folks had to drop their work and hunt fresh air.

When it became apparent that there was real danger of costly damage to expensive equipment, steps were taken to protect the machines and the huge rolls of newsprint stored in the rear of the first floor. Firemen, quickly and efficiently cooperating, furnished tarpaulins to spread throughout the building but considersble paper was damaged.

The thickness of the brick wall and the fact that steady streams of water were poured on it kept the wall from becoming very hot. It was warm but not too hot to touch. Several places where water seeped through were plugged with any waste material that was handy.

At 5 o'clock executives of the newspapers went into conference regarding the publishing of today's paper. Indications were that the smoke would not be cleared in time to "get the paper out" and emergency measures would have to be taken. An old newspaper custom is that "the paper must get out, come fire or flood."

The executives decided that if the building were not clear by 7 o'clock they would print The World in the plant of the Shreveport Times, and arrangements were made to do so. Fortunately, however, the paper went to press in its own building, even though the news matter is somewhat curtailed.

Joe Isaacman, president of the furniture company, who was out of the city when the fire started, issued the following statement upon his return last evening:

"Although the retail stock of our company was apparently destroyed, our warehouse stock was untouched. Consequently, and especially because our facilities are unusually large, we shall open at the usual time with a temporary store on the first floor of our warehouse building on North Third street.

"Although our executives and employes may be somewhat discommoded, we shall be prepared to render the public the same service as in the past. Actually, of course, our warehouse stock is always many times as large as that shown on our retail floor. Hence, our clientele may expect to see assortments equal to those always shown. We are taking these extreme measures for two reasons. The first is to provide, without interruption, a service that for more than forty years has been a source of pride, and, second, so that none of our more than one hundred employes will be thrown out of work.

"It is an ironic reflection that when we purchased the property on which our warehouse stands, we realized that because of its location it was far too valuable to serve permanently for this purpose and that, eventually, it would be converted into sales space. We had never thought that so disastrous an occasion would bring about this change.

"Despite the immensity of our loss, in one respect we are extremely fortunate. All records of the business were removed intact under the personal supervision of H. K. Touchstone, secretary and treasurer of our company.

"In a conference with Mr. Touchstone, immediately after my arrival in the city we agreed that every effort will be put forth to give Monroe and its citizens a greater store than ever.."

The long distance swimmer's idea of covering himself with grease is an old one; ducks have done it for thousands of years.

garding the Transport Workers' union, which he said was "headed by four leading members of the Communist party who are working under orders of Moscow to Sovietize the American transit industry."

"In recent weeks the transport workers have secured a stranglehold on New York City traction and taxicab companies," the witness declared.

In addition to charging that 280 Communist party members were or had been on C. I. O. payrolls, he gave the committee a list of 60 others high in the C. I. O. ranks who, he said, were Communists or closely linked with communism. Among these were John Brophy, a C. I. O. director; Francis Gorman, international president of the United Textile Workers; Wyndham Mortimer, vice-president of the United Automobile Workers of America, who, Frey said, was a Communist official elected recently under the party name of George Baker; and Harry Bridges, chief of the maritime union of the Pacific. Frey produced in evidence what he said was a photographic copy of Bridges' party membership card.

Names of 230 more communist volunteer workers in C. I. O. affiliates were promised by Frey when he resumes testimony next week.

Chairman Dies, Democrat, Texas, of the investigating committee, said names of the complete party membership had been obtained and would be introduced as evidence.

"They run into the thousands," he said, without disclosing how the committee obtained the documents.

"I've only skimmed the surface," Frey said when he concluded four hours of testimony.

The rise of communism in the American labor movement, Frey said, dated from 1935, when "the Communist party in the United States completely scrapped its program so that it could secure a controlling position within the C. I. O."

That was the year of the Communist international congress in Moscow, in which communists were instructed to discard many old precepts and join with instead of opposing groups and parties with Democratic interests. A protest from the American government against statements of American delegates was lodged during the congress, and American-Soviet relations cooled notably when Maxim Litvinoff, the Soviet spokesman on foreign affairs, rejected it.

SHERIFF SAYS NO WORD OF SHOOTING

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Sheriff T. R. Hughes and police said here today at 2:30 p.m., that they had received no information as to Floyd Hamilton having been shot in his automobile near Texarkana.

Deputies, Sheriff Hughes said, have been sent to the Rodessa section, near the Louisiana-Arkansas-Texas line in an effort to locate Hamilton and Ted Walters, believed to be his outlaw companion. It was believed that the men might have headed for that area after the hold-up and robbery of a bottling company plant at Ashdown, Ark., earlier in the day.

Sheriff Hughes said that he planned to go to Rodessa later in the afternoon and personally direct the search for the bandits.

GRIFFITH RE-ELECTION ASKED BY GOV. LECHE

HAMMOND, La., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Governor Richard W. Leche today asked the re-election of Congressman John K. Griffith from the sixth Louisiana district at ceremonies marking start of construction on the New Florida parishes hospital at Independence.

United States Senators John H. Overton and Allen J. Ellender also called for re-election of Representative Griffith and urged that Louisiana's congressional delegation be kept intact.

Dr. Griffith in a brief address said he would open his campaign Wednesday in Donaldsonville.

Governor Leche told the crowd of approximately 12,000, who ate 30,000 sandwiches prepared for the meeting, "when I took office there were only two charity hospitals in the state, at New Orleans and at Shreveport. So we built and are building hospitals at Monroe, Lafayette, Alexandria and here in Independence. Now instead of taking you people to the hospitals we are taking the hospitals to you."

Russell Long, 19-year-old son of the late Senator Huey P. Long, was called from the crowd to make a brief talk. Commissioner of Public Welfare A. R. Johnson, director of the state hospitals board, presided. Other prominent state officials spoke.

'LIE-DOWN' STRIKER TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Joseph Unterreiner, 28-year-old 250-pound "lie-down" striker, was in Presbyterian hospital today for seven days of observation.

He was brought here from the municipal building in nearby Turtle Creek, where he had lain five days, several of them in the council chamber, in protest against the borough's refusal to provide medical aid.

Unterreiner fell through a manhole on city property ten years ago, suffered a spine injury and never walked again.

Unterreiner had announced he would remain in the municipal building until the borough offered assistance, but finally was prevailed upon to accept the hospitalization offer obtained from the Falk clinic by the Rev. Francis Schlater of Turtle Creek.

LIGHTNING STRIKES TWICE

Striking in nearly the same spot where exactly a year ago a similar bolt killed two bathers, a three-forked tongue of lightning lashed out of a freak thunderstorm over Jacob Riis park, popular New York seaside resort, and killed two men and a woman. The bolt slid over the sands like a snake, bowling people over like ten pins, and injuring fifteen persons. Some of the victims are pictured above as police and lifeguards worked over them.

MORE ROOSEVELT LASHING FEARED

New Deal trends which have been read into his failure to win a first-heat nomination.

There is only one senatorial selection slated between now and August 30. A Socialist convention will pick a candidate in Connecticut on August 27. Delaware Democrats name their house ticket that day. Party selections for governor as well as house seats will be made in Wyoming August 16, and on August 23 Mississippi virtually elects its next delegation to the house in Democratic primaries. None of these contests have attracted much attention outside the states involved.

But the echoes of President Roosevelt's breath-taking surge into Georgia politics, to urge the defeat of Senator George, are still reverberating. The one thing Washington politicians agree on is that no one can predict certainly where or when he will strike again. He exhibited in Georgia the flair for political surprise tactics which has marked his public career from the start. He has a liking for keeping even most of his official family circle guessing.

The president's tactics in Georgia emphasized to Washington newsmen what they have long conceded, that he has a keener sense for news values, and headline effects on public opinion, than any White House predecessor, certainly any since Theodore Roosevelt.

At the same time, the newspapers wish to express to subscribers their regret that it was impossible to publish a complete Sunday paper today. With an inch of water standing on the first floor, water hindering the operations on the second and third floors and the building filled with smoke, it was impossible to start publishing operations until several hours after the usual starting hours. The paper, as it appears today, was published under numerous hardships.

Today's World is published in one section, instead of two, and the service to the public is only slightly impaired.

LA FOLLETTE TO FIGHT ROOSEVELT CANDIDATE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—An initial test of President Roosevelt's ability to cope with the new national progressive party appeared to be in the making tonight.

Senator La Follette, Progressive, Wisconsin, who has been allied with the chief executive frequently in the past, told reporters he would campaign for his own party's candidate against Senator Duffy, Democrat, Wisconsin, an administration stalwart up for re-election this year.

The president praised Duffy warmly last spring in a letter sent to a testimonial dinner, and La Follette's announcement caused speculation that Mr. Roosevelt might go into the state in the near future to speak another good word for him.

AIRLINER ROARS HOMEWARD

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—(Sunday)—(AP)—The German airliner Brandenburg roared steadily toward her goal today on her nonstop return flight from New York to Berlin. In regular messages she reported "all well" and said she was flying at about 4,000 meters (13,120 feet) altitude. At midnight (6 p. m. E. S. T.) she was approximately half way home.

2 AMERICANS DIE IN GERMAN PLANE CRASH

KEHL, Germany, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Two Americans were among 16 persons killed today when a Czechoslovak air liner crashed on a mountain top here in a fog and exploded. It was the republic's worst aviation disaster.

Air line officials in Praha said the Americans were Dorothy Cohen and Moritz Abeles, both of New York.

The only survivor was Martha Krentner, 23, stewardess, who was thrown from the plane and left hanging on a tree branch 20 feet above the ground.

Two other identified victims of the ill-fated Praha-to-Paris liner were Harold Frank, a Czechoslovak cameraman attached to the Praha branch of Fox movietone, and Martaretha Than, Vienna film actress known as Grit Haid.

The plane carried 12 passengers and a crew of four.

GOV. WHITE SPENDS 'COMFORTABLE DAY'

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Governor Hugh White, suffering from cardiac fatigue, today spent a "very comfortable day," his physician reported.

The doctor said the governor would be required to remain in bed "quite a while."

He was ordered to bed Monday after suffering a heart attack physicians ascribed to overwork and worry over his homestead exemption program.

the first year and 40 cents at the end of seven years. The work-week will decrease to 42 hours after the first year and to 40 hours after two years. However, minimum wages higher than 25 cents an hour but more than 40 cents may be fixed immediately, in a given industry, upon recommendation of a committee appointed to study that industry.

Many inquiries are coming into the department concerning the application of the new law.

Rufus Poole, associate solicitor, pointed out that the law gives the administrator no authority to rule that any industry or specific group of workers is exempt, such decisions being soley for the courts to make.

Representatives of trade associations and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States are puzzled, therefore, as to how to answer inquiries from their members as whether they come under the act.

"We try to be helpful, of course," Poole said, "but we are forced to tell them the law does not permit the administrator to rule on the question of coverage."

Middle men or jobbers are disturbed by the possible effects of the law on their business, Poole said.

In the event that the manufacturers of the products they handle fail to comply with the law, the jobbers fear they might have difficulties. The act permits action to prevent the shipment or sale by a jobber of commodities made in violation of the statute.

Poole said some of the larger jobbers were considering the advisability of requiring their manufacturers to post substantial bonds to protect them against such eventualities.

"This whole situation is going to increase compliance with the law greatly," Poole added, "because manufacturers and jobbers alike will be unwilling to assume the financial risks attached to violations."

Elmer F. Andrews, who is leaving the job of state industrial commissioner in New York to administer the wage-hour law, is expected to come here next week to assume his new duties. One of his first tasks is to appoint committees for the different industries.

the first advance of 4 cents deducted, or they could get another advance—and that is where the brownies came in.

They received an advance of 2 cents per pound plus the C-5-I certificate, entitling them to share in any money left from the sale of the pool cotton, less the 6 cents and the two advances. It turned out there was nothing left, so until this year they were worth nothing but the hope that some day they might pay off.

This year, when congress passed the farm act, it authorized $1,800,000 to buy up at the rate of $1 per bale, represented. J. O. Lamkin, pool manager, is now in the process of doing that.

There are a few rules for getting paid; the books close December 31; county agents have necessary forms and advice; in case of lost certificates, try to remember its number, and write to the AAA examination and claims division and they will try to run it down.

THREE RESCUED BY PASSING MOTORISTS

BRINKLEY, Ark., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Passing motorists saved a woman and two small boys from suffocation beneath a pile of clothing and bedding after their automobile plunged from U. S. highway 70 six miles west of here and rolled down a 15-foot embankment.

The victims of the accident were Mrs. Jessie I. Halapin of Norfolk, Va., wife of Chief Petty Officer Joseph Halapin, U. S. S. Conyngham, stationed at San Diego, Calif.; her son, Joseph, Jr., nine, and her grandson, Birley B. Piland, seven.

The Piland child received treatment at a hospital here for a minor back injury. Mrs. Halapin and her son were uninjured. The automobile in which they were riding was loaded with the clothing and bedding, which smothered the occupants when the machine rolled over six times.

The viscount is Britain's unofficial mediator in the long-standing friction between the Praha government and the 3,500,000 Sudeten German minority—a minority among Europe's Germanic peoples whom Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler has vowed to "protect from suffering."

The German maneuvers served as an ominous reminder of what form that "protectorate" might take if Viscount Runciman fails.

General anxiety was reflected in continued heavy buying of gold in London as a security against political-financial developments. Sales today totaled 1,385,000 pounds (about $6,748,000. The price reached 142 shillings, nine pence an ounce ($34.7774), a penny higher than yesterday.

Prime Minister Chamberlain remained at his official residence, No. 10 Downing street, to keep in close touch with the continental situation.

In France, Premier Edouard Daladier and other French officials were equally alert.

Although government quarters in both London and Paris sought to allay fear it was apparent that some of the optimism voiced by Chamberlain before parliament went into its summer recess had disappeared.

Germany's continued press and radio campaign against Czechoslovakia, in addition to the forthcoming military demonstration, have detracted from Chamberlain's July 26 assurances.

precedent in Georgia's history was brought out today when the Macon Telegraph recalled how in 1918 the late Clark Howell, editor of the Constitution and then Democratic state committeeman, released a letter from President Woodrow Wilson calling for the defeat of Senator Thomas Hardwick, a foe of Wilson policies. William J. Harris, who received Wilson's endorsement, was elected.

Thus far in his campaign Senator George has stressed his support of most of New Deal farm and labor legislation and has defended his fight against the supreme court reorganization measure saying he "should do it again." He voted also against the president's key executive department reorganization and the original wage-hour act.

Several newspapers which are backing George, including the Atlanta Constitution, carried news stories that federal government pressure was being brought to bear for Lawrence Camp, young United States district attorney endorsed by Mr. Roosevelt for George's seat. Camp is campaigning as a 100 per cent New Dealer.

The senator expressed no fear, however, that federal officeholders could be successfully "lined up" against him.

"The vast majority of federal officeholders in this state are men and women of too strong character to be induced by anyone to vote against their convictions," he said.

This Man, Joe Murray

BY WILLIAM CORCORAN Copyright, 1938, by William Corcoran; NEA Service, Inc.

CHAPTER XIV

Joe stood there, looking at her, looking at them all, rocking slightly, his breathing deep. After a moment he spoke. "The point is this," he said. "And get it. I'm a pretty good guy when they're with me. When they're against me, I'm tough. I'm made that way and I like it. I'm tough tonight and I'm telling you; the next time I'm tough I won't be telling you. But anybody—father, mother, grandparents or pope—that names my wife out of turn, will know it without being told! That's all. Don't forget."

He wheeled and marched out of the room, and he was white of face.

Immediately after that Joe walked, walked, walked. There was a hard, hard undigested thought inside him. It was bewildering, it hurt. He had no right to feel the hurt. He could be sore, perhaps, but not hurt. He was both.

"Another of Theresa's lies!"

What all did that mean? That he had been tricked? Well, was that news? She had almost plainly told him she would, if necessary. He went into it with open eyes. He had no kick coming.

Still, it had the power to hurt.

Joe walked, walked, and in his own way came to rationalize the values involved. He was that kind of man. He was impulsive when he saw a thing clearly, and he was willing to work it out when he did not. The only thing clouding this, it seemed, was his own conceit. He was kidding himself. Only a sap does that. He knew where he stood. If she lied to him, it was for reasons already well known to him. She needed him, wanted him—and she got him.

In the face of that simple formula, Joe's hurt and Joe's anger both wilted and slowly ceased to be. He could not resent her need. It was not in him. His real deep resentment was for wanton lies, wanton malice, such as had first sent him forth tonight. For a moment his original grievance had been almost forgotten. It was, simply, that Tommy Withers had talked. In mere neighborhood acquaintance he had encountered Terry's father on the street, and that hollow, spiteful old fool had laughed cynically and allowed certain insinuations which Withers was gleeful to repeat. In the phrase of the neighborhood, he "had talked."

Talk? Joe snorted. Talk was cheap. You could push around and make trouble for people who talked, but most of the trouble was words and no one was hurt in the end.

What had stung, for a little while, was that knifelike thought: another of Theresa's lies!

But the hurt was soon gone with the anger. This Joe Murray was a peculiar man, with a hardness in him and a womanly softness together. Thought flowed in him long and deep, like a river that boils and races furiously down to the final dark peace of the sea. There was no anger in him at the end of his long walk. If he had been tricked, then he melted at the thought of Terry's need of him. She had wanted him that badly. He had been willing before; he could be the same again. Nothing had changed.

So he told himself, turning homeward. But life always changes, going on, even as a charlatan fooling you before your very eyes. Joe was gentle with Terry when he came in; he told her what he had heard today and what he had done tonight, leaving out only what he had learned tonight. He need not tell her that. He was glad to be with her and not alone.

But in the reaches of the night there came a loneliness that he could not fathom, that was new and unaccountable and cold, like a wind from the north with the tidings of winter.

It was almost a premonition.

One day Joe came home in a mood of expansive, reckless gaiety. He tossed the lunch box on the kitchen table. "You can put that up in moth balls and start supporting your family, babe. I'm one of the leisure classes. Make it, one of the leisure masses."

Terry was home ahead of him and already busy; she turned quickly from the lamb chops sizzling juicily on the stove. "You mean the job? Laid off?"

"They gave me my time this morning." Beneath the gaiety was a certain secret bewilderment which the recklessness sought to hide. "I took my time and told them to put their job up the nearest chimney. I could get a job. I could get a better job before the whistle blew again. There don't seem to be any jobs. I went looking, but the whistle will blow without me tomorrow."

She kissed him. If there was any distress in her it did not show; she kissed him. "Poor darling. Give him time! You've worked every day since we got married. You'll find a job."

"Yeah? And I'll find somebody already working at it. Baby, they're slipping one up on us. The automobile contracts have run out at the plant; that's why the lay-off. They say there'll be no renewal. Most of the plant will be laid off; it started last week. There ain't that many jobs in the metal trades in town to give us all work."

"There'll be work always for the good ones."

He grinned. "You think I'm pretty good, don't you?"

"I know it."

He laughed. "If it wasn't for the price of food I'd make you quit and stay home with me."

"Oh!" she said. "And be together all the time, every minute?"

"Be together!" he said, looking at her. He kissed her, and they were together for an instant, hungrily, always hungrily and joyously. Then she broke away with a cry and ran to the stove to attend to a smell of burning.

He watched her. If he had her efficiency, he'd be a "good one" for whom there are always jobs! Whether the moment demanded a baby or a woman or a mother or a housewife, she filled the bill, instantly, always. He had no kick coming. But he wished he possessed her secret.

Joe's doubts about the job situation were well founded. Imperceptibly there had come a creeping change over the world of work and wages. The humble ones who did the work and drew the wages could not be expected to understand it; blithely they went their accustomed ways until suddenly and incomprehensibly their work was taken from them. A "job" is one thing; "work" another. One could always find a job, of ordinary; jobs were small individual segments of work, which was an abstraction, an intangible reality, a philosophic concept in the steady light of which all life as long as one could remember had been conducted. The cessation, the end of work, was like the end of an ideology, the banishment of a god. It left a vacuum.

Joe found a job, two weeks after taking his time at the plant. It was a rush job in a small factory, and it lasted a week. He found another the following month, which lasted half a week. He obtained a few days' work, here and there, day by day. Then at last that meager trickle from the fountain of subsistence ceased, and there was no more work to be had. He looked, inquired, waited, expectant, hopeful, and there was no more work to be had.

This passage of time and this shift of evil circumstances had an inevitable effect on the household of Terry and Joe Murray. It is swiftly told, but slow and grinding in the actual adjustment, just as it is swiftly told that automobile bodies were no longer made, because automobiles abruptly ceased to be assembled, because automobiles gradually ceased to sell to people who imperceptibly ceased to find means of earning the money to buy them. Terry and Joe cut all small extravagances, cut all living costs, lived on her small wage, putting nothing now in the bank. Then that small wage was insufficient and they drew on the bank, and the little house in Gardendale receded dimly in their vision. There was talk of shutting down the lace mill till better times, and then fright assailed them.

Life was playing them a cruel trick: life, instead of going forward, however haltingly . . . life was going back. Back with increasing momentum into a world from which they had escaped.

Commemorating the successful completion of the first 10 years of passenger transportation by air, National Air Travel week will be observed by the aviation industry throughout the country October 1 to 8.

This "tenth year jubilee," which will take the form of exhibits and demonstrations throughout the country, will focus attention on the service the air transport industry has rendered in accelerating business and pleasure travel throughout the United States and to foreign countries. National headquarters have been established at 444 Madison avenue, New York.

T. Park Hay, publicist and advertising executive, has been appointed managing director of the campaign, it was announced today by Harold Crary, vice-president of United Air Lines, and chairman of the special committee of the Air Transport association of America. According to Edgar S. Gorrell, president of the Air Transport Association of America, this nation-wide cooperative effort is indicative of the manner in which the air lines have been working together, and will to a greater extent under the new civil aeronautics authority.

The Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, National Aeronautics association and all associations interested in the development of aviation are expected to take part in this movement to make the public conscious of the tremendous strides which have been made in speed, economy, comfort, convenience, security and reliability of air travel during the past decade.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
St. John And Grammont Streets
I. T. Hastings, Pastor
D. C. Black, Pastor's Associate

There was no indication of a summer slump in all the services last Sunday from the standpoint of attendance and offerings. Let us keep right on keeping on through this month. God intended for us to do more in mid-summer than in mid-winter, for August always has more days in it than February. Those who find it "too hot" in August find it "too cold" in February. We do not claim to have an "air-conditioned" auditorium, but it is much cooler without the fans than the regular auditorium is with them.

We are expecting a great day Sunday. The young people's department of the Sunday school and the intermediate department of the B. T. U will meet in their new, but temporary, quarters on the third floor of the new building. Large, well-lighted and well-ventilated rooms have been prepared, together with a large assembly room for the Sunday school.

Our pastor will preach in the morning on "Power, Love and a Sound Mind"; at the evening hour on "The Kiss-and-Go Type versus the Cleave-and-Stay Kind." The young people's choir will again be in charge of the music at the evening service. It is growing in numbers and in power. Next week will be given over preparation for Youth week. Group and cottage prayer meetings will be held, also all who can and will meet at the church each morning at 6 o'clock for prayer for the meeting. Follow the crowds to the First Baptist church and find out why they come. Welcome to all.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "My soul, wait thou only upon God: for my expectation is from him." (Ps. 62.)

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The proper use of the word soul can always be gained by substituting the word God, where the deific meaning is required. In other cases, use the word sense, and you will have the scientific signification." (Page 482.)

Another Step Forward

It was with a great deal of satisfaction that we learned Friday that a WPA grant of $104,625 had been allocated to Northeast Center of L. S. U. to continue the building program at the state university branch here.

This grant will be used in the construction of two new buildings at the junior college—a music building and a library building. The new buildings and equipment will cost approximately $250,000, with the state university providing an additional $125,000 to complete the project.

These newspapers long have advocated these necessary improvements at Northeast Center. The two new buildings were listed on the roll-call of "must" projects for Monroe and northeast Louisiana. This list also includes adequate sanitary sewerage, restocking of fishing streams, a municipal civic center and an adequate city beautification program.

Needless to state, Governor Richard Leche, Major Lester White, chairman of the state planning board; Senator John Overton and other members of Louisiana's delegation in congress, President James M. Smith of the state university and other state officials contributed their wholehearted cooperation in obtaining this additional contribution to the educational needs of northeast Louisiana. Without the support and counsel of these men it would have been impossible to bring to a successful conclusion this campaign for expansion at Northeast Center.

Two other important additions to the junior college campus are rapidly nearing completion. The new student center building has been built and equipment is being moved in. A new stadium, constructed of concrete and steel and having a seating capacity of some four thousand, is under construction. It will be completed within a month. The music and library buildings will flank the administration building on each side, and the entire layout will constitute an imposing nucleus for the eventual development of a great educational institution in Monroe.

There is no doubt that Northeast Center provides a long-felt need in Louisiana's system of colleges. Hundreds of boys and girls throughout this section have been able to receive two years of higher education where otherwise they might have found it impossible to continue their schooling after completion of their high school courses. Educators generally have approved the plan of establishing junior colleges in various parts of the state so that a student may obtain at least a foundation for his college career with a minimum of expense.

The expansion of Northeast Center under the new building program will enable the junior college to render even greater service to the youth of this section.

BRAIN-WORK ON BRAIN-WORK

The problems of education are getting heavy attacks from every direction on the compass these days.

A novelty in the way of courses that arouses the "Why-didn't-somebody-think-of-that-before" reaction appears on the program of the coming year at Dickinson college. Students will be taught how to think for themselves. The whole object of the course is just that, more elaborately described as guidance "in the formulation of a body of sound working principles."

News also comes of the work of J. L. King, director of schools for the state of Washington, who believes that textbooks are always getting out of date and students need to stay ahead of them. He sees to it that as many students as possible do a large part of their studying first-hand, watching the principles they study being put into practical application. King is especially anxious to have the civics students attend sessions of the legislature and various city councils.

It's not surprising that the students get disillusioned, as King says, but it is surprising that they still want to grow up.

SCHOLARSHIPS

One force for the advancement of knowledge and extension of education that is often overlooked by the rank and file is the scholarship. This is easily explained by the fact that few realize that in recent years the scholarship has become an institution of tremendous proportions.

More than 50,000 scholarships, worth more than $10,000,000, are awarded annually in the United States. They are financed primarily by state grants, private endowments, organization endowment and outright gift and are worth from $50 to $1,500 each. With but a few exceptions they are awarded without restriction on the studies to be pursued, and the great bulk of them ask nothing from the recipient in return. Most of them are offered to undergraduates, though the number of fellowships and similar grants for post-graduate work runs well into the hundreds.

It is through these mediums that the scholarship endows the country with a fellowship of learned men and women and new addition to the fund of human knowledge.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Perhaps the attorney general doesn't know it yet, but he will receive an invitation next fall to confer with Chief Justice Hughes.

Also the milk man will get a note telling him to begin bringing several bottles to the chief justice's door step every morning. Another note will put the power company on warning to turn on the electricity in the chief justice's house.

Probably even the chief justice himself hasn't thought of all these things. But his secretary, W. W. Mischler, has. He has been thinking of things like that most of his working life. He began thinking about them for President Taft, continued thinking about them for Mr. Taft when he became chief justice. Now he does the job for Chief Justice Hughes.

It would be awfully hard to find a person so felicitous about such things as is Mr. Mischler.

He is a short fellow who during the summer recess occupies an enormous office in the supreme court building. It is right behind the court chamber. In it Mr. Mischler looks as if he had plunked himself and his two desks in a cathedral. Yes, he has two desks, big ones, and he sits in the angle between them. If a person is to care for such a variety of things as supreme court opinions and milk bottles, he must have caverns for files.

Mischler is already way ahead in his work. He has a stack of letters written inviting the attorney general, several of his assistants, and senior members of the circuit courts to confer with the chief justice. Another pile contains the messages to the milk company, the power company, to Chief Justice Hughes' butler, to his personal messenger, and even to the newspapers to start deliveries. The chief justice takes three Washington dailies, one evening and two morning.

The milk and butler notes will be mailed as soon as Mr. Mischler knows when the justice is to return to Washington. The luncheon and conference letters will go as soon as the dates can be filled in.

Ordinarily Mischler works at Hughes' home in Washington. The chief justice and the other senior members of the court got the habit of doing their work at home because of lack of suitable library and office space in the old capitol building.

In his summer office, Mischler keeps the air cooling system running full blast, with the temperature down around 72 degrees. Three years ago when the building first opened, he nearly died of pneumonia contracted after walking into his office from a tour of inspection of stores and restaurants in the vicinity.

When President Taft left the White House after his four years as president he told Mischler he was uncertain whether he could keep him on. He wasn't earning enough. But it soon got around that the former president was available for lectures, and then they knew no peace.

Mr. Taft delivered law lectures Monday and Tuesday at Yale and then took to the road. He delivered lectures in towns as far west as Iowa on Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays, and then sometimes spent all day Sunday traveling back to Yale to lecture again Monday and Tuesday.

Mischler handled all the details of the lecture tour and it was hard work. But Taft stood up under it. Earlier Mr. Taft had taken a course of reducing to shake off some of his 300 pounds, and it weakened him. He recovered before the lecturing began. He had a list of 30 subjects for his lectures, and it kept an extra staff busy polishing them up.

Mischler expects to join Chief Justice Hughes about August 22 in New York. He is a skilled stenographer and takes the justice's dictation. In New York Mr. Hughes will dictate memoranda on each of the cases filed during the summer, indicating whether he thinks it should be heard by the court. But you never will be able to pry anything on that out of Mr. Mischler.

TEAMWORK NEEDED

By BRUCE CATTON

One of the tough things about our modern world is the fact that it is getting to be so hard to tell good news from bad.

The United States weather bureau, for instance, reports the long period of drouth seems to be over—for the time being, anyway—and that for several years to come we ought to have plenty of moisture.

The weather seems to run in long-range cycles. There was a bad drouth period extending through the first half of the '90's. After that the country as a whole had decent weather until 1909, when there was another drouth. Then there was another good spell until about 1930; then six abnormally dry years—we began to hear about the dust bowl, and people started wondering if some of our western grain areas hadn't better be turned back to buffalo grass permanently.

Now we are told this last bad dry spell was just a dry spell, after all, and not a permanent climate change. Possibly we won't have to evacuate large areas, with the tragedy of ruined farms and homeless families.

That ought to be classified as good news, certainly. But before we get too jubilant we might as well note that this good news will bring bad news in its train.

Plenty of moisture will mean bumper crops. Bumper crops will mean bigger and bigger export surpluses—which, in turn, will mean lower prices for farm produce. And if all of this works out as it did before, we may very well get into another era of declining agricultural purchasing power, which would eventually bring us to another industrial slump, which—

Well, we may finally acquire enough wisdom to break up that vicious circle and make abundance a blessing rather than a problem.

But there is no very dependable sign that we have that wisdom now, and the way the department of agriculture is continuing to worry about substitutes for the old AAA crop-restriction programs makes it look as if we may be a long time in getting it.

Which, in turn, means that what ought to be a bit of very good news may yet prove to be an extremely mixed blessing. We have somehow botched the job of building a smoothly running human society.

The farm problem certainly ought to be simpler when nature smiles than when nature scowls. If it isn't, the fault can be no one's but our own. Now that nature seems prepared to do her part again, it's time that we learned how to do ours.

A BOOK REVIEW

A BRITON LOOKS AT DICTATORS

We have been deluged these days with analyses of the dictators, but you will very likely go a long time before you lay hands on a more thoroughly exhaustive study than R. W. Seton-Watson's book, "Britain and the Dictators."

Practical historian, Mr. Watson has been keeping a pretty close eye on the European scene since the days at Versailles, and he minces no conclusions. The result is a jarring volume, painting no pretty picture for world civilization should the totalitarian state eventually wipe out the democracies.

Significantly enough, Mr. Watson points out, the dictatorships rose first in the allied countries, Russia and Italy. Germany, rising from the ruins of the World war, is a recent, if not yet untried, dictatorship. But let no one be mistaken, warns the author: the world must deal with all of them, and firmly.

Russia, for example, Mr. Watson avers, is here to stay. He predicts that the Soviets are certain to wield vast influence in the political trends of tomorrow. Il Duce, he feels, may wield even more influence, since he has already bluffed Great Britain successfuly time and again.

As for Der Fuehrer, the author visualizes him as the greatest danger of all to world peace. This is because Hitler, facing growing tension at home, is pressed to more and more dangerous gambles.

Mr. Watson's thesis, of course, is that in all this Great Britain faces a herculean responsibility to safeguard humanity.—P. G. F.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE GIRL PRODIGY—Maria Isidra Guzman y la Cerda (1768-1803) impressed the Spanish King Carlos III so strongly with her precocity, that the king ordered her admitted to the Spanish academy in Madrid at the age of 10 years. The king's orders could not at first be executed, because of a law which decreed death for any girl participating in university studies. With the king's connivance, this law was circumvented by the girl assuming a male disguise, in which she graduated as a doctor of philosophy at the age of 17.

Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

One of the most secretive of all operations is the search for treasure lost at sea—authentic treasure. But from Amsterdam comes the report that a dredger, in the service of Lloyd's, the world-famous insurance underwriters of London, has brought up gold coin from the hulk of the British frigate Lutine, which was lost at the entrance of the Zuyder Zee in 1799, while en route from London to Hamburg with $10,000,000 in gold sent to Germany to save the credit of British merchants during a financial crisis.

Long ago the ship's bell of the Lutine was fished out of the deep and it is preserved as a relic in Lloyd's today, rung whenever a vessel is reported safe after having been written down as lost.

Coincidentally, there comes a report from Reuter's News Agency that the wreck of the steamship Merida, which sank in 1911 off the coast of Virginia, has, at last, been located. The Merida carried a fortune of $5,000,000 in gold bullion and the collection of jewels which had belonged to the ill-fated Emperor Maximilian and the Empress Carlotta.

According to Reuters, divers have explored the wreck and salvaging operations are to begin from the Italian salvage ship Falco. So the world again hears of the Merida—a story as romantic as anything that has happened this century. The Merida, an American ship, was sunk in 1911 in a collision but the story goes back to 1863—back to the unfortunate Hapsburg, Archduke Ferdinand Joseph Maximilian, brother of Austrian Emperor Francis Joseph, who, in that year, with the help of Napoleon III of France, was proclaimed Emperor Maximilian of Mexico.

When the French deserted him in 1866, poor Maximilian was court-martialled by order of the rebel leader, Benito Juarez, and shot in a barrack square. His priceless collection of Hapsburg jewels, looted from the temple of Rama in Burma, in the sixteenth century, and said to have been cursed by their custodian, the priest of Rama, was seized and placed in the Mexican treasury.

The tragedy of her husband's fate unhinged the mind of his wife, the Empress Carlotta and she lived on to be a very old woman, cursed by the terror of those days in Mexico.

Then, in 1876, there arose in Mexico another ruler—Jose de la Cruz Porfirio Diaz. He quelled a revolt in Mexico City and was elected president. He held the office for eight terms. In April, 1911, when Diaz was 80, the tide turned again. A popular revolution produced a new leader Francisco Madero, but Diaz had sensed what was to come. He collected the state bullion and the emperor's jewels, charted the crack nineteen-knot win-screw liner Merida, and sent it off to New York.

At midnight on May 11, 1911, the Merida, with 360 passengers aboard, and its cargo of 21 tons of bar silver, kegs of gold coins, jewelry, copper and lead from Mexican mines and, above all, and emperor's crown jewels, was lurching through heavy seas.

Eight bells clanged through the ship. The watch officer rubbed his hands, shivered. At that moment there was a rending crash which pitched him to the deck and brought passengers running up from their cabins. The admiral Farragut of the American Mail Steamship line, had rammed the Merida amidships, shearing a hole in her side.

The passengers safely off the ship, the captain and the chief officer tried to save the treasure, but the purser, who alone knew the strong-room combination, was in one of the lifeboats. Taking to the last boat, the captain and his first officer watched the Merida go down into 200 feet of water. All were saved but the treasure has been there these 27 years.

Some of these days as the restless ingenuity of man develops now-undreamed-of mechanical wonders, the bottom of the sea—of all seven seas—will be the greatest treasure-hunting ground mankind ever knew. It is estimated that, in fairly well-known regions, at least 50 billion dollars worth of treasure reposes on the sea floor.

Only a trivial amount of the gold borne by the great armada of Philippe of Spain, defeated by Drake and Hawkins, and the remnants dispersed by storms and hurled on the northern coast of Scotland and along Scottish isles, has ever been found.

The Spanish Maine is believed to be paved with the gold which went down with the great Spanish treasure galleons bound homeward from Peru and Mexico and Panama, and destroyed by hurricane or by pirates. And that other lair of buccaneers, the Indian ocean, is yet another treasure store, long locked by the ages. Perhaps Simon Lake may yet perfect a submarine treasure-hunting ship to recover the lost gold and jewels whose pursuit has baffled adventurers for centuries.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

BY ALICIA HART
(NEA Service Staff Writer)

One who has bulging hips and a protruding stomach is going to be no more flattered by new fall fashions than the thin, boyishly curveless girl. The ideal figure—fall 1938—is small waisted with gracefully curved hips and a high, round bosom.

If your hips aren't as trim as they should be, by all means start doing special exercises regularly and correctly. One of the simplest of these is the rolling routine, of course. Simply lie flat on the floor with arms at sides and ankles together. Now, keeping shoulders flat on the hard surface and ankles together, roll hips to the left as far as possible, then to the right. Repeat twenty times the first day, twenty-five the second, thirty the third and so on.

To slenderize the waistline, ride on imaginary bicycle for five minutes every day. Just lie on the floor with arms at sides and knees drawn up to stomach. Now ride the bicycle, pushing one leg upward against an imaginary pedal, then bringing knee back to stomach as other leg is stretched upward.

Bending exercises also are wonderful for the waistline. Stand with feet about twelve inches apart, arms stretched toward the ceiling with palms facing each other. Now, keeping arms parallel with ears, bend to the right as far as possible, backward to the left, forward and again to the right. Repeat at least fifteen times a day.

To strengthen the pectoral muscles which support the breasts, swim, using the breast stroke a great deal, as often as possible. If you do not live near a lake, beach or swimming pool, do the breast stroke exercise twenty times a day. Also, lie on a bed or couch with your neck on the edge of it and head hanging downward, then lift right arm and try to touch the floor behind your head. This should be done slowly. Reverse, lifting left arm up, over and down. Repeat twenty times.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Morris Fishbein
(Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine)

Not long ago the newspapers reported the case of a young girl who died in a fatal attack of asthma 15 minutes after being stung by a bee. This, while unusual, is now recognized as a possible manifestation of hypersensitivity, or of the condition that is coming to be commonly known as allergy.

There are various degrees of allergy, but nobody knows just why we become sensitive to one substance and not sensitive to another.

Some people are sensitive to one specific item—for example, strawberries. Yet they may be sensitive to strawberries grown in one part of the country and not to strawberries grown in some other part of the country.

The degree of sensitiveness varies in different people. Some people who are sensitive to eggs cannot tolerate even the tiniest amount, and instances are known in which a person who was sensitive to egg became ill after kissing another person who had just eaten eggs. Some people are very sensitive to bees, and cannot tolerate the amount of material from a bee that is contained in one drop of honey.

The person who is hypersensitive has certain symptoms which are manifestations of a mild attack. These symptoms include puffiness and itching of the eyelids, slight redness of the margins of the eyelids, sneezing, swelling of the membranes of the nose, excessive secretion of the nose, swelling of the lips and tongue, and itching of the roof of the mouth.

In extremely severe cases of hypersensitivity there may be swelling of the soft palate, hoarseness, and severe swelling of certain tissues in the throat. This sudden swelling of tissues in the throat, which represents an accumulation of a large amount of fluid, may be so serious as to choke the individual concerned.

The asthmatic symptoms that affect the lungs are particularly noticeable. There is a chronic cough or a spasmodic cough, a sudden shortness of breath on exertion, and a tendency to wheeze on breathing, which are clearly signs of allergic symptoms affecting the lungs. Difficulty of breathing due to the sudden spasm and closing of the tubes through which we breathe may become so severe as to make it impossible for the person concerned to get enough air to sustain life.

Fortunately methods have been discovered by which large drugs like adrenalin, ephedrine, epinephrine, and similar preparations are used to stop these serious symptoms, and to bring about prompt recovery.

It is important, however, that the nature of the attack be recognized promptly, and that the physician be ready to give the important life-saving preparations by injection as soon as possible.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—Echoes of the celebrated Madison oil trial, what with various oil companies and executives just fined after anti-trust conviction months ago, others being granted a new trial and still others facing a grand jury on separate charges, recall to defense and government lawyers the headaches of that first trial.

In May, fourteen defendant companies and eleven oil executives of another group awaiting trial pleaded nolo, electing to pay $400,000 in fines and costs. Profiting from the first trial's lessons, they didn't want to spend a few months in Madison at great expense. They don't like Wisconsin juries and an adverse decision was likely. Cost of lawyers alone would have been more than fines. Other defendants elected to fight.

At least 80 lawyers served the defense in the first trial. The jurors, kept four months from their families except at Christmas, were more irate than the defendants, thanks to constant bickering as to whether they should go to the movies or play pinochle. They had to take recreation in a body.

The oil men had a press-agent who handed them a manual on how to act. They were asked to go to church and avoid drinking in public. The manual was suppressed. Dr. Glenn Frank invited the defendants to a cocktail party. The party was suppressed too. Numerous veterans of the first trial still threaten to write a hilarious book.

No Kin Of The Other Edmund

The New Deal has an Edmund Burke. You may hear more of him. He is no descendant of the great British orator, but he has been sent to New York by SEC to handle the new Chandler act covering corporate reorganizations. A young Harvard law graduate, Burke had much to do with writing the Chandler act and explaining it to Congress.

"Tomayto" Queen Comes A-Visiting

Only White House visitor to cause a flurry since the president left was Miss Peggy Walsh, the "Tomato Queen," from Indiana. She is 18, and her name isn't Peggy Walsh, but the big tomato canner who had her in charge wouldn't let her tell her real name. The queen had a bushel of tomatoes for Mr. Roosevelt, but these were turned over to Bill Hassett, assistant to Secretary Steve Early and highest ranking White House occupant at the time.

Interviewers learned from Peggy it's pronounced "tomayto" and the reason it's a fruit instead of a vegetable is because "it's a love apple." Peggy is a handsome girl.

Rolling Down To Rio

BREATHES there the man who has not wished that he might some day go "rolling down to Rio." For this cosmopolitan, magnificent capital of Brazil intensifies somehow the romantic urge of all.

And the world does come to Rio de Janeiro, sailing up the spacious bay of Guanabara and on past Sugar Loaf Mountain, the city's most distinguished landmark. And what does it find?

It finds a city of colorful gardens, of broad promenades, sidewalk cafes, of men and women dressed in clothes from Paris but with a manner all their own. It finds a city whose buildings are for the most part simple but resplendent in vivid coloring. Many of the new homes cling to the hillside below the street and are entered from the roof.

Here vendors lend an Oriental touch, the sacred ox of India is the beast of burden, and modern automobiles slip along the newer pavements. And here in the National Library and other beautiful public buildings is preserved the historic heritage of Brazil and of all South America. In recent years, scientific public health work has materially raised the standard of living in this city of 1,000,000. A view of the harbor and city is shown here on a current Brazilian stamp.

SITE OF SCHOOL STILL DISPUTED

Board Decides To Accept Option Owners Say They Will Decline

RUSTON, La., Aug. 13.—(Special)—Ruston's controversy over the location of a new high school and domestic science building became more deeply involved this week-end, with the Lincoln parish school board Saturday afternoon deciding to accept an option on a site which the owners of the property have declared they will decline.

Because of dissension regarding the location of the new school projects, the school board called a special election that was held Friday to "determine the wishes" of the voters in school district No. 1. Two sites were listed on the ballots, one being the Terrill property on the Monroe highway, just east of town, and the other being the Holstead property, in the northwest part of the city, adjoining acreage upon which a new stadium and athletic plant have recently been completed. The voters favored the Terrill property, 292 to 283, according to returns promulgated by the school board Saturday morning.

Although the Terrill property was chosen by a majority of nine votes, the fact that two options had been submitted by C. A. and M. E. Terrill, owners of the plot of about 22 acres, further beclouded the issue. The Terrills originally submitted an option, dated June 29, 1938, and effective for 60 days, pricing the acreage at $25,000. After the board had decided to call the special election, the Terrills submitted another option stipulating a consideration of $35,000. In asking for the return of their first option, however, the Terrills learned that the document had been recorded in the clerk's office here, by Mrs. Stewart S. Hunt of Ruston.

The school board members, in a lengthy session Saturday, were confronted with the problem of deciding which of the two options should be accepted. They voted to accept the original option of $25,000 and authorized the school board president to tender an offer of that amount to the Terrill brothers.

It is understood that the Terrills "will not accept anything less than $35,000" and the next step in the matter is problematical.

District Attorney T. C. Bergeron of Farmerville, who spent the day at Ruston in the interests of the problem, said he "didn't know" what the next move would be if the Terrills refuse to sell for $25,000. H. L. Campbell, superintendent of schools, was similarly puzzled, he said.

It was pointed out that the election does not obligate the school board to locate the new school buildings upon either of the two sites listed on the ballots. The election was held merely to ascertain the views of the voters, it was asserted.

Bonds were recently sold to provide funds for the new school buildings, a PWA grant has been authorized, and money resulting from a previous bond issue is available for beginning the project.

Some of the local school patrons have speculated that, if the Terrills do not accept the $25,000 offer, the school board members "will take it upon themselves to select a site without further prolonging the matter." Meanwhile, the board members are awaiting developments.

SHRIMP STRIKERS ATTACKING BOATS

Roads Leading From Grounds To New Orleans Guarded By Deputies

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Roads leading from the Louisiana coastal shrimping grounds up to New Orleans were kept open today by deputy sheriffs carrying arms in the shrimp fishermen's strike price war and fresh market shrimp came through.

Alver Hudson, president of the Gulf Coast Fishermens' and Trappers' association, A. F. of L. union of the shrimpers, said a blockade carried out earlier this week against truck shipments had been abandoned and the union men took to boats to halt the catches.

Hundreds of barrels of shrimp intended for the market or canneries were dumped during the war which broke out the middle of the week and 24 men were charged in Plaquemines and Jefferson parishes in connection with the disturbances.

The lower parish canneries and the fishermen were in controversy over the price of shrimp and union spokesmen determined to stop the fishing until the packers met their price of $8.50 a barrel.

The canneries were offering $7 and $7.50 a barrel and said they were overstocked with goods packed the previous season. The principal canneries, due to open two days ago, have not yet opened.

Hudson said the union would halt the fishing until an agreement could be made with the entire canning industry. He said the union men would not operate on the roads but would dump shrimp from the boats.

Today Deputy Sheriff Arthur de Jean of LaFourche parish joined sheriffs of the other parishes and said he would protect the fishermen on Lake Salvador next week after the current rough weather settles.

He said his deputies would ride the fishermens' boats "only for protection of the New Orleans market."

"We are not antagonistic to the union," he said.

PRICE OF COTTON ON 'BORDERLINE'

Drop To Lower Level Would Make Loans On New Crop Mandatory

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The agriculture department said today cotton prices were on the "borderline" of the level at which government price-bolstering loans on the new crop would be mandatory under provisions of the new farm law.

Officials said when the average price on the ten spot markets declined below 8.25 cents a pound, loans would be provided. The ten-market average dropped a point today to 8.26.

The law directs that loans be made to growers when the average is below 52 per cent of parity, the goal set up in the legislation. Officials said the parity price was 15.87 cents today.

Prices on the ten designated markets for middling 7-8 inch cotton averaged 8.39 cents a pound this week compared with 8.57 the previous week, and 10.65 for the corresponding week last year. The declines in spot were less than those of futures.

The bureau said the crop reporting board's crop forecast of 11,988,000 bales, based on conditions August 1, was larger than anticipated by traders.

Inquiries for raw cotton, the bureau said, were relatively few. The volume of sales, placed at 30,000 bales, was said to have reflected less than the usual seasonal increase. Sales in the previous week totaled 28,000 bales and in the comparable week last year 69,000 bales.

The bureau said picking and ginning of the new crop progressed rapidly in the southern portion of the belt. The weather was generally unfavorable early in the week, but helpful in the latter part.

Export buying of American cotton was again small. Exports totaled 49,000 bales compared with 55,000 in the corresponding week a year ago. Exports since August 1 were reported at 78,000 bales or about the same as in the corresponding period a year ago.

The bureau said domestic mill activity and textile production generally increased during recent weeks and the trend of business continued upward. Unfinished cotton cloth sales continued small.

SHORT COURSE THRONG RETURNS

Monroe Delegation Back From Successful Outing At Capital

The Monroe delegation comprising 150 who attended the 37th annual short course at Louisiana State university returned home Friday after having had a highly enjoyable time, and one which was filled with entertainment and opportunity to increase their knowledge along many lines.

Mrs. Jessie McQuiller, parish home demonstration agent, stated Saturday that there has never been a more diversified program than the one given this year.

A highlight of the week was the afternoon reception Thursday at the mansion when Governor and Mrs. Leche received the guests and at night at the university there was the annual ball for the visitors.

Two addresses were given that enrolled all others in interest. These were those by United States Senator Allen J. Ellender and Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Harry L. Brown, as well as the address by Dr Clarence Poe of New York, farm publication editor.

The attendance this year was in excess of 2,200, Mrs. McQuiller said. Mrs. Roy Welch of Colony Home Demonstration club, was elected director for northeast Louisiana of the state home demonstration council. There are five directors for the state and Mrs. Welch's selection met with general approval, Mrs. McQuiller said.

The next event of interest to the group here will be the wild life camp held near Pollock for a week beginning September 5. This is attended by a selective group and Ouachita parish can send from four to six boys and girls over 15 years of age, but their selection will be made through merit. Mrs. McQuiller will attend this camp as one of the supervisors.

THE DEEP DEEP SUMMER hovers over us, and summer social affairs are practically at a standstill. Monroe hostesses are entertaining in a leisurely fashion with strictest informality the keynote of all occasions. Straggling travelers continue to arrive home, while others are seeking cool retreats on the coast or in the mountains, to enjoy a respite from the August heat.

Bubbling over with beautiful memories of a never-to-be-forgotten trip, the group which left a few weeks ago for a cruise on the Caribbean sea returned to Monroe Tuesday. Members of the group were Mrs. Frank Stubbs, Miss Carolyn Stubbs, Miss Jane Terzia, Miss Louise Gray, Miss Jane Dawkins, Miss Elizabeth Glassell of Belcher, La., Mrs. Paul Fudickar and Mrs. Perry Maupin and Mrs. Will Spann of Vicksburg.

Santa Fe is a popular summering place this season, and both the C. D. Oakleys and the Alan Sugars are spending several weeks there, at Bishops lodge.

The A. K. Kilpatricks and the Clyde Browns returned last week from Chicago, where they have been vacationing at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

The Harry Prophits and Giradet Prophits are leaving today for a two weeks' holiday in Florida. They are accompanied by Mrs. Lela King, who just recently returned from a month's visit in Hollywood and Los Angeles, Calif.

Few Monroe residents who read the story "Stepbaby" by Roark Bradford, which appeared in a current magazine recently, realized that the lovable "Miss Mildred" in the story was none other than Mrs. Mildred Taylor of this city, who is in charge of the women's and professional projects of the WPA.

Mrs. Taylor has been associated with Roark Bradford over a period of years and her experiences in welfare work throughout the state, varying from the pathetic to the highly humorous, have frequently furnished inspiration for Mr. Bradford's stories.

An interesting bit of sentiment is attached to the handkerchief carried by Lera Whitten in her wedding Wednesday evening. The handkerchief, which belongs to Mrs. Percy Walker, was made 50 years ago by a cousin, and has been carried by no less than 16 brides, for "something old."

Many of the brides were members of Mrs. Walker's Sunday school class, and it has become a tradition among them that the brides who carry the handkerchief are destined for a happy marriage.

Several weeks ago, while interest in psychic subjects and table raising were popular topics of conversation, a group of boys, members of a certain fraternity in Monroe, gathered together in their fraternity house. The time was just at dusk, and the conversation leaned toward the weird and eerie. Blood-curdling tales were told.

One daring soul, more venturesome than all the rest, suggested that they try this table raising business. So, seating themselves around the table, they concentrated with all the ardent enthusiasm of youth. The table did not rise.

Perhaps it didn't like the light. Turning out the lights, they concentrated again. Still, the table did not rise. At last discouraged they relit the lights and, as a sort of farewell gesture to the experiment, placed their hands on the table and concentrated again. The table allegedly rose!

The experimenters gasped. Then all was quiet. One by one, they made their exit. Home seemed much more preferable.

Miss Winnie Graham Breard, who, by the way, was one of the loveliest of models at the style revue last week, is looking forward to a glamorous year in Switzerland, where she will attend school this winter. Miss Breard, who will sail on the Normandie for Switzerland, August 31, is being extensively entertained with farewell parties by her friends this week, ere her departure for foreign shores.

And now comes a suggestion from a harassed lover of peace that, along with the resuming of club activities this autumn, a society for the control of radio music be organized. With the right kind of by-laws and constitution, not to mention cooperation, radio enthusiasts might thus be not only properly restrained, but also be enabled to enjoy their particular brand of entertainment to the fullest.

The suggestion is not without its possibilities. Murder story hounds might gather together in some suburban home, where neighbors are few and far between, and enjoy without needless interruption by sensitive souls their favorite story hour.

Highbrow musicians might sit at home, where, with radio turned down exceedingly low, they might be soothed by the comforting strains of their own special symphonies.

Lovers of jazz might band themselves together for an evening of stirring jazz, where they could dance the night away—also at some secluded dwelling.

An oath would be required by each and every member whereby each would swear, forever and a day, to keep their radios tuned down very, very low.

Business Women To Resume Activities

Mrs. Modes And Mrs. Fritz Will Act As Hostesses At Gathering On Tuesday

Members of the Business and Professional Women's club, who have, contrary to all established precedents of the organization, discontinued their business meetings for the summer, are planning again to take up their activities in September. Only affairs of a strictly social nature have been enjoyed by the members this summer and on Tuesday evening, August 16, Mrs. C. H. Modes and Mrs. Edwin Fritz will be hostesses at a social gathering of the members at the club house on Jackson street. The affair promises to be something entirely novel in the way of entertainment, and members are looking forward to the occasion with keen interest.

The history of the Business and Professional Women's club is filled with human interest. It was organized in 1921, under the leadership of Miss Bower Weeks. The first meeting was held in Leon's cafe, which was at that time a popular eating place in Monroe.

Miss Julia Wiseman was elected president and served in that capacity for two years. Following the regime of Miss Wiseman, other presidents who served during the early years of the club were Miss Mary O'Kelly, Miss Mamie Masengill, who served the unexpired term of Miss Myrtle Rodgers, Miss Evelyn Barbour, Miss Taunton Wilkes, Miss Virginia Morgan and Mrs Henry Curtis.

Since that time members who have served as president have been Mrs. J. E. Doughtie, Mrs. Lewella Hayes, Mrs. R. N. Slator, Mrs. Gertrude Sisy, Mrs. May Johnson, Mrs. George Wesley Smith, Miss Mary O'Kelly, who has served in that capacity twice, and the present president, Miss Bernice Wright.

An outstanding achievement of the club was the establishing of a club home where the members have held their meetings and where rooms have been available for business women.

The first quarters of the club were in a little building at Wood and St. John streets, which was loaned to them by the city officials, who at all times gave the organization wholehearted cooperation.

Later the members purchased the present clubhouse on Jackson street, Of colonial architecture, and breathing an atmosphere of hospitality and restfulness, the spacious halls of this delightful home radiate a welcome of warmth and friendliness. A broad stairway leads from the main hall to the upper floor which boasts of five large bedrooms with baths.

The Business and Professional Women's club has since its organization in 1921, been one of the leading organizations in Monroe. Members have taken a prominent part in the civic affairs of the city and have at all times encouraged a spirit of cooperation among the business and professional women of the city.

The exhibit will be open from 3 to 4 p.m.

Mr. Bernie Wilensick left last week for Chicago, where he will be a guest at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Later, Mr. Wilensick will spend several weeks in Canada, returning to Monroe in the early autumn.

Wedding Of Miss Lera Whitten And John Elton Coon Solemnized Wednesday

Rites Held At Home Of Bridegroom's Brother

A wedding of much interest was solemnized Wednesday evening when Miss Lera Whitten and Mr. John Elton Coon were married at the home of the bridegroom's brother, Dr. Henson Coon, on Auburn avenue, with Rev. H. L. Johns, presiding elder of the Methodist Episcopal church, officiating.

Radiance roses intermingled with foxglove arranged in wicker baskets were placed throughout the reception suite, affording a colorful background for the wedding party.

The nuptial vows were said before the wide fireplace in the living room, banked with trailing English ivy and Radiance roses, and flanked on either side with tall standards bearing white waxen tapers.

The bride, a lovely brunette, wore a bridal frock of white chiffon, fashioned in classic simplicity, long sleeved and high at the neck line. Her veil of illusion was caught at the head in coronet fashion with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of tube roses tied with white tulle. For something old, she carried a point lace handkerchief, used by several generations of brides in her family.

The bridesmaid, Miss Mary Sue Wood of Conway, Ark., wore an aquamarine model of mousseline de soie, with short puffed sleeves and wide flaring skirt. She carried a bouquet of pink freezias tied with a pink taffeta ribbon.

The candles were lighted by Mrs. Florence Duval.

After the marriage ceremoney an informal reception was held and cakes and ices were served in the dining room, where the lace covered table was centered with a low glazed white pottery bowl filled with pink and white asters. Pink candles in crystal holders were placed at the ends of the table.

Theater Style Revue Proves Huge Success

Lovely Array Of Frocks And Flowers Exhibited In Glamorous Parade Of Fashion

There was a lovely array of frocks and flowers shown at the style revue Monday night at the Paramount theater, when all of feminine Monroe and a generous sprinkling of husbands viewed the latest creations in togs for autumn wear. All the ingenuity of couturiers and all the artistry of floral designing combined to make the affair one of outstanding brilliance and eclat.

Breath-taking frocks displayed by lovely models and exquisite flowers varying in hues from delicate pastel shades to vivid reds and oranges created an unforgettable panorama of beauty.

Evening frocks of shimmering satin, sport models with unmistakable Parisien chic and furs of seductive softness were all displayed in the glamorous parade of fashion.

A bridal procession, showing the last words in wedding party frocks, featured Miss Clara Virginia Terzia as the bride.

Miss Terzia wore an ivory satin wedding gown, simply made, with accordion pleats at the neck and sleeves. Her veil was a cloud of tulle, caught at the head with a coronet of seed pearls. Her bridal bouquet was fashioned of lilies of the valley, bauvardia and tulle.

Miss Carrie Jo Hill, as a bridesmaid, wore a frock of pink marquisette and taffeta. She carried a fan fashioned of larkspur with yellow daisies clustered at the base.

Miss Martha Jane Hill, another bridesmaid, wore a similar dress of aquamarine marquisette and taffeta, with fan of blue delphinium. A scalloped effect lent an air of daintiness to the delphinium fans, which was reflected in the flower arrangement in the hair.

Mary Wilton McHenry, demure little flower girl, wore a blue taffeta frock with bouquet of daisies, agapanthus and sweetheart roses, arranged in such a manner that there was no danger of losing or upsetting them.

Master Edward Seymour, Jr., was an ideal ringbearer, wearing a starched linen suit.

Wedding guests were Miss Maralyn Marshall, Miss Martha Wilton McHenry, Miss Kathleen Rolleigh and Miss Barrier Mae Walsworth.

Miss Marshall wore a net model of pink and blue, with a mixed bouquet nestling in her hair to complete an effective arrangement.

Miss McHenry wore a periwinkle blue mousseline de soie and carried a parasol fashioned of rainbow asters.

American beauty and two shades of blue net combined to form the bouffant skirt of Miss Rolleigh's gown. Her bouquet was made in cascade effect of red roses, with no ribbon.

Miss Walsworth wore pink slipper satin, with wide flaring skirt and gardenias at the shirred sleeves. She carried a muff of pink carnations.

Miss Mary Eleanor Coverdale modelled a dress of white organdy, striking in its simplicity with flaring skirt and short puffed sleeves. She wore a white sailor hat and carried a bouquet fashioned of cotton bolls, completing the perfect ensemble of a Dixie cotton queen.

Peggy and Jean Strauss, twins, modelled clever little flowered sun suits with matching hats. Each carried a bucket of fresh summer flowers.

Fall modes were shown in the second part of the revue, which opened with little Betty Jo Henry ushering in the football season carrying a football made of marigolds in Northeast Center's colors. She wore a sport outfit with white skirt and yellow and white twin sweater set.

Miss Magdaline Ammon's youthful loveliness was reflected in a three-piece wardrobe suit of steel blue, trimmed with gray fox. Her off-the-face hat was also blue and she wore a bouttoniere of pink bud carnations.

Miss Louise Morrison modelled a costume suit of ox-blood red with mink trim and a tiny doll hat of imported brown velour. A large corsage of gerbys added just the note of crispness needed to complete the striking ensemble.

Miss Sara Beth Farmer selected a new imported tweed with a red fox collar for spectator sports in that lovely new shade, cinnamon. Her hat was one of the new Robin Hood models, destined to know great popularity this winter. She wore a corsage of marigolds.

Glamorous was the word for Mrs. Ashley Whitley in a black wool suit trimmed with fox. The new jabot floral effect was achieved by a circular arrangement of gladioli. Completing her costume was a heart shaped imported velour beret, feather trimmed.

For cocktails, Mrs. Paul Byron wore maroon velvet with white lace trim. Her smart fur coat was brown caracul worn with a maroon felt doll hat. Clustered Peruvian lilies were worn with this ensemble.

Miss Doris Reid wore black, with that most exotic of flowers, the orchid. Her coat was a Frostman woolen with silver fox collar. The draped dress was fashioned of pressed mohair and a high crowned imported velour chapeau completed the outfit.

Miss Minnie Cole wore black velvet with bodice of red shot chiffon. She wore a cunning new doll hat and carried a silver fox fur. She wore a corsage of rubrum lilies, the perfect ensemble for the dinner date.

Miss Winnie Graham Breard was a lovely picture, wearing a tri-colored taffeta in rose, lavender and purple, made with shirred bodice and worn with or without shoe string straps. For a corsage she wore an orchid.

Miss Mary Frances Savage topped her evening dress with a skunk coat. Strikingly beautiful in the blood red frock which she modelled, she wore a corsage of white carnations and tube roses with hair arrangement of white carnations.

Red fox, the newest fashion in furs, made charming the evening coatee worn by Miss Ellis Jones. She wore a gown of ice blue satin trimmed with maroon velvet, also a strapless model. Blue agapanthus in her hair lent a touch of romance.

Novel arrangements were shown in flowers, featuring miniature boxing gloves filled with delphiniums, dalsies and roses, bearing the inscription, "Beginning the Battle of Life," appropriate for the new baby.

Another unusual arrangement in flowers was shown in the red gladioli and gerbys fashioned into an effect of bubbling champagne, a unique gift of flowers for a father, husband, sweetheart or son, when ill.

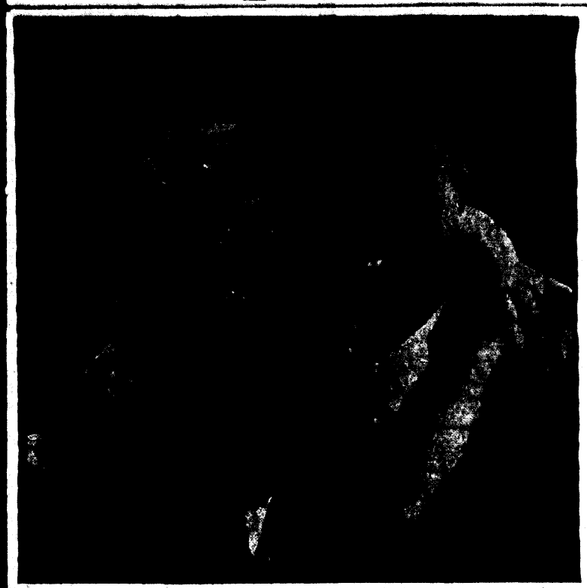
Rudolph Valentino Film Plays At Paramount Wednesday



Here we see the aftermath of the swellest knock-down, kiss and make-up romance for two. The two are no other than Priscilla Lane and Wayne Morris who do it for love and the movies in "Love Honor and Behave," which will be featured on the Capitol screen Tuesday.

The Paramount theater brings to Monroe the picture that has taken the country by storm. Its novelty and surprises will thrill everyone. Rudolph Valentino in "Son of the Sheik," with Vilma Banky and other old-timers, "Son of the Sheik" plays Wednesday and Thursday at the Paramount theater.

The indomitable spirit of the Lone Star state, which caused southerners to turn from the "lost cause" to the building up of the mighty empire of the American southwest, is glorified in Paramount's panoramic drama of the Reconstruction period, "The Texans," with Joan Bennett and Randolph Scott cast in the leading roles. The picture opens Friday at the Paramount theater.

'Son Of The Sheik' Here This Week

Cast Of Old Favorites Supports Once-Popular Star In Picture

THE GREATEST LOVER in motion picture history, who established his right to that designation in the silent film days, and whose position never has been challenged seriously since, will be seen once more on a Monroe screen, beginning Wednesday, when the Paramount theater presents a revival of "Son of the Sheik," last film to be made by the beloved Rudolph Valentino.

In this story of primitive emotions, hectic adventures and wild love in the desert, the actor whose great following was devoted to the point of fanaticism, plays two roles—a powerful sheik of the Sahara, and his handsome, reckless, strong-willed son. Set in the picturesque regions of rolling sands and daring horsemen, the story adopted from E. M. Hull's well-known novel of the same name, provides full opportunity for the camera to catch many colorful backgrounds, as well as the intensely dramatic moments and beautiful love scenes that brought everlasting fame to the star.

The film, directed by George Fitzmaurice, will be shown in its original silent version just as released in 1926, shortly after Valentino's tragic death, except that it will be accompanied by a complete sound track orchestration, arranged by James Bradford, to fit the period and the locales. Vilma Banky, celebrated glamour girl of another celluloid era, plays opposite Rudy in his role of the son, and Agnes Ayres, another star of not so long ago, is seen as the wife of the sheik.

In this era of swing musicals, screwball comedies, and a tendency toward stark realism in the more serious dramas, there have been innumerable requests in various sections of the country for the return of pure and unadulterated flights of fancy in colorful, imaginative, love stories. As a result of this wide demand, Artcinema Associates, Inc., recently decided to release "Son of the Sheik" (pronounced "shake," incidentally) for a few trial bookings. Practically everywhere the film was shown it smashed box office and attendance records and had to be held over a second or third week to take care of the thousands of patrons turned away the first week. Now it is being regularly released in first-run theaters all around the country.

Maybe it is the exception which proves the rule, but the old adage of show business, "Go away six months and they forget you," certainly has not been the case with Rudolph Valentino. His name still lives and his unique personality still breathes the same vitality from the screen in this era of the talkies as it did in the silents. The first of the Latin lovers had "that certain something" we designate as "it" or "yumph"—a subtle "something" capable of precipitating cardiac disarrangement on the distaff side. Furthermore, he was no mere glamour boy, but a talented actor. Some of his outstanding pictures were "The Four Horsemen," "Blood and Sand," "Monsieur Beaucaire," "A Painted Devil," "Cobra," and "The Eagle." "Son of the Sheik," generally acknowledged as his best film, was completed shortly before his untimely death on August 23, 1926, at the age of 31.

Valentino journeyed to New York from his native town of Castellaneto, Italy, in 1913. He found employment as a gardener on the country estate of Cornelius Bliss, Jr. After further landscape garden jobs in Central park, he became a bus boy in Churchill's restaurant, and then took up dancing for a livelihood, becoming the partner of Joan Sawyer, with whom he appeared in various night clubs. In 1915, he heard the call of Hollywood, but for nearly two years received only bit roles in big ballroom scenes. In September, 1917, he played the leading masculine role in "Once to Every Woman," but it was not until 1921, when he appeared in "The Four Horsemen," that he took the public by storm and immediately became a leading star. In March, 1924, Rudy signed a contract with United Artists and insured his life for the benefit of that company for $200,000. He married Jean Acker in 1919, and six months after their divorce in Paris in 1922, he married Winifred Hudnut, otherwise known at Natacha Rambova. This marriage likewise ended in a Paris divorce in December, 1925.

Valentino once expressed himself as having two principal wishes in life. One was to become a father—which he never did—and the other was to die young, at the height of his career.

The tragedy of being marooned on a South seas island is considerably lightened for Ray Milland when beautiful Dorothy Lamour proves the island's only other inhabitant in "Her Jungle Love," the Paramount technicolor romance playing today and Monday at the Capitol theater. Lynne Overman and J. Carrol Naish are also in the cast.

Helen Hayes and Gary Cooper in a scene from "A Farewell to Arms," the romance hit which plays its return engagement Wednesday at the Capitol theater. The film, one of the greatest romances ever to be filmed, tells the story of a love which grew against a background of the horrors of war.

John Beal, Maureen O'Sullivan and Wallace Beery in "Port of Seven Seas" play Monday and Tuesday at the Paramount theater.

Claire Trevor and Michael Whalen portray heart-catching roles in the exciting new dramatic hit, "Walking Down Broadway," playing Thursday at the Capitol theater.

'Her Jungle Love' Plays At Capitol

AN alluring and mysterious island in the South seas, filmed for the first time in breath-taking Technicolor, forms the background for the new Ray Milland-Dorothy Lamour romance, "Her Jungle Love," which Paramount will present today at the Capitol theater.

In the same spirit as the spectacular "Jungle Princess" of a season ago, "Her Jungle Love" tells a romantic story of a handsome young aviator who is cast away on a deserted South seas island only to discover that its only other inhabitant is a lovely girl who has never before laid eyes on a white man.

Miss Lamour, fresh from her success in "Hurricane," will be seen as the native girl whose love for the young aviator runs afoul of a half-crazed native potentate, played by J. Carrol Naish, veteran of mysterious Oriental roles. She and Milland have to fight for their love, and later for their very lives, against furious native tribes who know white men only as "devils" come to take their island away from them. They escape only through the intercession of one of those miracles which make the south Pacific deserve its reputation of mystery and intrigue.

Binoculars were invented in 1608.

AMERICANS TAKE LEAD FIRST DAY OF TRACK MEET

U. S. Runners And Field Athletes Well Ahead Of Germany's Best

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—(AP)—America's well-balanced array of track and field athletes established a clear lead today over Germany's best, most of them members of the 1936 Olympic team, in the first of the two-day competition in Olympic stadium.

The United States team, taking six firsts and as many seconds in the ten events, scored 58 points to the German's 49. The invaders won five of the six track events and captured the two top positions in the pole vault. As expected, the Germans showed their strength in the field events.

A crowd of 60,000 saw the meet open with a surprise victory by Germany's Rudolf Harbig over the American pair of Charlie Bectham and Howie Borck in the 800-meter run and end with a record-smashing performance by the United States quartet in the 400-meter relay.

The American team of Wilbur Greer, Mozel Ellerbe, Clyde Jeffery and Ben Johnson reeled off the 400 meters in 40 seconds flat, only three-tenths of a second short of the world record established by a United States four in the last Olympics. The time clipped six-tenths of a second off the old German mark. The Germans also were under the former record with a clocking of 40.3.

Earlier in the afternoon, Johnson and Ellerbe had run one, two, respectively, in the 100-meter dash with the former Columbia university ace flashing across the line in 10.5 seconds.

The most colorful event from the spectators' viewpoint was the 10,000-meter race, won by Eino Pentti of New York, only Olympic athlete on the American team, in 32:11.2. J. Errol Vaughan of New York was fifty yards behind at the finish with Walter Schoenrock, first of the Germans, another 200 yards back.

Wisconsin's Chuck Fenske, winner of the 1500 meters, stepped the distance in 3:53.8. Getting off to a slow start with Blaine Rideout and the Germans, Harry Mehlhose and Helmut Koertner, Fenske ran third throughout the first 800 meters, speeded up with the rest during the next 400 and then took the lead and won easily.

Rideout apparently had second place won when the Germans made a gallant bid in the last 200 meters. While Koertner fought it out with the Texan 80 meters from the finish, Mehlhose came from behind to beat both with third going to Koertner.

The 110-meter hurdles was a walkaway for Fred Wolcott of Rice institute, who was clocked in 14.1 seconds. Allan Tolmich of Wayne university was five-tenths of a second slower.

That the Americans would win the pole vault with little opposition had been expected as also were Germany's victories in the hammer throw, discus and hop-step and jump. America's pole-vaulting pair of Cornelius Warmerdam of San Francisco and George Varoff of Oregon finished one, two. The former cleared 13 feet 11 3-4 inches and the latter, 13 feet 7 1-8 inches.

Germany's Erwin Blask, who recently bettered Pat Ryan's 25-year-old world record, won the hammer throw with a heave of 187 feet 8 inches. Karl Hein, the Olympic champion, was second while Irving Folwartshny and Bill Lynch, the American entries, were outdistanced.

Willie Schroeder fell far short of his world record in the discus but his distance of 167 feet was good enough to beat the American pair of Phil Leby and Pete Zagar.

TRAVERS STAKE EASILY WON BY THANKSGIVING

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 13. — (AP) — Mrs. Parker Corning's Thanksgiving easily won the 69th running of the Travers Stake today, defeating eight of the best 3-year-olds in training over a mile and a quarter at Saratoga.

Eddie Arcaro brought Thanksgiving home five lengths in front of Walter M. Jefford's Jolly Tar after setting all the pace. William Woodward's Fighting Fox was another half-length back, a length in front of Maxwell Howard's highly regarded Stagehand. Among the also-rans were Nedayr, Bull Lea and Cravat, which ran one, two, three, respectively, in the Arlington classic.

Thanksgiving covered the distance in 2:03 3-5 to pay 4 to 1.

PEL PITCHER WINS TWO

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Young Joe Dobson tried the "iron man" role for the Pelicans today and came through triumphantly, setting down the Memphis Chicks 3 to 1 and 9 to 0.

The New Orleans rookie pitched steadily in the first game, allowing four hits, while the Pels rode in on three runs scored off Sauerbrun in the first inning. Paynick held the Birds to two bingles the rest of the way.

Dobson shut out the Chicks with two safeties in the nightcap. After New Orleans had scored eight runs in the third frame, rain began to fall and Memphis "stalled," hoping for a postponement. But the seven innings were played. Dobson helped his cause with four hits of his own in the double bill.

ARMSTRONG AIDED BY POSTPONEMENT OF FIGHT A WEEK

Experts Believe Ambers Was At Peak When Bout Was Rained Out

NEW YORK, Aug. 13. — (AP) — Aided by a week's postponement, Henry Armstrong meets Lou Ambers in Madison Square Garden Wednesday night with a good chance of belting Lou out from under his lightweight crown and adding the title to his featherweight and welterweight laurels.

When the negro and the champion appeared at the Polo Grounds last Wednesday night it was a more or less open secret that Hammerin' Henry was far below his normal form. At the same time Ambers had worked himself into what Manager Al Weill declared was the "absolutely finest" shape of his career.

Rain forced postponement and an inside arena for the bout, swung the odds back heavily to Armstrong's favor and on Broadway today you could get 3 to 1 on Ambers.

For the best minds of the cauliflower industry think Lou will have a hard time keeping at the physical and mental peak he had reached last week. Armstrong, on the other hand, admitted he needed a little more work.

Moving the fight indoors should help Promoter Mike Jacobs. Only a few thousand were in the Polo Grounds when the rains came. He speaks optimistically of hitting $100,000 in the Garden but $75,000 seems a better guess.

Henry is a quiet fellow not given to shooting off his mouth but he is very sure he will catch Lou somewhere from the seventh to the tenth rounds and knock him stiff.

Ambers says he means to slow Armstrong up with uppercuts to the chin in the opening rounds and then, as soon as the negro starts to backpedal, move in and cut him up badly.

Barney Ross sang this song before he dropped this title to Henry last May. It is the same sort of thing Petey Sarron said before Henry belted him out and won the featherweight title. It is the thing any fighter will say about Henry—he must be clipped hard and often to be beaten.

REGATTA SLATED IN DALLAS TODAY

Outboard Racers Will Compete In Ten-Event Program On White Rock Lake

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Racing motors will roar on White Rock lake here tomorrow as one of the finest fields of speedboat drivers assembled in the south this year battles for trophies and cash in the tenth annual regatta of the Dallas Boat club.

Styled the southwestern championships, the ten-event program is cosponsored with the boat club by the junior chamber of commerce for its charity fund and approved by the National Outboard association.

The first race is scheduled for 2 p.m.

Thirty-five drivers from Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, including world, national and sectional titleholders in various events, had filed their entries today and regatta officials said many other drivers probably would appear without advance warning.

The class B hydroplane race has drawn 15 drivers, including Herman Mayhew, Tom Schnitizus, Jack Barbee and Bill Crist, all of Dallas; Morris Wilson, Eddie Willard and Morris Jones, all of Fort Worth; Sam Gill of Blanco and Charley Green of Austin.

The class C hydroplane race is pointed out as the probable classic on the card. This one will bring together such outstanding stars as Buddy Eeuter and Henry Taubert of San Antonio; Herman Mayhew of Dallas; Bob Milam, Jack Tanner, Herbert Winks and Allen Smith, all of Shreveport, La., and R. H. Campbell of Austin.

NASHVILLE BASEBALL FAN NOT UNDER BUT ON TOP OF DOGHOUSE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Charles "Pee-Wee" Lincoln, 21, not only was "in the doghouse" tonight—he was on top of it.

A couple of weeks ago Lincoln, betting with Charlie Hinton, a friend, said if the Nashville Vols in the Southern association didn't win three of five games in a recent series with Little Rock, he'd sit on top of a certain hot-dog stand for 30 days and nights.

Came the series. The Vols won two of the five games.

Today "Pee-Wee" mounted the "dog-house," draped himself comfortably in a deck chair under an umbrella, turned on his radio and electric fan and made ready to pay off.

"I still think the Vols will win the pennant," he mused as Hinton, as per agreement, climbed up to the loser with food.

RIGGS AND HUNT REACH FINALS OF TENNIS TOURNEY

Women's Singles And Men's Doubles Also To Be Decided Today

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Bobby Riggs of Chicago, top-seeded favorite, and Joe Hunt of Los Angeles, current king of the "upsetters," qualified today to meet in the finals of the Eastern Grass Courts Tennis championship at the Westchester Country club.

Tomorrow's meeting between the two will be about their 40th since they broke into top-flight tennis. Riggs breezed through to a 6-3, 6-2, 6-4 final victory over 17-year-old Jack Kramer of Montebello, Calif., while Hunt downed the veteran Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., 6-0, 6-4, 6-2.

The women's singles final between Alice Marble of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Dorothy May Bundy of Santa Monica, Calif., first and third, respectively, in the national ranking, and the men's doubles final, featuring the No. 1 team of Don Budge and Gene Mako, also will be decided tomorrow.

Miss Marble and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Cambridge, Mass., the United States and Wimbledon champions, annexed the women's doubles crown today, defeating the British team of Kay Stammers and Margot Lumb, 6-4, 6-1.

Hunt, sixth in the national ranking, today gained his second victory over a player seeded above him. Yesterday he routed second-seeded Frank Parker and today he beat Allison, No. 4 on the list.

Riggs, loafing along the baseline most of the time, had too much experience and too good strategy for the youthful Kramer.

Budge and Mako went into the doubles final by beating Russell Bobbitt of Atlanta and Frank Guernsey, Jr., of Orlando, Fla., 6-3, 6-4, 6-4. The southerners tried for everything and occasionally made some surprising returns. Their opponents tomorrow will be Hunt and Sidney B. Wood, Jr., former Davis Cup player from New York. They conquered the former national champions, Allison and John Van Ryn, 4-6, 8-6, 9-7, 6-4.

The Rayne Rice Birds had an easy time with Opelousas, shutting out the Indians 3 to 0. Navie gave the Tribe but two base hits while his mates collected eight.

BILL BURKE EVEN WITH LAFFOON IN CLEVELAND OPEN

Each Has Total Of 210 Strokes; Vio Ghezzi Second With 212

CLEVELAND, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Big Bill Burke, the 1931 National Open champion, cheered the home folks here today by shooting a 34-35—69 in the $10,000 Cleveland Open Golf tournament to take a place beside Ky Laffoon of Chicago at the head of the parade.

Burke's 69 was just two strokes better than Laffoon's even par 71 and gave him a 210 equally as neat as Laffoon's. Burke, now pro at the Country club here, won the United States Open in 1931 after a 72-hole playoff with George von Elm at Toledo, O.

Two strokes behind Laffoon and Burke was Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., who shot a three-under par 68 today for a total of 212.

Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., finished with 71 for 214.

Three strokes away from the leaders, with the final set for tomorrow, were E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Chicago, and Jim Foulis, who equalled the course record with a 67 yesterday.

Harrison had a 71 today and Foulis shot four birdies on the last five holes to take a 69. This gave Foulis, Hinsdale, Ill., pro and grandson of another Jim who was United States Open champion in 1896, a total of 213 along with Harrison.

Foulis' record equalling 67 of yesterday was equalled today by Jimmy Hines of Great Neck, L. I. Hines' round, however, left him bracketed in the group with 215 scores, including Bill Kaiser of Louisville, Ky., Ray Mangrum, of Oakmont, Pa., and Ralph Guldahl of Madison, N. J., the National Open champion. Guldahl finished in even par figures.

Willie Goggin of San Bruno, Calif., had a hot 33 for the outgoing nine today, but took a 37 on the return trip for a 70. This gave him a 214 total, four strokes behind the leaders.

Don R. Boyd, an amateur from Akron, O., provided one of the two best shots of the day when his second shot on the 18th, a try of about 150 yards, rolled into the cup for an eagle two. Terl Johnson, of Norristown, Pa., pulled the same stunt from about the same distance on the third hole earlier in the day.

Among amateurs, Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati and Toby Lyons of Cambridge Springs, Pa., led with totals of 218. Fischer shot a 71 today, Lyons a 74.

Johnny Revolta of Chicago was tied with Snead and Goggin at 214. At 216 strokes off the pace, were Ted Turner of Clementon, N. J., Harry Cooper of Chicopee, Mass., and Denny Shute of Boston.

Leo Wilcox of Marion, O., Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Y., and Tony Penna of Dayton, O., were tied at 217. Sam Parks, Jr., of Pittsburg and Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., had 218.

AUSTRALIANS TAKE LEAD OVER JAPS

MONTREAL, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Australia's Davis cup team, checked by a split in the opening singles matches yesterday, took the lead over Japan today in the North American zone final when its doubles team of Jack Bromwich and Adrian Quist whipped Fumiteru Nakano and Jiro Yamagishi, 6-2, 6-4, 6-3.

This triumph, giving the Aussies a 2-1 lead, made it virtually certain they will oppose Germany in the interzone series at Boston next weekend. They need to win only one of tomorrow's concluding singles encounters to take the series. Quist and Yamagishi, winners of the first singles encounters, will meet in the opening match and Bromwich and Nakano will clash in the other.

Quist's brilliant net work gave the Australians their rather easy victory today. More than making up for his 19-year-old partner's erratic hitting, Quist blasted the Japanese off the courts with bullet-like smashes and neatly placed volleys.

Leonard Schwartz, spare member of the Australian team, overpowered Yasumine Kuramitsu, Japanese spare, 6-4, 6-4, in an exhibition match.

BATHERS OUTHIT WHITE SOX BUT DROP GAME, 5-3

Local Club Puts Across Majority Of Runs In Last Two Innings

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 13.—(Special)—The Monroe White Sox chalked up their eleventh consecutive victory last night at the expense of the Hot Springs Bathers, winning 5 to 3.

A home run by Manager Doug Taitt with Glenn Murray on base in the eighth inning proved to be the decisive blow. With the Monroe club trailing 3 to 2 at the beginning of the eighth inning, Murray, first up, singled to center and Taitt followed with a home run to score two runs and enable Monroe to take a 4 to 3 lead.

The Sox added another run in the ninth when Bobby Schang, Monroe's diminutive catcher, singled to right and went to third on a sacrifice bunt by Tom Perry, and scored when Grimes, Bather first baseman, threw wild to third in an effort to catch Schang.

It was some daring base running by Schang and an error by Grimes.

Monroe scored first in the second inning, but the Bathers came right back in their half of the second to score two and take the lead on Grimes' home run after Costley had doubled. The White Sox tied it up in the third and the tie was not broken until the last of the seventh when, with two out, Conway bobbled Barnett's grounder. It looked bad for the Monroe aggregation with Speers pitching beautifully, but the Sox came through with two in the eighth to take a lead that they never relinquished.

Frank Narbut started for the Sox and allowed nine hits and three runs until he was relieved by Tom Perry, Monroe's southpaw, with two out and two men on base in the seventh inning. Perry hurled hitless ball during the remainder of the game and received credit for his ninth win of the season against one loss.

The game was enlivened at bit when John Yelovic and "Hank" Taylor were ejected from the park for objecting too strenuously against Umpire Edwards decisions.

Glenn Murray led the Monroe attack with three singles and Taitt got a double and a home run in three trips to the plate. Grimes paced the Bathers with a single, a double and a home run in four times up, and Brown collected two singles.

The Sox and the Bathers play Sunday at 3 o'clock. Manager Taitt announced that "Red" Andrews would probably pitch for Monroe and "Lefty" Schaeffer is scheduled to hurl for Hot Springs.

M'CONNELL, ABELL REACH SEMI-FINALS

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Doug Kenna of Jackson, Miss., almost eliminated Jimmy McConnell, topseeded in the boys' division of the City tournament, but dropped a bitter match today, 6-1, 5-7, 6-3.

Down one set at 6-1 yesterday, Kenna abandoned his slugging tactics when the contest resumed today and bewildered McConnell with a patball defense to take the second.

He made a good bid for the third and deciding set, but McConnell recovered to take the match. The New Orleans boy meets Thomas Wicker tomorrow for the boys' title.

McConnell and Nelson Abell of Monroe, La., defeated Kenna and Frank Baker, 6-1, 6-2, to go into the boys' doubles semi-finals. Thomas Stokes and Louis Schopfer will meet tomorrow for the junior singles title.

CUB ATTACK PROVES TOO MUCH FOR BUCS

CHICAGO CLOSES IN ON NATIONAL LEAGUE LEADERS

Bruins Win With Power; Dizzy Dean Unable To Complete Game

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs unloaded a powerhouse attack again today to crush the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates for the second straight time, 11 to 5, although the great Dizzy Dean and his $185,000 arm failed to last through the full nine innings.

It was the second time in a row Dizzy has been unable to go the route. But he received credit for his sixth win as the Cubs, hot on the heels of the Pirates and Giants, blasted out 17 hits and scored in all but three innings.

As a result the Pirates lost a half game to the second place New York Giants, who split a double header at Philadelphia and are now five games off the pace. The Cubs closed their gap to half a game behind New York.

The Pirates plastered Dizzy with five hits and four runs in the seventh inning, driving him out of the box.

Dizzy, who had not worked since two weeks ago today when the Phillies disposed of him in five innings, used his curves and floaters judiciously to hold Pittsburgh to five hits for six innings before he blew up.

GIANTS, PHILLIES BREAK EVEN

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The New York Giants looked like a million dollars for 14 innings today, but after that they dropped to about ten cents worth and wound up with an even break with the Phillies in a double header.

The split, coupled with Pittsburgh's defeat by Chicago, boosted the New Yorkers to within five games of the National league pace.

King Carl Hubbell hurled a four-hitter and his mates collected 15 hits to take the opener 11 to 1. Cliff Melton pitched shutout ball for five innings of the nightcap, then the Phils rallied to pull out a 4 to 2 victory.

Hubbell chalked up his 13th victory in the opener. Bill Cissell hit a homer and two singles, driving in four runs.

BEES, DODGERS DIVIDE TWO

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The Bees held onto fifth place in the National league today by splitting a double header with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Bill Posedel's steady eight-hit pitching and a 12-hit attack featured by Dolph Cammilli's two triples and a double, gave the Dodgers an 8 to 1 victory in the opener. In the nightcap, the Bees won out 4 to 3 in the ninth inning, when Johnny Cooney's double and Johnny Hudson's error let Pinch-hitter Karl Maggert score with the deciding run. Three of the Bees' runs in this game scored on errors.

Manager Burleigh Grimes announced the Brooklyns were playing the second game under protest after the fifth inning, when Joe Stripp purposely dropped a soft liner and turned it into a double play with the bases loaded and none out. Grimes claimed it was an infield fly.

Bob Johnson Of Philadelphia Gets 25th Circuit Blow Of Season

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The Yankees had another slugging party at the expense of the Philadelphia Athletics today, banging out 14 hits for an 11 to 4 victory.

Rookie Steve Sundra, going the route for the first time this year, held the A's to seven hits, one of them Bob Johnson's 25th homer of the season with the bases empty in the eighth inning.

George Selkirk, who clouted three four-baggers in yesterday's double header, added another today, and Tommy Henrich snapped out of his slump with a three-run round-tripper in the seventh. The homers boosted the Yankee total in this department for the year to 117.

Nelson Potter, who pitched the first 6 1-3 frames, gave up all the Yankee runs and was charged with the defeat.

TRIBE, SOX SPLIT PAIR

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—(AP)—For the second successive afternoon the Cleveland Indians and Chicago's White Sox broke even in a double header, the Tribe taking the opener, 13 to 4, but losing the second, 2 to 1.

Cleveland scored nine runs on seven hits and two walks to start the first game and never lost the lead behind the pitching of Bob Feller, who gave up seven hits in his 12th victory this season.

Johnny Allen permitted the Sox only five hits in the second game but lost a tight battle with Thornton Lee, who held the Indians scoreless until the ninth inning. Rip Radcliff's double with two men on bases in the opening frame gave the Sox their two runs. It was Allen's fourth loss compared with 13 wins.

The Helena Seaporters held second place safe Saturday night in the Cotton States league, downing Greenwood, 4 to 1, while Pine Bluff trimmed El Dorado, 5 to 4. Monroe defeated Hot Springs, 5 to 3, and Clarksdale nosed out Greenville, 7 to 6.

Helena and Greenwood went ten innings before the Seaporters stowed the game away with three scores in the final stanza.

El Dorado's hold on third place wobbled as the Lions bowed to Pine Bluff while Monroe's fast charging White Sox took another victory. Again a last-inning rally was effective as Pine Bluff added a tally in the ninth to drop the Lions.

Monroe was outhit by Hot Springs, nine to seven, but closed fast to beat the Bathers in the final

LOMBARDI HOLDS LEAD IN BATTING

Arky Vaughan Latest To Challenge Pounding Cincinnati Catcher

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Arky Vaughan, Pittsburgh's pounding shortstop, is the latest to challenge Ernie Lombardi's National league hitting leadership, but the Cincinnati catcher keeps right on at the head of the parade.

Vaughan, who won the 1935 championship, is one of the reasons for the Pirates' surge this season. He collected eight hits in 16 batting chances during the week ended with Friday's games to wind up with a batting average of .335, a seven-point rise from the previous week. This boosted him into second place, while last week's runner-up, Wally Berger of the Reds, slumped all the way to fourth.

Lombardi, however, enjoyed a bigger lead than ever. The Reds' clouter hit safely nine times in 27 trips to the plate to hold a .353 mark and an edge of 18 points over the pack. Last week his margin was only 15 points.

The top-ten list in the hitting race underwent a general shakeup during the week, with Buck McCormick of the Reds regaining third place with a .334 mark, three better than his teammate, Berger.

Ducky Medwick's nose-dive continued and the Cardinals' walloper dropped to fifth with .329, trailed by Jojo Moore of the Giants, with .325; Mel Ott, Giants, with .322; Ival Goodman, Cincinnati, .321; Stan Hack, Chicago, .320; and Lloyd Waner of the Pirates and Debs Garms, Boston youngster, deadlocked at .312.

McCormick took over the lead in two-base hits, with 31 to 30 for Hershel Martin of the Phillies, and climbed into a second-place tie with Medwick in driving in runs. Each had 78, compared to Ott's leading mark of 85.

Ott held the lead in run-scoring, with 86 to 84 for Goodman, and boosted his way into a tie with Goodman for the home-run leadership, at 27 each.

McCormick retained the lead in base hits, with 147 to 132 for Hack; Johnny Mize of the Cardinals still led in clouting triples, with 12 to Goodman's 10, and Hack and the Phillies' George Scharein remained tied in the base-stealing lead, each with 11.

Cy Blanton's record of nine victories and one defeat topped the pitching department, with Mace Brown, his Pittsburgh teammate, taking second on 13 wins and five setbacks.

TRAVIS TIED FOR LEAD WITH FOXX

Both Batting .346; Averill And Steinbacher Second, Each With .341

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The race for the American league batting championship may be headed for a photo-finish if the recent decline among the pace setters continues.

Jimmy Foxx, the Boston slugger, took advantage of Earl Averill's slump to grab the lead for a week, but semi-official averages of Friday disclosed Cecil Travis of Washington, who has been jockeying about second and third positions for some time, had darted into a first place tie with Foxx.

Each had a mark of .346. Just five points behind were Cleveland's Averill and Hank Steinbacher of Chicago, each with .341.

Travis shared the top spot despite a loss of one point over his last week's figure. Foxx, meanwhile, fell off eight and Averill 10 more. Steinbacher's mark did not change since he has been out of action because of an injury.

Others in the "high ten" were Hal Trosky, Cleveland, .336; Joe DiMaggio, New York, and Rip Radcliff, Chicago, .331; Buddy Myer, Washington, .330; George McQuinn, St. Louis; Joe Cronin, Boston, .328; and Jackie Hayes, Chicago, .328. McQuinn, rookie first baseman, rode into the select class on a consecutive hitting streak that had reached 20 games.

Few changes occurred among the departmental leaders. Hank Greenberg, the Detroit powerhouse, maintained his home run lead at 38 and had scored 93 runs. Foxx still set the pace in runs batted in with 109, but the lead in hits returned to Washington's Buddy Lewis, who advanced his total to 141 after being displaced last week by Red Rolfe of New York.

Ben Chapman tied his boss, Joe Cronin, for the doubles lead at 30. Jeff Heath of Cleveland, had 13 triples and Frank Crosetti of New York, had 17 stolen bases.

Johnny Allen of Cleveland still headed the pitching parade with 13 wins and three setbacks. Red Ruffing, New York, had 15 and 4.

Washington held two first positions in the team figures, leading in batting with .293 and in double plays with 115. St. Louis was tops in team fielding with .975.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Cotton prices softened here today after an early advance under week-end liquidation and selling on continued favorable weather over most of the belt. The close was steady 1 point net higher to 2 lower.

Initial trades were unchanged to 6 points up in response to improved cables and early reports of renewed rain in parts of the growing region.

The official forecast, however, showed only showers in parts of the central belt and early buyers took profits in the last hour.

October contracts closed at 8.24 bid, December at 8.33, January 8.34, March 8.35 bid, May at 8.39 and July 8.42 bid.

The turnover yesterday was 28,350 bales and open commitments 383,450 bales, a decrease of 400 bales from the previous day.

Exports today were 10,976 bales.

Cotton futures closed steady net 1 point higher to 2 points lower.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The wheat market got enough buying support early today to keep prices on a steady to slightly higher basis.

Low prices tended to minimize further selling for the time being, but continual stressing of big supplies and the unsettled securities market and foreign political situations offered little buying stimulus, some short covering was in evidence.

Opening 1-4 off to 1-8 higher, Sept. 61 7-8-62, Dec. 64 1-8-3-8, wheat later rose fractionally. Corn started 1-4 down to 1-4 up, Sept. 51-51 1-4, Dec. 47 7-8-48.

Wheat closed 1-4-1-3 lower compared with yesterday's finish, September 61 5-8, December 63 7-8-64, but corn was 3-8-5-8 higher, Sept. 51 5-8-3-4, Dec. 48 1-2-5-8. Oats were unchanged to 1-8 lower.

Livestock

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—(AP)—(U. S. Dept. Agr.)—Receipts of both cattle and hogs were sharply reduced for the week-end market and prices remained steady at the low point of the week. The late top on hogs was $8.75, that price being $1.50 under the recent high time. Lambs sold steady at the close, with top on fat Washington lambs at $8.50.

Hogs 2,000 including 1,900 direct; supply on sale too small to make a quotable market; all grades nominally steady; quotable top 8.70; shippers took none; 500 holdovers; compared week ago good and choice barrows and gilts 75-1.00 lower; light and medium weight sows at comparable decline; heavy kinds 60-65 off.

Cattle 200; calves 100; compared Friday last week; Strictly choice and prime medium weight and weighty steers and common and medium grass offerings to killers 15-25 lower; good and choice fed steers and yearlings, particularly kinds averaging under 1,200 lbs. 25-50 lower; best yearlings 12.25, prime mixed steer and heifer yearlings 11.50 on the low day; prime medium weight steers at low time 12.50; heifers mostly 25 lower but market very irregular on medium and good grade offerings; week's top 10.65; common and medium grass heifers and fat cows about steady, cutter and low-cutter cows strong to 15 higher; bulls 15-25 higher; late top weighty sausage bulls 6.75; vealers 50 higher, closing top 10.75.

Sheep 4,000 including 2,000 direct; for week ending Friday 11,100 directs; compared Friday last week: Spring lambs around steady to 15 lower; yearlings 25-35 off; sheep and feeding lambs little changed; native slaughter ewes 3.25-3.50.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Stocks easy; leaders drift. Bonds lower; Czechoslovak loans sag. Curb narrow; gold shares edge forward. Foreign exchange quiet; sterling and franc level out. Cotton barely steady; liquidation, favorable weather. Sugar closed. Coffee closed.

CHICAGO: Wheat easy; hedging pressure. Corn firm; short covering. Cattle nominally steady. Hogs nominally steady.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP)—For the sixth consecutive session stocks declined in today's market, many leaders drifting down fractions to a point or so. Some motors and steels did better at the close.

While most in Wall Street felt that the recent European war tension may have been exaggerated, brokers attributed falling share trends largely to this influence.

Not overlooked, however, was the continued scramble for gold overseas where the price of the yellow metal in London this morning was boosted to a record high. At the same time foreign currencies offered some resistance to the dollar climb of the past week. The principal European securities markets were closed.

The apparently growing rift between Germany, Czechoslovakia, France and Italy, with the tightening of frontier restrictions and expanding military movements on the borders of these countries, served to accentuate nervousness over a possible flare-up and keep the majority of traders in neutral territory.

The ticker tape loafed during the greater part of the proceedings and the drying up of offerings was encouraging to those analysts who hold that the week's set-back was due mainly to a "correction" of the sharp mid-year upswing. Transfers of approximately 400,000 shares were about one-half last Saturday's total.

Bonds and commodities shifted over a narrow range, with no particular pressure evident in any category.

Stocks lacking rising steam included Goodyear, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, North American, Anaconda, Kennecott, General Electric, duPont, Johns-Manville, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and Great Northern.

Curb shares traced an irregular pattern in slow dealings.

Rails kept fairly well on balance as transportation observers predicted that leading carriers, if forward industrial momentum is maintained, would extend the cash improvement which got under way early in June.

Estimates from steel centers such as Pittsburgh and Chicago were for an advance in mill operations in these districts next week.

PRE-MED CLASS WILL GO AHEAD

Northeast Center Graduates Plan Careers In L. S. U. And Elsewhere

Members of the pre-medical class of Northeast Center are all planning to continue their studies this fall, it was announced Saturday. The members of the class are: Albert Cerniglia, Mary Pindell Cordell, Jack Baldwin, Ralph Simpson, Frances Smith and Jimmy Guerriero. All will enter Louisiana State university with the exception of Miss Cordell who will enter Baylor university hospital at Dallas, Tex., to train as a nurse, and Ralph Simpson who will continue his studies in post-graduate work at Northeast Center.

Simpson has spent the summer in Grand Isle where he completed nine hours in credits in pre-medical study at the L. S. U. biological station there, making a collection of deep sea specimens which will be preserved in the museum at Northeast Center.

A number of social events have been held the past week for this group of members of the 1938 class of Northeast Center. On Tuesday, Miss Cordell entertained the class and Miss Katheryn Wolfe, instructor, at her home at Bosco. On Thursday the class members were entertained at a progressive party at the home of Miss Frances Smith, with luncheon at the home of Miss Wolfe, tea at the home of Jimmy Guerriero, and supper at the home of Ralph Simpson in Bastrop. Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Colvert and Mrs. J. H. Cordell attended the luncheon and Mrs. Colvert and Mrs. Cordell were participants at the tea at the Guerriero home, while Mrs. Cordell was a guest with the class of 1938 at the Simpson supper in Bastrop.

Miss Wolfe stated that the pre-medical class has been successful ever since it was established, and mentioned some of the graduates. Among these are Dr. Harold Wilenzick, who graduated from Northeast Center and is a dentist in Monroe; Dr. Wood Scott is another graduate who is a successful physician; Walter Culpepper is now in his last year at Tulane medical school. Others who are continuing their medical studies after having completed courses at Northeast Center are Charles Mosely and B. Trichel.

Miss Wolfe said that the entering class in pre-med and the class of 1939 will be larger than ever and a highly successful year's work is in prospect.

COMPLETE RED CROSS FIRST AID

Above are shown in the back row, left to right: Parker McComb, class instructor; Mrs. N. Simmons, Mrs. Mary Alexander, Miss Jane Preaus, Mrs. B. L. Brantley, Mrs. Rubye Holloway, Ben Bicknell, manager of the Paramount; second row (in front) Miss Myrtle Cole, Miss Louise Liles, Miss Alys Holder, Mrs. Ruth Pribble, Miss Vada Ferguson and Mrs. Bernice Fleming. The course was initiated June 3 and instruction was given twice weekly for one and one-half hours at Red Cross headquarters. Parker McComb and Rufus Henry instructed the class, giving 16 hours of volunteer service. The class received special lectures by Dr. Marvyn Johnson and Dr. Scott Hamilton. Final tests were given July 28. The class attained a high average and are well trained in Red Cross first aid. Certificates will be issued by the national Red Cross in Washington. These people, employes of the Paramount and Capitol theaters, as cashiers, receptionists and hostesses, have a thorough knowledge of what first aid treatment should be given in case of an accident or sudden illness before the services of a physician can be secured and also of prevention of accidents.

BOND ELECTIONS WILL BE HELD IN EAST CARROLL

OAK GROVE, La., Aug. 13.—(Special)—Voters of West Carroll parish will vote a $14,000 bond issue for the purpose of repairs on the courthouse. This project will cost about $25,000 and the difference will be made up by a PWA grant. The election will take place September 12.

Voters in ward two will also vote on an $85,000 bond issue to be applied on a $150,000 school program, the difference of $85,000 and $150,000 to be supplied by a PWA grant; ward three voters will ballot on a $55,000 bond issue for school projects, asking federal aid from the PWA for $45,000 to be used in a $100,000 project.

Should these bonds be voted and projects approved it will bring the total on school project. to approximately $450,000 for this parish in the past year.

Richardson Ends 2nd Year As Louisiana Tech's Chief

RUSTON, La., Aug. 13.—(Special)—Ending his "sophomore year" at Louisiana Tech today, President E. S. Richardson faces his third year as chief executive of the college with a development program under his supervision that will eclipse, in a material way, the accomplishments achieved by the institution during all of Tech's 44 years combined. Incidentally, the Tech president has received a doctor's degree in the past two years, the honorary degree of doctor of laws having been conferred upon him by Centenary college.

While reflecting upon events of the past two years, President Richardson expressed his appreciation for the cooperation he has been accorded by persons in various parts of the state as well as by the Tech faculty.

"When I came to Tech as president," Dr. Richardson recalled, "some persons handed me a list of about 30 members of the Tech faculty whom they thought should be 'fired' for one reason or another. I am happy to say that I have not found it necessary to discharge any member of the staff.

"In the hiring of additional teachers, I have not been bothered by persons urging the employing of some friend of theirs, which is another thing that I appreciate," President Richardson emphasized. "The people apparently realize that the matter of hiring and 'firing' of the Tech teachers and members of the administrative staff is under the supervision of the president and that no suggestions from the 'outside' are needed."

Since speaking as "one freshman to another" to the students entering Tech two years ago, President Richardson has concentrated upon one major objective—that of obtaining sufficient funds with which to improve the college and meet requirements of the steadily growing enrollment. His financial goal has been accomplished in full, with the legislature having recently appropriated "every cent requested" for the college. The securing of that money explains the record development program to be consummated in the immediate future.

Blueprints have been completed by architects, calling for the construction of about 20 separate structures on the campus within the next two or three years, at a total cost of about $3,000,000. The architects' drawings, together with estimates of the costs of material and equipment for the new buildings, will be sent to PWA officials within the next few days in application for a federal grant of probably more than $1,000,000. The legislature has appropriated $1,500,000 for the Tech building program, which will figure in the PWA application.

In addition to providing state funds for the physical development of the campus, the legislature appropriated an annual sum of $425,000 for maintenance of the college, an increase of about $166,000 a year for operating expenses. That increase has made it possible for President Richardson already to employ 22 additional teachers and to raise salaries of several of the present faculty, in accordance with recommendations of the Southern Association of Colleges and the state board of education.

As soon as the PWA grant is received, work will get under way on the $3,000,000 building program. An auditorium and fine arts building and a new engineering building will be constructed simultaneously as the first of the projects. Other structures included in the blueprints are a power house and a laundry, three girls' dormitories two men's dormitories, a stadium with men's dormitories under the seats, a dining hall and matron's residence, a girls' gymnasium, student center, library addition, swimming pool, home economics building, agriculture building, a future academic building, a future library addition and a future engineering building addition.

Aside from that building program, in which the PWA will collaborate, two WPA projects are under way at Tech. One of these projects, costing $49,129, includes the constructing of a baseball diamond, football practice field, tennis courts and various driveways and sidewalks. The other project, costing $17,470, embraces the remodeling of the women's dormitories at the college.

During the past two years, a temporary auditorium and a cafeteria have been built. Work is now being done on another wooden building, which will serve as a recreational hall, barber shop and beauty parlor. A photographic studio is being installed in the administration building of the college.

A full-time gardener has just been employed by President Richardson to beautify the campus and keep the grounds in an attractive condition.

FIRST AID LECTURE GIVEN TO STUDENTS

Mrs. Sarah Harris, Red cross first aid instructor, delivered a first aid lecture and demonstration to the home hygiene class at Brownville the past week.

Those who attended were: Mrs. Harris, instructor; Miss Frances Page, Mrs. Bob Moody, Mrs. Johnnie Bowman, Mrs. I. O. Dunn, Mrs. Monroe Holmes, Mrs. Frances Scharf, and Mrs. Henry King.

FEW VOTES SEEN IN MISSISSIPPI

Several Reasons Listed For Expected Light Balloting In Primaries

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 13.—(AP)—In political circles it is believed Mississippi's congressional primaries August 23 will attract only a minimum of voters to the polls.

Reasons for this belief are two:

1. The electorate has evinced little interest in the six campaigns, which have been almost void of sharply-drawn issues.

2. The state corrupt practices act of 1934 prescribes payment of poll taxes in the two years preceding an election as a prerequisite for voting.

Circuit and chancery judgeship races in some districts are said to have eclipsed in interest the congressional campaigns.

Chief interest in congressional races centers, perhaps, in the first and seventh districts where the situation is this:

First district—Incumbent John Rankin, Washington veteran who has championed TVA legislation successfully, is opposed by State Representative Sam Lumpkin and Charles A. Hamilton, Aberdeen minister.

Both Rankin and Lumpkin have waged aggressive campaigns—Rankin obviously content to rest on his long-time record while Lumpkin assailed him as an "inflationist."

Seventh district—Congressman Dan McGehee, Meadville, is opposed by District Attorney Hugh Gillespie, of Jackson and Raymond, and Tom Reed of Natchez, 30-year-old state representative.

McGehee and Gillespie campaigns have been particularly intensive, Gillespie charging that McGehee was not present when the national house voted on the anti-lynching bill with McGehee answering that his absence was occasioned by the critical illness of his father and that he had arranged to pair his vote (against the bill) with a proponent.

Reed's stumping activity has been curtailed by the current legislative session but he has made numerous speeches, basing his candidacy on his advocacy of labor legislation.

McGehee and Gillespie in their speeches have dwelt on personalities to large degree.

Congressman Will Whittington of Greenwood is the only member of the state delegation unopposed for reelection.

Other congressional races present this lineup:

Fourth district—Congressman A. L. Ford opposed by former State Senator D. L. Gregory, Kosclusko, and Joe Sheffield, Pittsboro.

Fifth district—Congressman Ross Collins opposed by Robert Floyd Mason, Magee.

Second district—Congressman Wall Doxey opposed by State Senator Mansard, Bullock, Water Valley.

Sixth district—Congressman W. M. Colmer opposed by R. C. Wooten, Hattiesburg.

RITES PLANNED FOR E. W. MURRAY

Well Known Former Monroe Man Dies; Was Stamp Authority

Edward William Murray, 79, died at the home of his son, R. C. Murray in Ferriday, after an illness of some weeks, Friday at 6:15 p.m. after which the body will be brought to Monroe for interment in Riverview Burial park at 3:30 p.m., where a brief service will be held.

Mr. Murray was regarded one of the best authorities in the state on rare stamps and his collection was regarded as one of the most valuable in the south.

He was born in Canton, O., in August 1858, and was married to Miss Minnie L. Byers in Beeville, O., December 29, 1880.

Mr. Murray made his home in Monroe for more than 30 years and was well and favorably known by a wide circle of friends.

He is survived by his wife, his son, R. C. Murray of Ferriday, a daughter, Mrs. G. B. Logan, Belleville, Ill., two grandchildren and two great grandchildren. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. Helen Schooner, Canton, O.

William Hickling Prescott, American man of letters, gave himself time to count up to 20 when awakened in the morning. If he failed to arise on that count, he paid a fine to the servant who had called him.

TO ANNAPOLIS

CHARLES N. PAYNE

CHAS. PAYNE GOES TO U. S. ACADEMY

Monroe Young Man Goes To Annapolis; Was Tech Student

Charles N. Payne, 19, son of Mrs. C. C. Carroll, has been approved by Congressman Newt V. Mills for entry in the United States Naval academy and, after passing the preliminary examinations successfully at Barksdale field, Shreveport, left last week to take the final tests at the academy in Annapolis, Md., the past week.

Young Payne is a graduate of Neville High school, where he established a high record for scholarship, and was active in athletics, Boy Scout work and other lines of endeavor.

He was the past year a senior in Louisiana Tech and for the last two years was a member of the student council.

Young Payne is popular with a wide circle of friends in Monroe and at Tech, and his appointment was greeted with interest and general approval.

BOY SCOUTS TO LEAVE KI-RO-LI

Second Group Will Take Their Places Today For Week's Outing

The first group of Boy Scouts of the Ouachita Valley council will close their period of encampment at Ki-Ro-Li today and the second group will take their places.

Those who have been at camp the past week are troops Nos. 3, 45, 46 and 47, Bastrop; 33, of the L. T. I., and 31 of Monroe.

The boys have had an enjoyable time, the camp being in charge of Olan H. Black, scout executive, assisted by W. F. Pefferkorn, assistant camp director; Tim Heninger, purser; Hale Walker, waterfront director; Mrs. O. H. Black, dietician, and "Pop" Murdough, nature study director.

One of the enjoyable features has been the use of the new swimming pool which was recently completed and which ranks as one of the best of the kind in the state.

After breakfast this morning, the boys will leave for home and their places will be taken at Ki-Ro-Li by troop No. 31, in charge of Scoutmaster Fletcher Ashcraft; troop No. 56 of Tallulah, and No. 20 of Chatham.

The encampment season started late this year because the pool was not completed but the boys are said to have enjoyed their camp much more than ever before because of the improved equipment.

ATTEND SHORT COURSE

JENA, La., Aug. 13.—(Special)—LaSalle parish was well represented at the annual farmers' and farm women's short course at the Louisiana State university in Baton Rouge last week when 27 representative citizens accompanied County Agent J. B. Holton, and Home Demonstration Agent Cora Westbrooks to the capital.

GINNERS MEETING TO BE HELD WEDNESDAY

A meeting to discuss regulations and requirements governing the ginning of cotton in Ouachita parish and the marketing of the 1938 cotton crop under the federal adjustment act, has been called for next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the courthouse by David L. Bornman, Jr., Ouachita parish agricultural agent.

All operators of cotton gins and cotton buyers in the parish are urged to be present at the meeting.

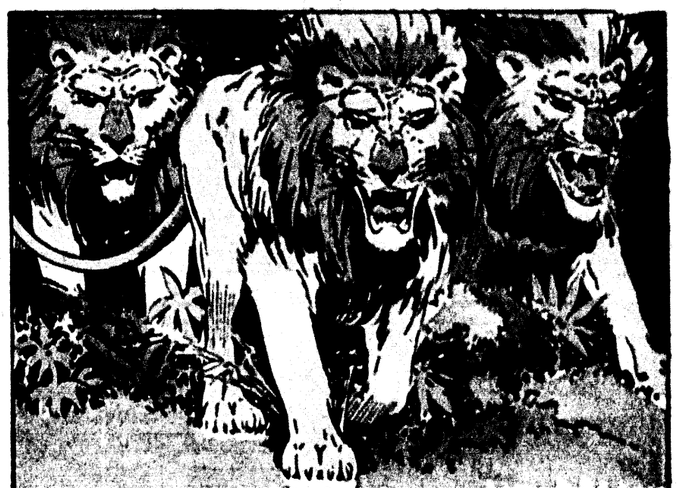
Tarzan

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

Copr. 1938 Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc.—Tm. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. Printed in Famous Books and Plays Distributed by UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE, Inc.

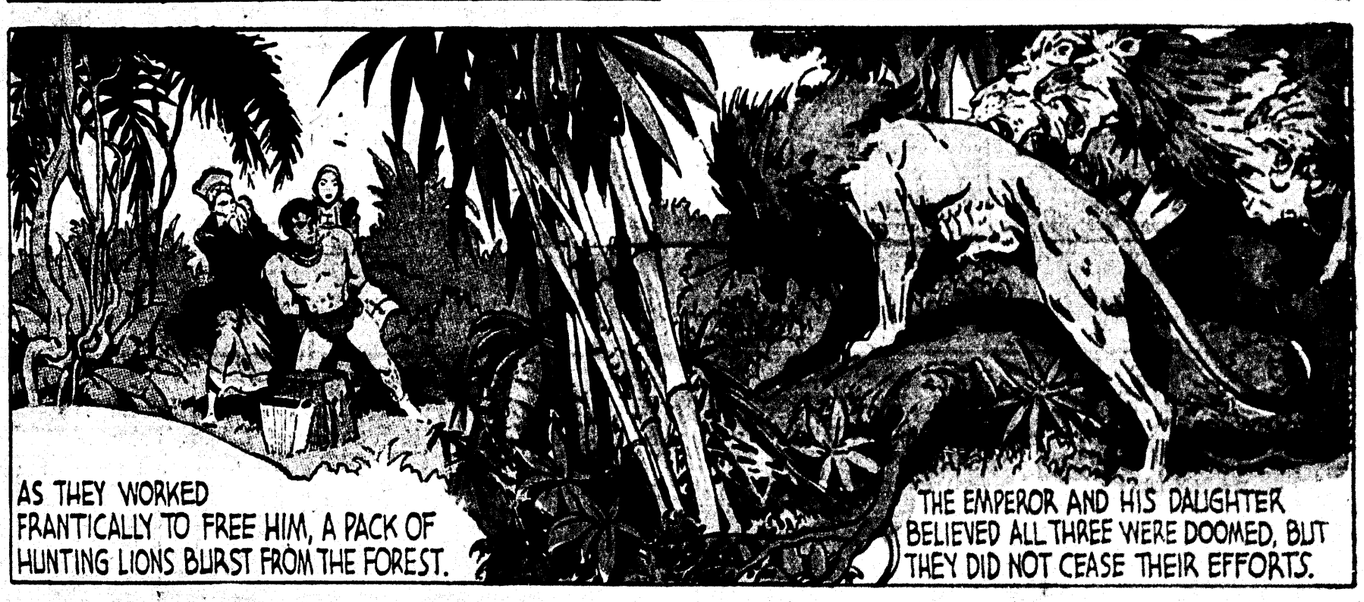
THE DEMON BEASTS

AS THE BANDIT CHIEF PREPARED TO SEVER TARZAN'S HEAD HE WAS STARTLED BY THE FEARFUL ROARING OF LIONS.



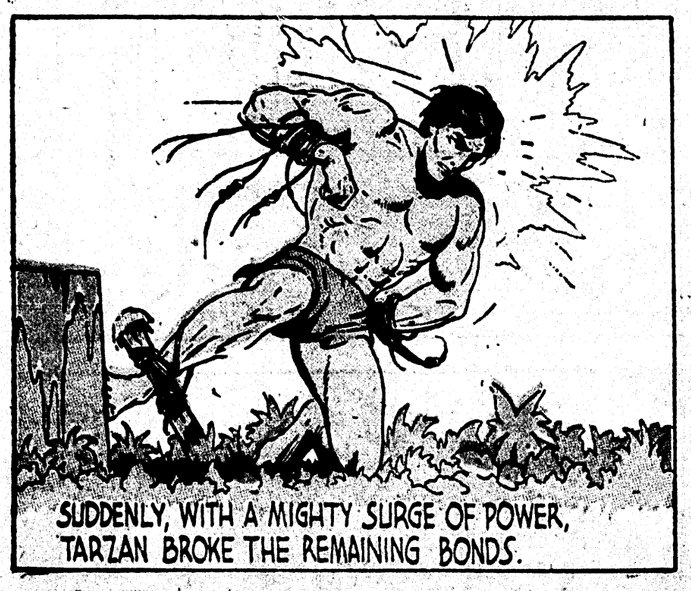
TO THE PEOPLE OF THIS STRANGE LAND, LIONS WERE INVINCIBLE DEMONS, WHICH NO MAN DARED DEFY.

BUT SUN TAI AND LULING, INSTEAD OF JOINING THE WILD STAMPEDE, RAN TO TARZAN.



AS THEY WORKED FRANTICALLY TO FREE HIM, A PACK OF HUNTING LIONS BURST FROM THE FOREST.

THE EMPEROR AND HIS DAUGHTER BELIEVED ALL THREE WERE DOOMED, BUT THEY DID NOT CEASE THEIR EFFORTS.



SUDDENLY, WITH A MIGHTY SURGE OF POWER, TARZAN BROKE THE REMAINING BONDS.

QUICKLY HE SEIZED SUN TAI AND LULING, AND CARRIED THEM TO A CLUSTER OF TREES.

AND WHILE THE LIONS BORE DOWN ON THEM, HE TRANSFERRED THEM TO SAFETY.

MOST OF THE BEASTS RUSHED PAST BUT THREE REMAINED TO IMPRISON THE FUGITIVES IN THE TREES.

NEXT WEEK: NATURE'S BROTHER

BIG TRACY

HELLO, NORT. THIS IS JOJO. I FINALLY SHOOK OFF THE BULLS – BUT THEY KILLED LOUIE. I'M IN A LITTLE TOWN ABOUT 200 MILES SOUTH – I'M COMING INTO THE CITY TONIGHT.

GOOD. STEP ON IT, BOSS. WE'VE GOT A BIG TIRE SHIPMENT SPOTTED – SHOULD BE A PUSH-OVER – BUT WE NEED YOU.

OKAY, GIVE ME A HAND, WILL YOU, PAT?

WHAT HAVE YOU GOT THERE, TRACY?

AFTER JOJO RAN THAT CAR OVER THE CLIFF WITH HIS DEAD BUDDY IN IT – HE COMMANDEERED A TRUCK AND ROBBED THE FIRST FILLING STATION HE CAME TO.

BUT WHAT'S THAT BOARD?

IT'S PART OF THE FILLING STATION DOOR CASING. IT HAD BEEN NEWLY SHELLACKED.

JOJO BACKED INTO THE SEMI-DRY SHELLAC AS HE LEFT THE STATION – HERE, LOOK THROUGH THIS GLASS!

HAIRS FROM HIS HEAD, AS WELL AS FIBERS FROM HIS COAT, STUCK TO THE SHELLAC.

WHO'S THIS NOTE FROM?

OH, BY THE WAY, JUNIOR LEFT THAT AND SAID TO BE SURE YOU GOT IT.

–BUT JUST THINK, JUNIOR, HOW PROUD MR. TRACY WILL BE WHEN HE DISCOVERS YOU AND I HAVE CAUGHT THE FREIGHT CAR THIEVES SINGLE– I MEAN DOUBLE–HANDED!

–BUT–HOPPING A FREIGHT TRAIN LIKE THIS..AND GOING AWAY?? MAYBE WE SHOULDN'T DO IT.

SAY, IF WE'RE EVER GOING TO BE REAL DETECTIVES WE'VE GOT TO START SOMETIME, HAVEN'T WE? COME ON, THE TRAINS MOVING.

HEY, BRIGHTON! IT'S GOING TOO FAST. HELP ME!

WHEW! THEY SAY A CRIMINAL ALWAY RETURNS TO THE SCENE OF HIS CRIME –THAT MEANS JOJO NIDLE WILL SHOW UP BEFORE LONG– IN LAYTON VALLEY JUNCTION –AND WHEN HE DOES WE'LL BE THERE.

Dear Tracy:– Brighton Spotts and I are working on the Jojo Nidle case. We won't be back for several days. Don't worry about us– as we have important clews and don't want to be bothered. Junior

WELL I'LL BE–?

August or December it's Always Creamy

ACTUAL SIZE

THAT'S WHY SNOWDRIFT is so easy to use

Snowdrift has the same "constant-creaminess" whether the weather is freezing or sweltering. Other shortenings vary with the temperature. So your success with other shortenings will vary, too. What a difference with Snowdrift! Always the same creamy consistency! Snowdrift doesn't harden in the ice box or get soft in the hot kitchen.

This is no accident. We make Snowdrift so that it comes to you—and stays—at just the right creaminess to make it easy to use at all times.

FOR CAKES—"Constant-Creaminess" makes Snowdrift work evenly and minutely through your cake batter—giving you light, fine-grained cakes, with full, even volume.

FOR BISCUITS—Snowdrift's "constant-creaminess" works into your biscuit dough quickly and thoroughly every time. So, every time, your biscuits melt in the mouth—and melt a man's heart.

AND PIE CRUST is flaky and tender—with Snowdrift to your aid! Always creamy, Snowdrift always cuts in evenly and quickly.

BEST NEWS OF ALL! All the cakes and pies your family love best are made digestible—with Snowdrift. For Snowdrift is fresh and pure—made from wholesome vegetable oil—and nothing else. Ask your grocer for Snowdrift today—in the economical three or six-pound air-tight can.

YOU CAN GET COMPLETE SET— Original Wm. Rogers Silverplate

They are the French Market, wholly rebuilt, and now complete; the St. Roch Market, the C. N. Maestri Market, the Keller Market and the Le Breton Market. Material taken from them was salvaged for use elsewhere in city.	5 Markets
MISCELLANEOUS: Municipal auditorium air-cooled, and walls put back into working order; Public Library extensively repaired; personal gift of Napoleon House to city by Mayor, and much French Quarter restoration; annual golf championship instituted; street marking signs renewed; provision for enlargement of Delgado School.	No Figures On Hand

FOUNDATION FOR FUTURE WORK: At the last legislative session, two acts of vital importance to the city were passed. One was a constitutional amendment, making it possible, at long last, to have a real union station job; the other legalized the issuance of paving certificates as the city's sponsor share for new paving projects, thus reducing paving costs to property owners to about one-third of what they formerly had to pay as paving assessments to the city.

RED INK MAKES MAYOR BLUE: No revenue coming in even to pay interest on $15,000,000 debt or meet payrolls and run the city until tax moneys begin to be paid. Taxes had been collected at the end of the year, the city borrowing money to run its business in the meantime. To finance the city to January...

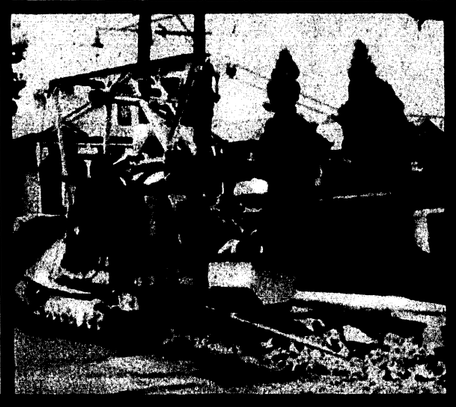
when two years' taxes could be collected at once, at least $2,000,000 was needed. The banks wanted 5½% interest and were not eager to lend even at that figure, having an agreement that no loans would be made except through the five clearing house banks jointly. Mr. Maestri therefore began to negotiate by long distance...

with New York, and succeeded in discounting tax anticipation warrants at a much more advantageous figure, for a start. Moreover, he found out that the banks had no agreement about lending money to the state of Louisiana, whose credit was regarded as vastly better than that of the city. So Mr. Maestri struck an agreement with State Treasurer Tugwell...

to the effect that the state would borrow at its low rate from the New Orleans banks, and lend this borrowed money to the city at the same rate. With all that the Mayor still lacked $100,000 of the amount needed to tide him over till January, so he lent the city that much out of his own pocket to bridge the gap till the time came...

for the taxpayers to make their payments. An appeal was made to do this early, and the citizens responded in crowds, paying two years' taxes at once, in effect, the 1936 dues at the end of the year, and the 1937 dues at the beginning. With cash on hand, a rigid system of economy was instituted, for by paying off the debts, enormous interest charges...

could be saved. However, with all available cash needed to retire these unpaid bills, there was no money to finance city improvements, even with WPA help. A start was made by borrowing dock board and levee board trucks for city work, the WPA allowing $1.50 per hour per truck as the city's sponsor share for projects. In addition...



after a shrewd session of bargaining with the New Orleans Public Service, which cut more than $250,000 from that corporation's unpaid bill against the city, Mayor Maestri likewise asked the NOPS for the loan of a broken-down concrete mixer. This was repaired at a cost of $400, the letters MRP were painted over NOPS, and this machine, shown at left...

Mr. Maestri was told he could have all he wanted of it, and the preceding picture shows him on part of the mountain of waste, which...

was utilized in making a white paint, with which, for example, the entire outside of the city hall was repainted at a cost of about $10 for material. The spray machine for this paint belonged to Mr. Maestri's private real estate business and was lent to the city without cost. As another instance of economy in public operation, all the...

paving blocks of Maine granite removed from Tchoupitoulas street, when that thoroughfare was repaved, were used in making curbing and gutter-bottoms in streets that were to be asphalted, as shown here in the new approach street to City Park where the Eucharistic Congress is to be held this fall. the city showed a $3000 profit instead of a $1500 loss. In this and countless other ways money was saved, and used to pay off debts. Paving certificates are now refinanced and paid through 1940; the last of the $7,000,000 bank loan was retired on March 4, 1938, when Mayor Maestri handed over the check shown in the picture, and now BLACK INK MAKES EVERYTHING ROSY.

This remarkable photograph of the city was taken by the Davis Aerial Photographic Service of Houma, La., from a height of 13,000 feet. It shows all of Orleans Parish, and parts of Jefferson (at the left and in the foreground) part of St. Bernard Parish, and in the distance, St. Tammany Parish. . . . At the upper right may be seen the Chef and Rigolets, and at the lower left the Huey P. Long bridge, with its "far end" closer to the city than its "near end." It is the only picture ever taken that shows the three lakes, Pontchartrain, St. Catherine and Borgne, and the serpent like Mississippi River, all in one spot. And it explains why it is that the sun comes up over the West bank of the river.

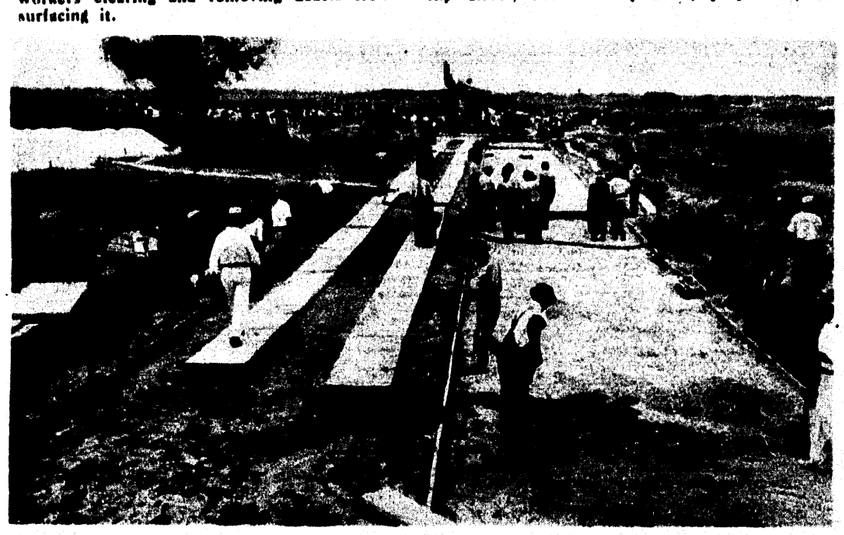
zzles. The city, building and developing thr ugh the years along e river, and pushing up and back through swamp and marsh, has orked around its difficulties, and thus has left many barriers in its ake, such as traffic-choking railroad lines, obsolete drainage ditches d canals. Paving was done on a hand to mouth basis. The present dministration has sought to get more paving, and yet more paving, par- cularly short-cuts, and widened arteries; to break through old barriers d arrange for orderly growth. This remarkable picture shows more aphically than words what some of these problems are. Note partic- rly the vast area that lies to the east awaiting development.

New Streets for Old

On August 10, 1936, Mayor Maestri swung the pick that struck the first blows in the New Orleans paving program. Since that date, more than 200 miles of paving have been laid within the city limits, a record without parallel, Herewith are shown some of the scenes that recorded this tremendous advance, as the work progressed, under the joint drive of city and WPA. At the left, the start. Below, in the heart of the business section, Poydras street is being concreted, Galvez to Claiborne.

WHEN THE WORK BEGAN, many streets looked just like this. The picture shows WPA workers clearing and removing debris from Philip street, near Tchoupitoulas, preparatory to surfacing it.



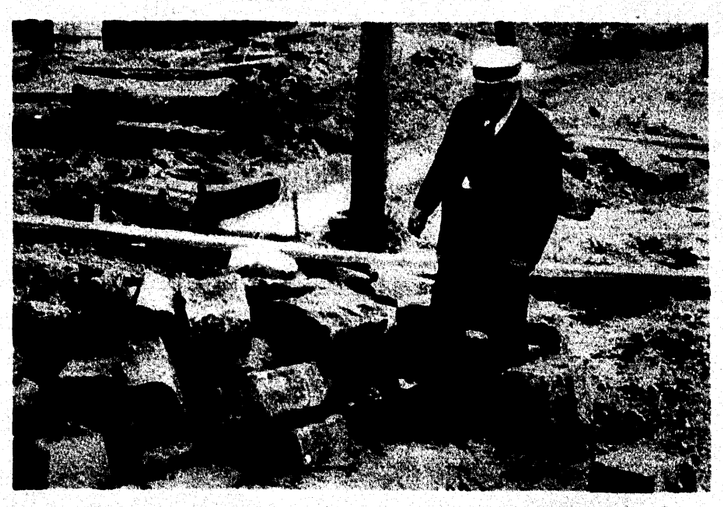
CONCRETE WILL SOON be poured into these waiting forms, along the lake shore development where this wilderness scene today is paved First Avenue East, at St. John street intersection.

BEFORE THE CONCRETE pouring shown at the right, above, could begin, this section of the old Poydras street roadway at Palmyra street looked like this while sub-surface drainage was laid.

THE FINISHING TOUCH to new concrete paving is the smoothing that WPA workers are here shown giving the new, wet cement, with finishing boards and wet burlap on the Moss street project.

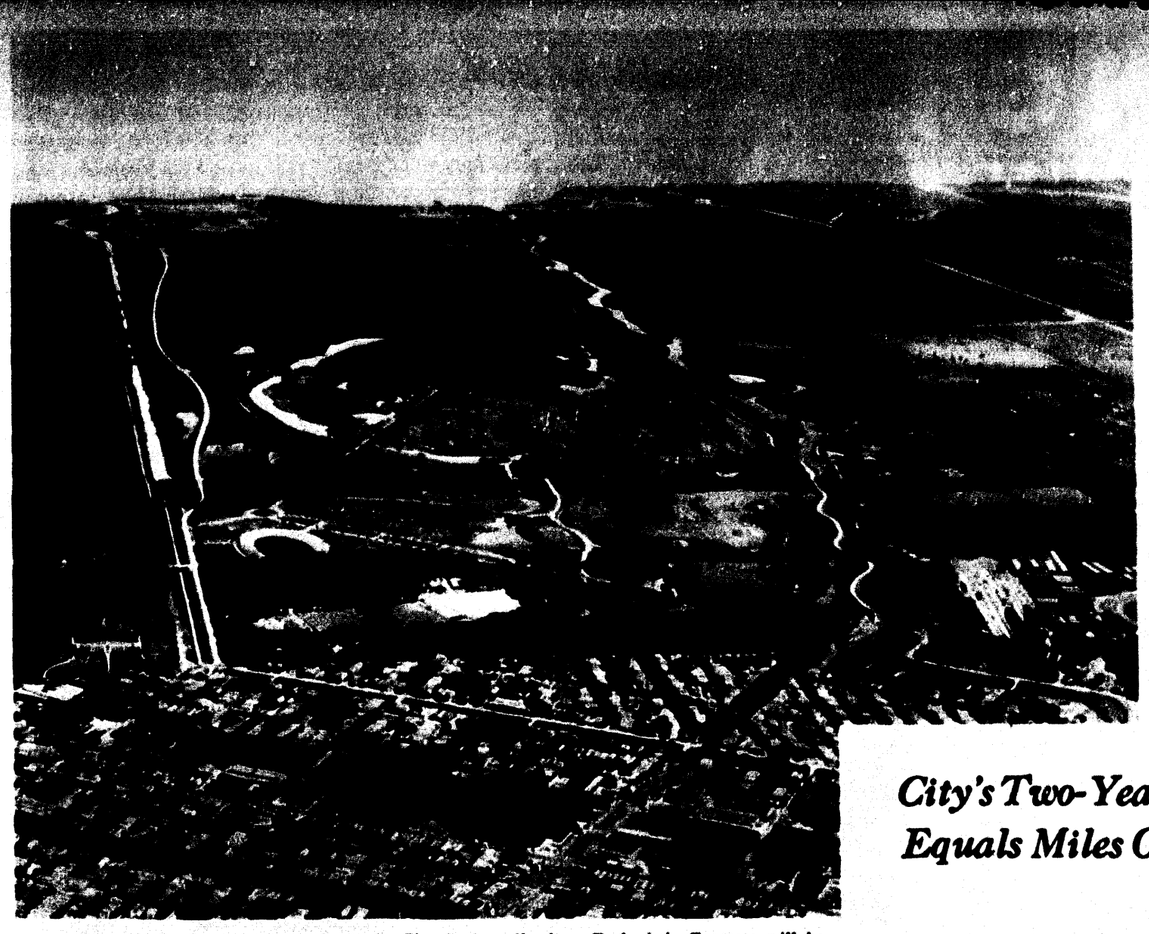
Ancient Granite Paving Blocks Save Money in City's New Work

From Maine and Belgium came great granite blocks, some of them more than a century ago, to surface the streets of Old New Orleans. A section of Tchoupitoulas street as it looked not many months ago, is shown here at the left. The blocks had to be removed to make way now for the smooth paving demanded by motor traffic. They could not be used for paving, but that was no reason to permit them to go to waste. So they are carted to new black-top projects, as shown at left below, and used for curbs (see background), the finished product appearing in the photograph of Gravier street at Prieur (below at right).

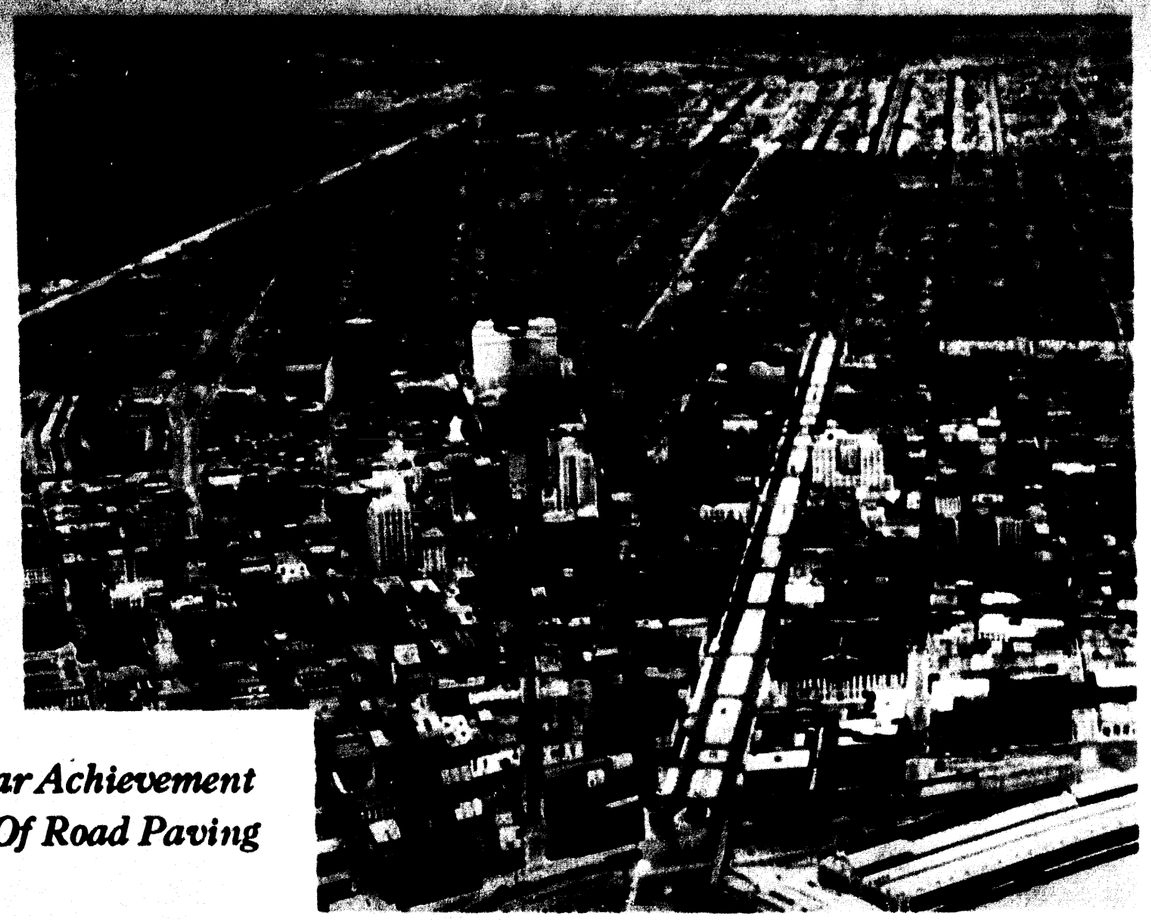


New Slanting Curbs Save Money All Around

NEW CONCRETE STREETS are laid with slanting curbs, so that property owners no longer need build "bridges" or recurved driveway entrances, but can run their autos right over the curb into the street, as shown in the view of Moss street at Dumaine, above. The same type of curbing is being laid now on Calhoun street, where Mayor Maestri and Hampton Reynolds are shown inspecting progress of work at the right.

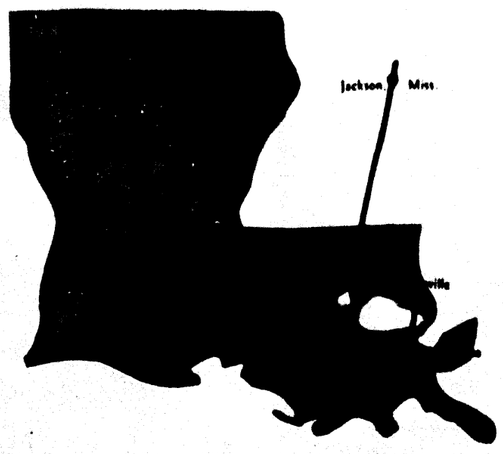


RINGED BY RECENT improvements is the City Park mall where Eucharistic Congress will be held this fall. Repaved Orleans street runs diagonally across foreground, Marconi Drive to lake.

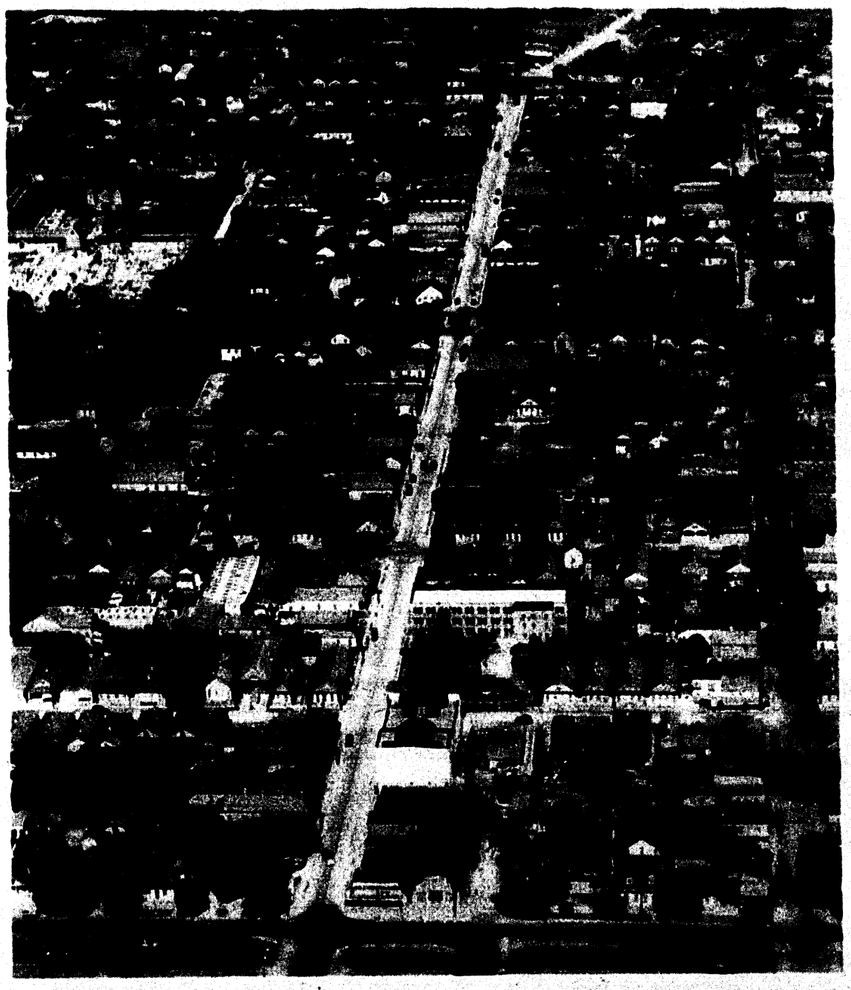


CANAL STREET, POYDRAS street, repaved Palmyra street, the Charity hospital, and the soon-to-be-widened Tulane avenue at the airline highway outlet are all visible in this airview

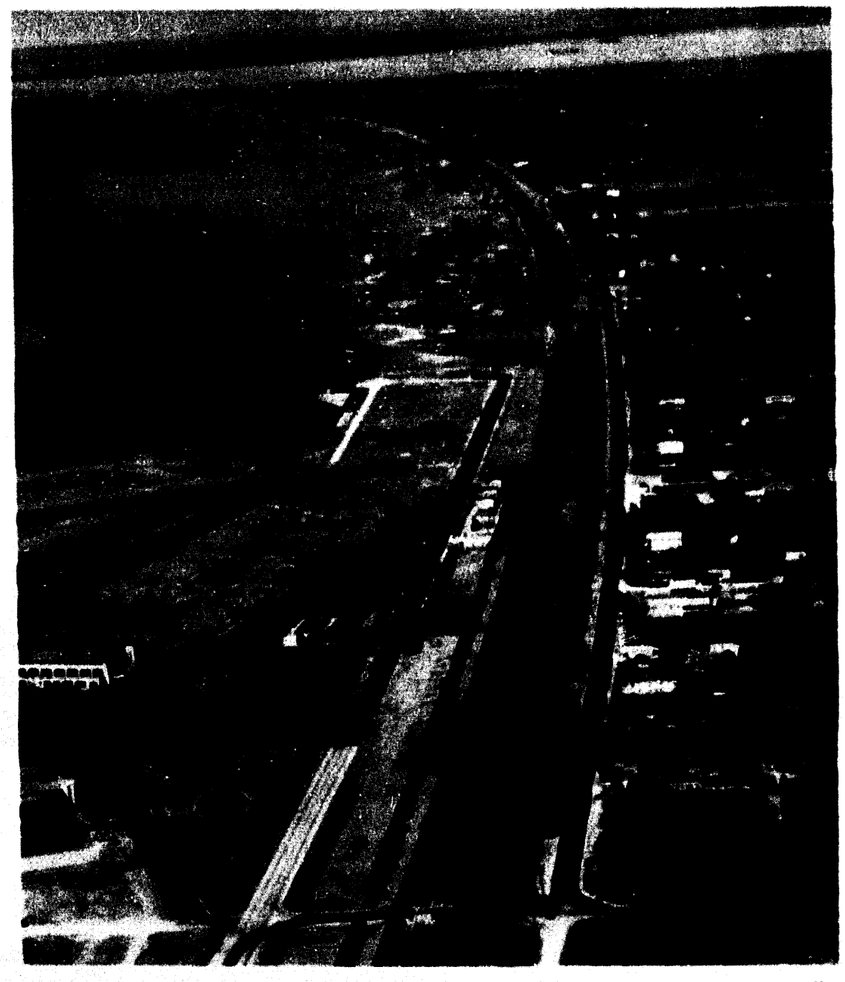
City's Two-Year Achievement Equals Miles Of Road Paving



FEW PERSONS REALIZE how great has been the progress of New Orleans in the matter of paving during the two years of the Maestri administration. The map reproduced above vividly tells the tale. Concrete paving totals 50.26 miles, or as far as from New Orleans to Houma, La. Asphalt totals 102.46 miles, or as far as from New Orleans to St. Francisville; shell, gravel and other resurfacing is 48.30 miles additional, or as far as it is from New Orleans to Mandeville. The total is 201.02 miles in two years, or as far as from New Orleans to a point ten miles north of Jackson, Mississippi.



NORTH CLAIBORNE avenue's newest link appears here in the section from Elysian Fields avenue to the junction of Almonaster and Franklin avenues. (See picture just below).



NEWLY PAVED HAYNE boulevard now gives access all the way to Little Woods, and will join a drive there, that is now under construction, connecting to the Chef Highway.

It is impossible to give a complete record of this tremendous two-year accomplishment in the compass of a single page, so that only a few samples from each section of the city appear here. For instance, at left is an air view of the repaved section of Poydras street, (the white strip), and below a close-up of what this section looked like before the work was done.

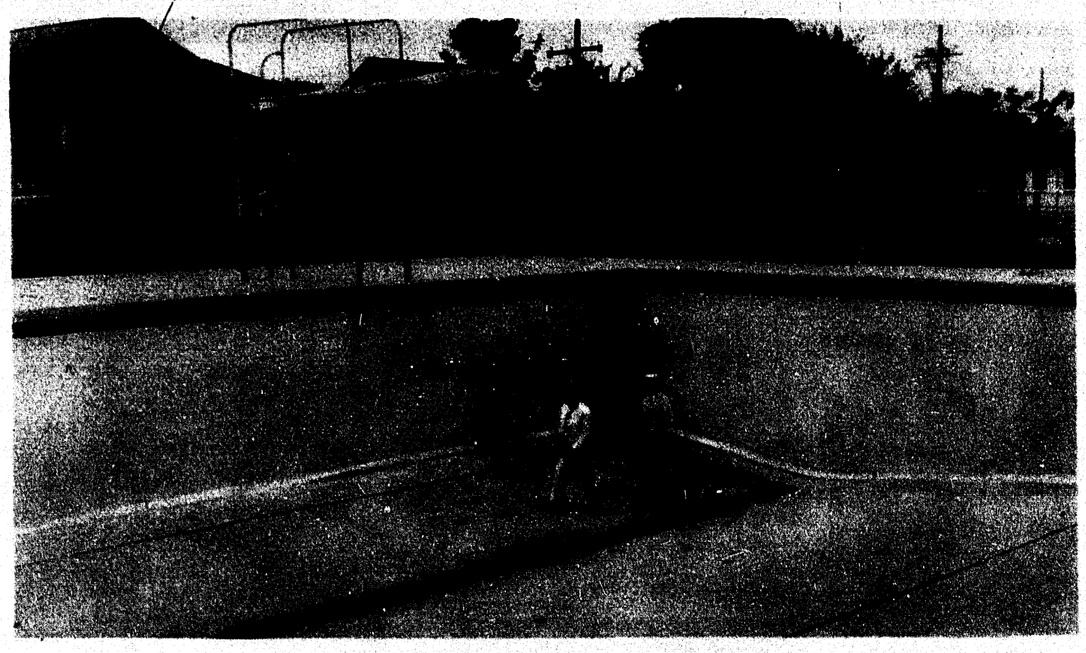
LOUISIANA'S NEW $12,500,000 Charity Hospital at New Orleans will house the finest facilities for the treatment of human ills ever assembled under a single roof. Combined with it is the Louisiana State University Medical Center, whose home forms part of the hospital group, and the Tulane University Medical school, whose home is across the street—two institutions to whose students there will be available a hospital such as no other medical school in the world can boast. The project is the largest single unit job receiving federal support in the South, and construction has been in progress more than a year.

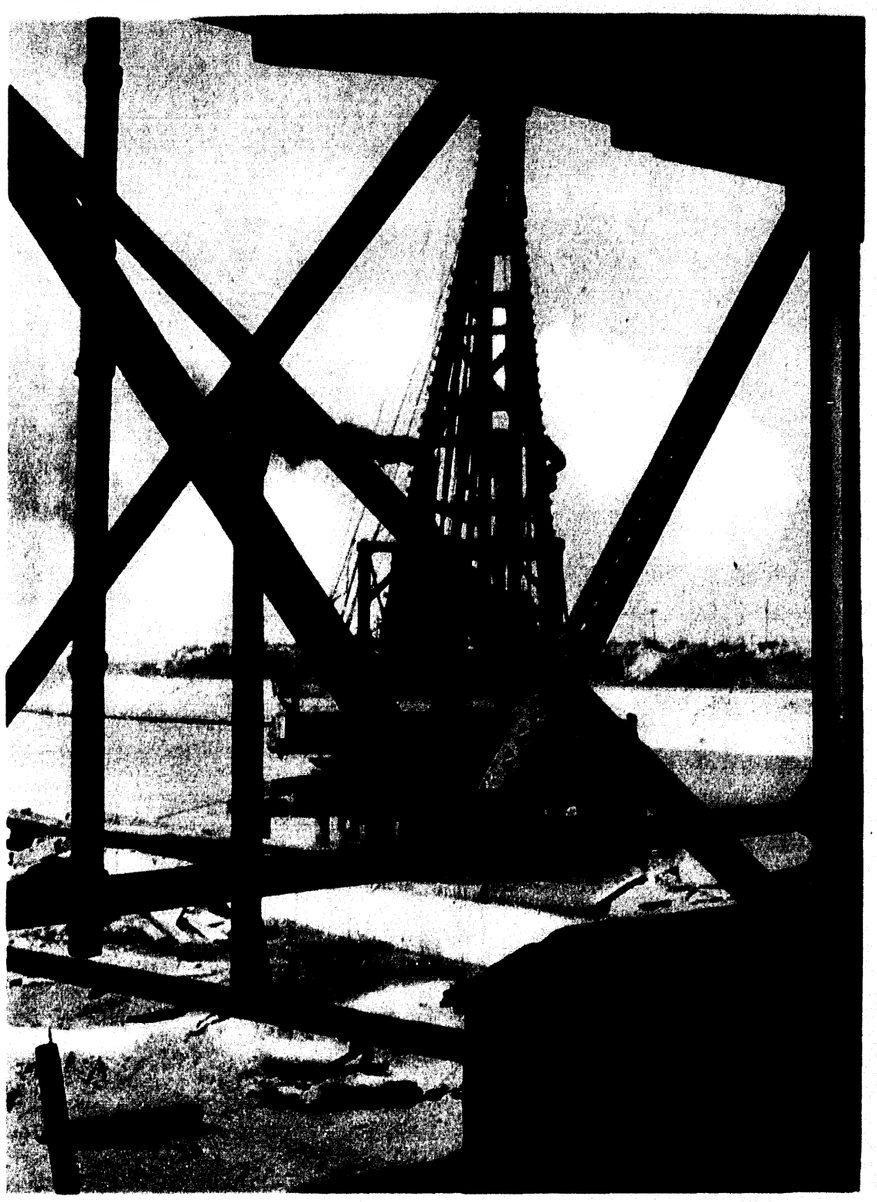
PLAYgrounds

REALIZING THE IMPORTANCE of proper play space for the future of today's youngsters, Mayor Maestri devised a method for a tremendous increase of playground facilities which would not involve a great drain on the city's finances. He offered to equip public and parochial school grounds for playground work, if the schools would throw these grounds open to the youngsters of their neighborhoods during the summers. Using city employes and House of Detention prisoners and salvaged materials, this was done. In addition, with the Stallings legacy to start the job, and city and WPA finances to supplement the needs, a magnificent playground on Gentilly Road is now nearing completion. Of the two photographs immediately below, the upper picture shows workmen busy on the huge swimming pool of the Stallings playground, and the lower one shows Mayor Maestri and Hampton Reynolds inspecting the completed pool. In addition, a great shelter house and tennis courts will be among this playground's facilities.



MAYOR MAESTRI HIMSELF makes it a point, during his daily tours of the city, to visit all the playgrounds and squares where work is in progress. Above he is shown, with an admiring audience of youngsters, making use of one of the newly installed drinking fountains at Clay Square, where a bandstand has been built of old paving blocks, and a shelter pavilion out of the ironwork salvaged from the Maestri market demolition. Below at the left, he is shown with youngsters in the St. Mary Church playground, as they show him that they, too know how to economize, using two old pieces of discarded bicycle tire to make a baseball. Below at the right, he is acceding to request of children of the Bethlehem home, far downtown on the riverfront, for autographs of the mayor who is renovating that institution with extensive repairs.

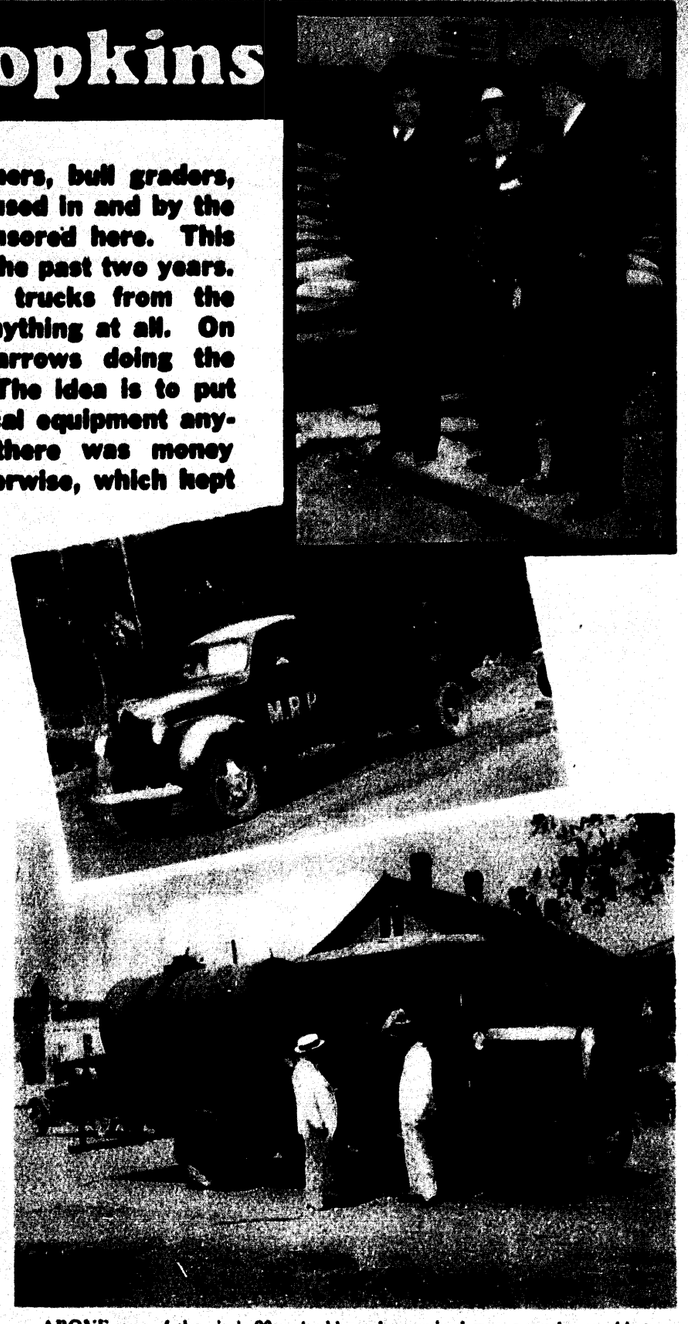
"The Best Job in America!"--Harry Hopkins



GLIMPSED THROUGH THE framing of the steelwork of one of the lake front bridges, a pile driver is shown driving the concrete revetment which now lines both banks of Bayou St. John.

Nearly 100 motor trucks, a dozen tractors, rock crushers, bull graders, pile drivers, and power utensils of all kinds are being used in and by the city of New Orleans for the various WPA projects sponsored here. This machinery is owned by the city. It was acquired during the past two years. When Mr. Maestri came into office he had to borrow trucks from the Levee Board and the Dock Board, in order to have anything at all. On early WPA jobs he saw men with shovels and wheelbarrows doing the excavating. "Why not a steam shovel?" he asked. "The idea is to put men to work," he was told. But he got the mechanical equipment anyway, and thus did the work so much cheaper, that there was money enough for about three times as many projects as otherwise, which kept all the men at work, the only difference being they were working on three projects instead of one. That is one reason so much was accomplished in two years. National WPA Chief Harry Hopkins, shown at the left with Mayor Maestri and Louisiana Administrator James Crutcher, said: "This is the finest job being done in America" when he inspected the New Orleans work and saw what has been accomplished here in the few months the Maestri term had then run.

THIS ROCK CRUSHER, purchased by the city, takes old paving waste from streets that are being repaved, and grinds it into filler which is turned over to WPA for other street foundations.



ABOVE, one of the city's 90-and-odd newly acquired motor trucks, working on the Little Woods-Chef Boulevard link. Below, the oil spreader, made by the city's employes out of a scrap boiler, a discarded Model-T engine, an old pump, and a secondhand motor truck chassis at practically no money cost.

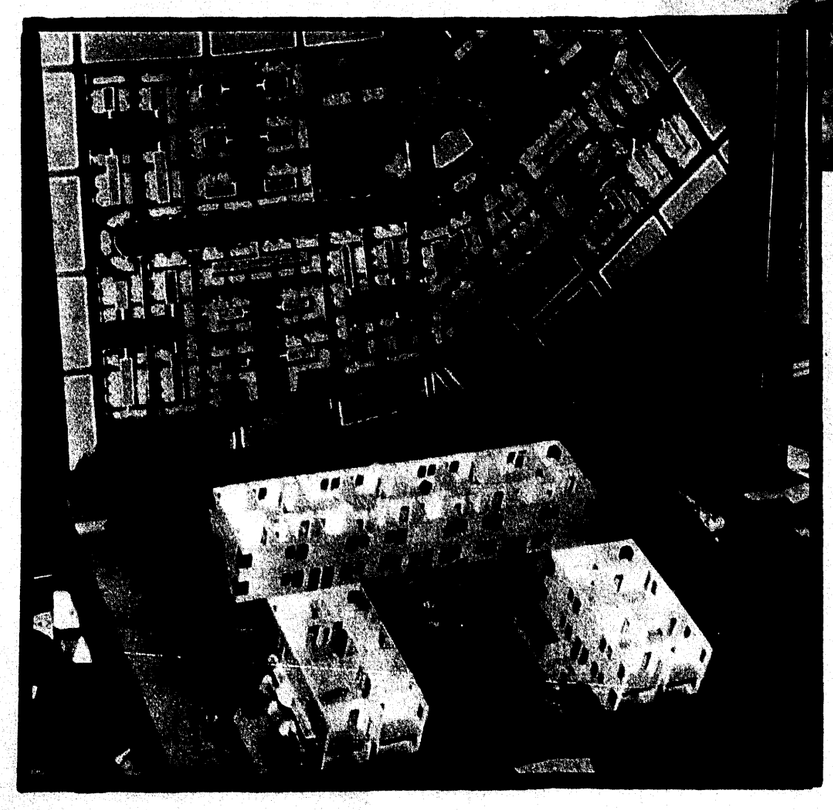
Slum Clearance to Change Two New Orleans Areas From Centers of Physical and Mental Ailments Into Healthy Beauty Spots

HOW 5000 TO 6000 ORLEANIANS, living now in squalor, will be accommodated in new conditions under the city-Federal slum clearance program is demonstrated here. The architect's drawing for the "St. Thomas street project" is at top right, planned to provide maximum light, space and air; buildings about a central court, with cool porches. About these structures will be play facilities for children. No through streets will bisect the area, thus guarding against great traffic hazards.

A model of another of the proposed modern dwellings is at left below. To the back is a drawing showing house locations, bringing out the great gain in open space. And bottom right, is a typical house among those to give way to the new—ancient, rickety, and broken.



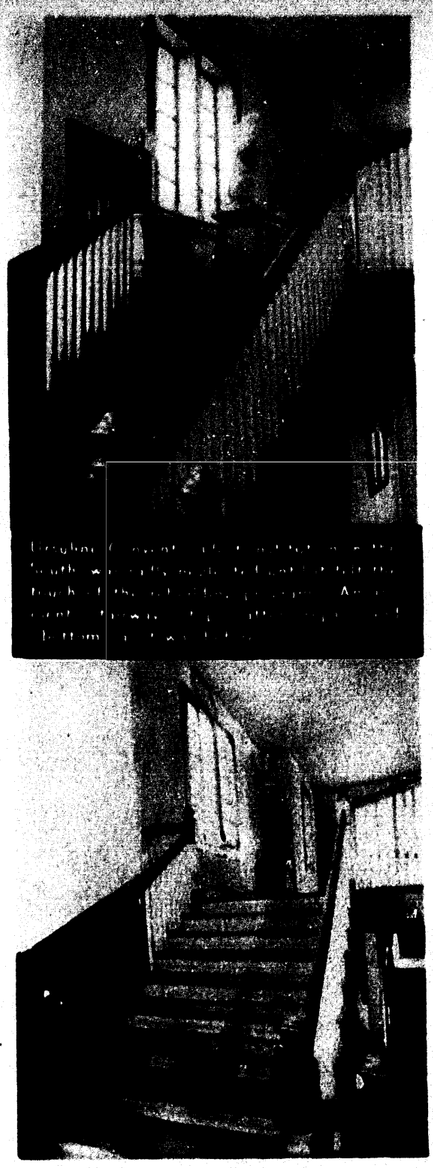
FIRST AMONG AMERICAN CITIES to qualify for slum clearance and low cost, modern housing under the new Federal program, is New Orleans. The city's slums have long been condemned by welfare workers, by health authorities, and students of community conditions; as breeders of disease, of juvenile delinquency, of crime, of bad community outlook.

Now comes a Federal-city program to wipe away at least two among the many such "blighted areas" about New Orleans. The Federal government has set aside a total of $18,000,000 for the city. But definitely assured, scheduled to start within a period of months, are two projects, to cost $8,000,000 to $10,000,000.

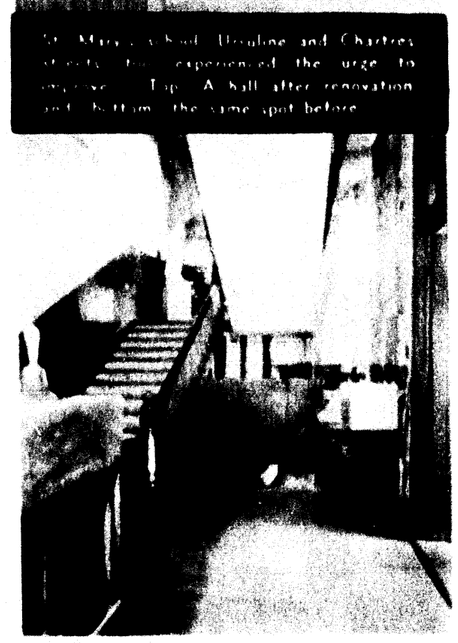
In one white area of the city and in one Negro area will come the removal of cramped, unsightly "shot gun" cottages, shacks and rooming houses. The former will center about the Kingsley House section, and will be known as the "St. Thomas Street Project," and the latter will have its focus about Flint-Goodridge hospital. In place of the slums will rise buildings, better planned for comfort and health; covering far less space than the present ones, but better able to meet the needs of those it will serve. Scheduled to go are ancient places that go by such names as "Red Bug Row," "The Buzzards," or "The Red Devil." Scheduled to be ended, in these areas at least, are conditions, in the words of the sponsors, whereby "as many as 40 persons share two common toilets in the back yard."

City Schools on the March

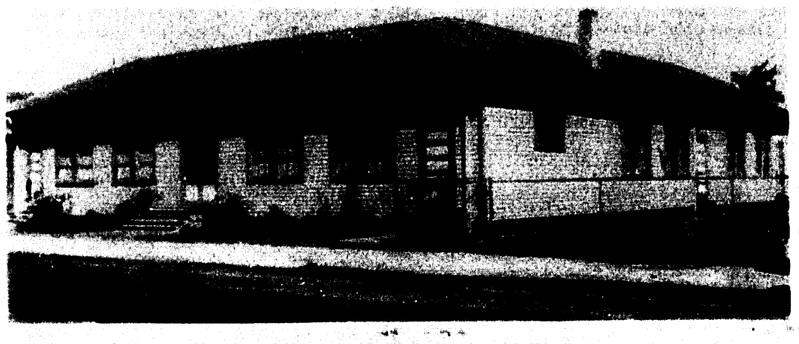
Keeping step with the march of progress in New Orleans, the Orleans school board during the past two years has built five new major schools, Rabouin, Irmadale, Landry, Franz and Flower schools at a cost of almost a million dollars, and one small school, the Seabrook school, for $6000 and an annex to the Booker T. Washington school, costing $12,000. Other schools have been renovated and improved.

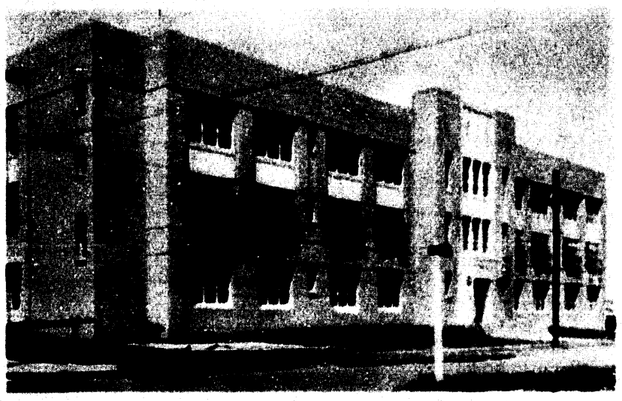


With a reversal of form, girls are learning carpentry (below left,) and boys to cook (top right), at the Haynes Pre-Vocational school. (Bottom right) The new Flower school at 8525 Birch street, which cost $140,000 to build.



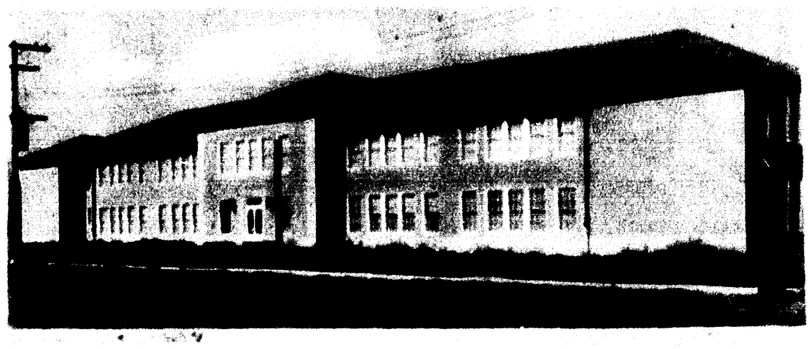
The $12,000 annex to the Booker T. Washington school.





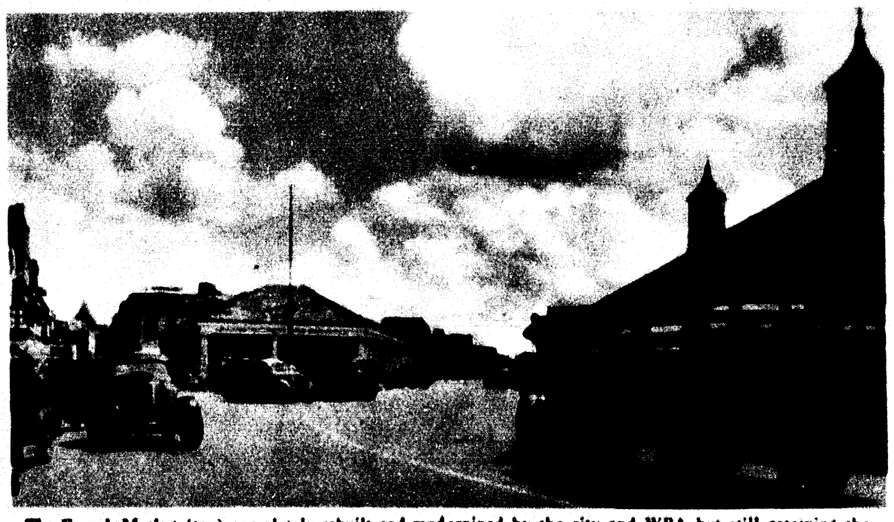
New Franz school, 2100 Alvar street, cost $140,000.

The Landry school, Whitney avenue, Algiers, cost $120,000.



The Administration Goes To Market

More than $1,000,000 was spent in rebuilding eight city markets, including the old French Market, famous landmark of New Orleans, and in completely renovating four others to give New Orleans a system of modern sanitary public markets, second to none. Eight of the old markets were abandoned and some of them, like the Poydras, were torn down to make room for street widening and improvement. Three others are scheduled for repair by the WPA.



The French Market (top) completely rebuilt and modernized by the city and WPA but still retaining the architecture and charm which for over 100 years made this market famous. (Below) The Market as it appeared before renovation.

PARKS

New Orleans parks rank with the best in the nation and during the past two years both Audubon and City Park have been greatly improved and expanded. City Park has a total of 1410 acres, more than 1000 of which have been reclaimed, embellished and made usable in the past two years. In co-operation with WPA more than $10,000,000 has been spent in City Park where a football stadium, half a dozen bridges, miles of concrete drives and walks and many athletic fields have been constructed. In Audubon's 280 acres much beautification work has been accomplished, including the rebuilding of the zoo which now occupies 25 acres as compared with five acres two years ago. A new section of 30 acres on the park batture is being reclaimed and added to the park.

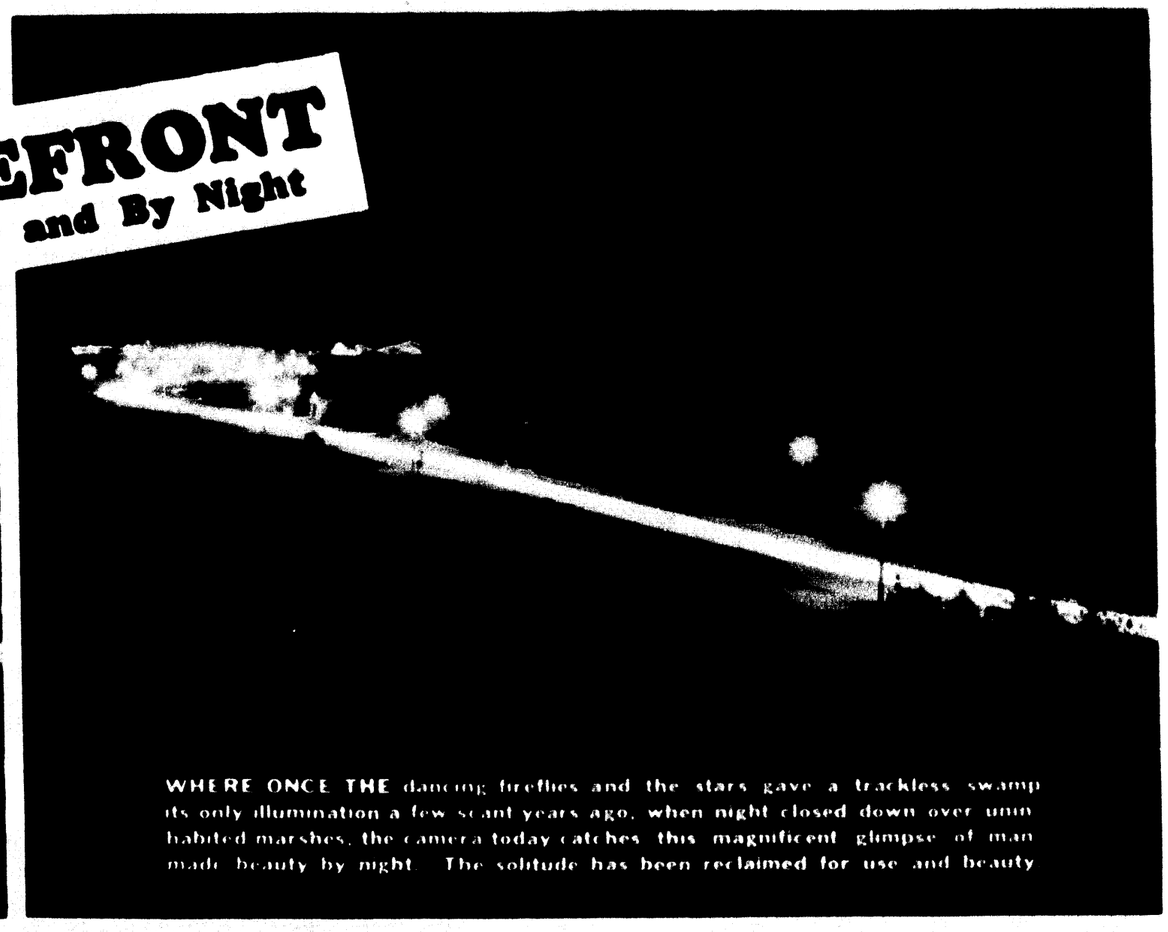
MAESTRI ANNIVERSARY SECTION • A STORY OF NEW ORLEANS TOLD IN PICTURES

LAKEFRONT
By Day and By Night

FROM ITS LOFTY perch in the clouds, the airplane camera looking eastward along the shore of Lake Pontchartrain at New Orleans, today beholds this view, with the Zone Two residential development in the foreground, Shushan airport and the curve toward South Shore in the background, miles away

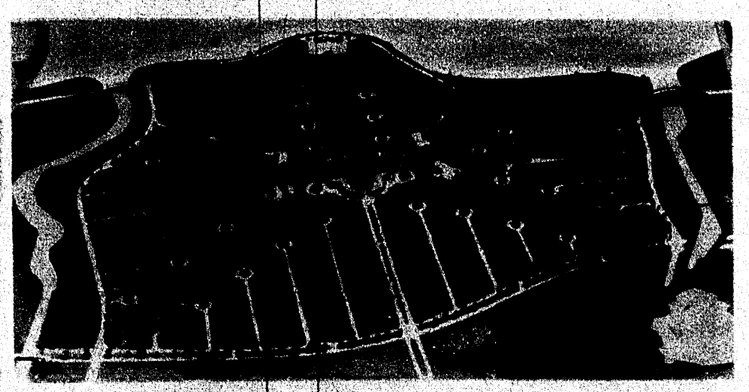


WHERE ONCE THE dancing fireflies and the stars gave a trackless swamp its only illumination a few scant years ago, when night closed down over uninhabited marshes, the camera today catches this magnificent glimpse of man made beauty by night. The solitude has been reclaimed for use and beauty

EXACTLY ONE YEAR AGO, on August 15, 1937, this photograph was made of the same scene shown at the top of this page. And a year before that, during the summer of 1936, these men had met at this same spot; Malcolm J. Miller, regional WPA field chief; Mayor Maestri, Gov. Leche, Hampton Reynolds, State WPA Chief Crutcher.

THE LAKESHORE: A few months ago a wilderness, inaccessible, uninviting. Today a boulevard that is miles in length, accessible to all, drawing thousands to recreation.

AND TODAY, the desolation of a year ago is nearing completion as one of the nation's finest residential developments. Houses will back on dead-end boulevards while children play in safe, traffic-free parkways. Compare this airview with photograph of the miniature model made for display when the development was first planned.



From on the ground, above the ground, and under the ground, by midnight, noon, or dawn or dusk, a great modern romance is told in works instead of in words along the shores of Lake Pontchartrain here at New Orleans; a romance that would put to shame all the wildest fancies of those dreamers who pictured the achievements of the future in fables. Out of a trackless wilderness of swamp and tide marsh and barren shore, a residential and recreational center as new as tomorrow's sunrise has taken form, not through the slow march of decades, but almost overnight. Yesterday it was not. Today it is in process of being. Tomorrow, it will be finished.

TRANSFORMATION: This is how Robert E. Lee Boulevard appears today, looking from the New Basin toward Canal Boulevard, where a bumpy country road not long ago let to straggling camps.

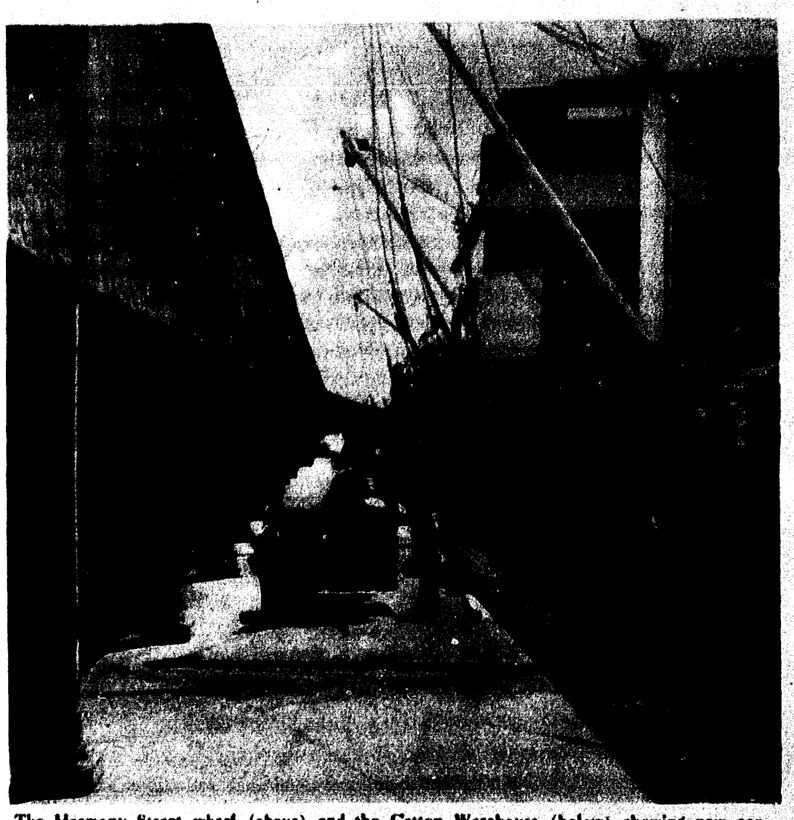
BELOW THE GROUND lies the secret of some of this new beauty, for there the new drainage system is buried. Workmen are shown as they caulk a 48-inch drainage main, now hidden from view underground.

THE TUMBLED WRACK of washed-out bulkheading along Yacht Club's ramp has been restored and strengthened by rip-rap, as seen when looking eastward from the western end of the development work.

BEAUTY BY NIGHT gleams from the fountain, the work of Enrique Alferez, that forms part of the landscaping of Shushan airport, the opposite (eastern) terminus of the Lakeshore development project.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT: Above in two air-view panoramas, all air views appearing in this edition are the work of Harris Whitney, staff air photographer of the WPA in New Orleans, [illegible] by Sewell Cochran, and [illegible] photographs by Andrew Eggers, member of the New Orleans staff of photographers.

The Port Keeps In Step!



The Harmony Street wharf (above) and the Cotton Warehouse (below) showing new concrete pavement along the wharf aprons.

While the city forged ahead, port authorities kept pace by completing repairs and improvements to several miles of riverfront facilities. Over $500,000 was spent in chemically treating timbers and repaving wharf aprons at seven of the principal docks. Among these were the cotton warehouse, Louisa, Congress, Harmony, Pauline, Desire and Press Street docks where aprons were paved with concrete slabs to facilitate movement of cargo between ship and shed.

The port provides 125 miles of waterfront, has 7½ miles of covered wharf sheds, completely sprinklered, with a storage area of over 6,000,000 square feet.

In addition there is a cotton warehouse, a public grain elevator, a bulk commodity plant and a vegetable oil plant.

The Congress Street dock, pictured from the air, showing the wooden decking being torn up at either end of the shed for repavement with concrete.

The Press Street wharf, looking toward Canal street, with its new concrete pavement over which freight is trucked from freight cars to be stored in the wharf sheds or in the holds of ocean-going vessels.

City's Unsightly Canals Become Things of Beauty and Service

During the past two years, greater progress in drainage work was achieved than in any equal period since 1899. Almost $3,000,000 has been spent in installing drainage and sewerage lines, in lining and covering open canals and in beautifying and making sanitary other canals and bayous in the city. Lakeview was provided with an adequate sewerage and drainage system. Bayou St. John was deepened and cleaned and unsightly buildings and boat houses were removed.

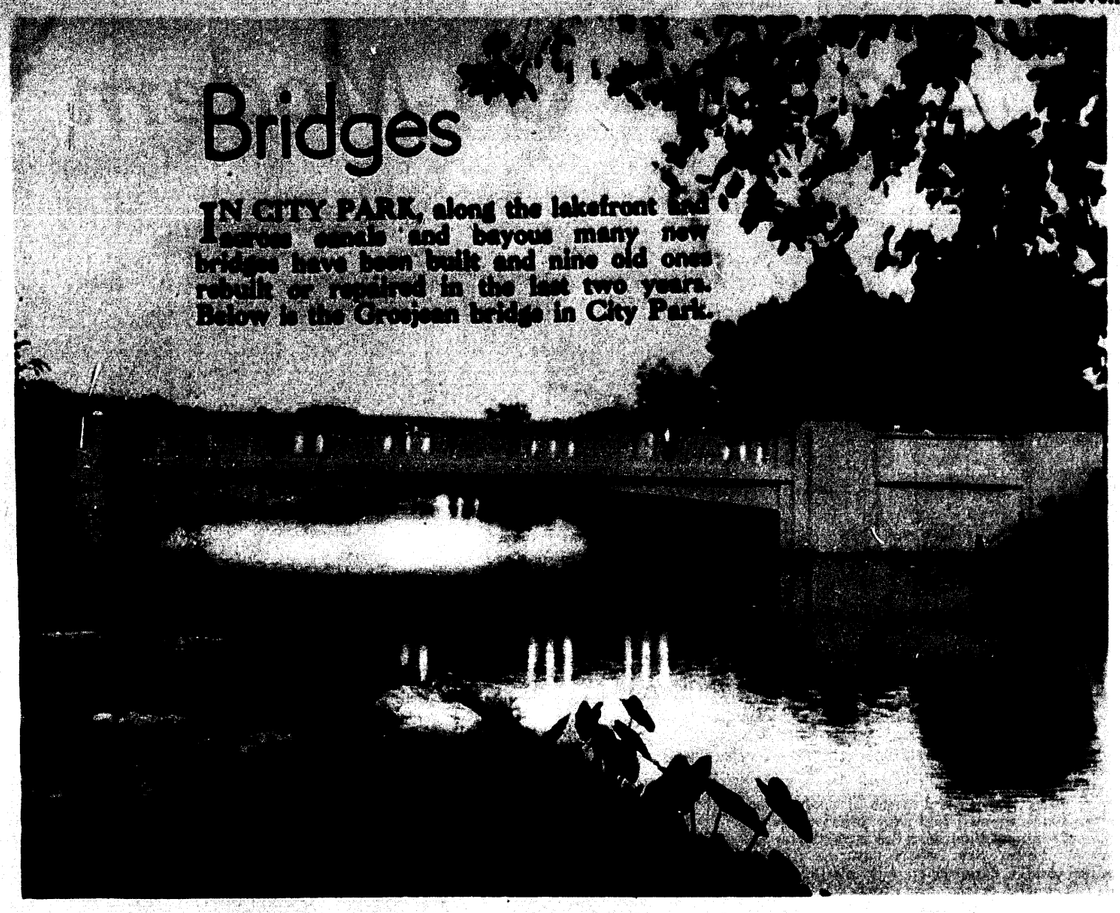
A few years ago this is what the neutral ground of upper Claiborne avenue looked like with its debris and weed-filled canal.

And today the same canal has been lined, filled and planted to become one of the most beautiful neutral ground parks in the city.

Left—In conjunction with repavement of Canal Boulevard, the open canal has been replaced by a square, concrete lined canal, which has now been covered and converted into a beautiful neutral ground.

(Top) The New Basin Canal which is being refilled from Rampart to Claiborne avenue to eliminate traffic barrier between Uptown and Downtown New Orleans.

Before Masonry (top)—This is what Bayou St. John looked like near Esplanade avenue and City Park. (Below) The same scene today after the removal of the old boathouses and some beautification work had been done.



Bridges
IN CITY PARK, along the lakefront and across canals and bayous many new bridges have been built and nine old ones rebuilt or repaired in the last two years. Below is the Grunjean bridge in City Park.

This Bridge Completed Lakeshore Drive

THE BAYOU St. John bridge on the lakeshore highway was the last of three such structures to be built to open up the five-and-a-half-mile lakeshore drive. The work was done by the state highway commission in connection with the lakefront development program of the city, levee board and WPA.

OPENING a new passage over the Industrial Canal, the Florida Walk bridge is part of the program to extend and improve this vital traffic artery.

Police Stations "Policed"

NEGLECTED, ramshackle police stations, condemned by the grand jury as unsanitary and unfit for use, have received a new lease on life under the Maestri improvement program. Eight stations have been completely rebuilt or repaired at little cost to the city with policemen donning overalls and doing much of the carpentry, masonry and painting work. Some stations, too far gone for repair, were torn down, new buildings erected.

THE TENTH POLICE PRECINCT, at City Park avenue and New Basin canal, is characteristic of the miracle achieved under the city's program for the improvement of public buildings. (Top) The Old precinct building with sagging floors, supported by termite eaten pilings and surrounded by a general air of dilapidation has been replaced by the spic and span picture just below. Repaired, renovated the old precinct nestles now amid a scene of quiet beauty.

THE SEVENTH PRECINCT building (right), at Magazine and Napoleon avenue, is resplendant in new paint and inside and out has been put in first-class condition.

THE 12TH PRECINCT station at St. Andrew and Robertson streets, was ordered torn down by the Orleans grand jury. Instead it was completely rebuilt and here it is today.

THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER was no barrier to the scope of the improvement program as attested by this picture of the Eighth Precinct Station (below), which was completely renovated and which is now one of the finest of its class in the city.

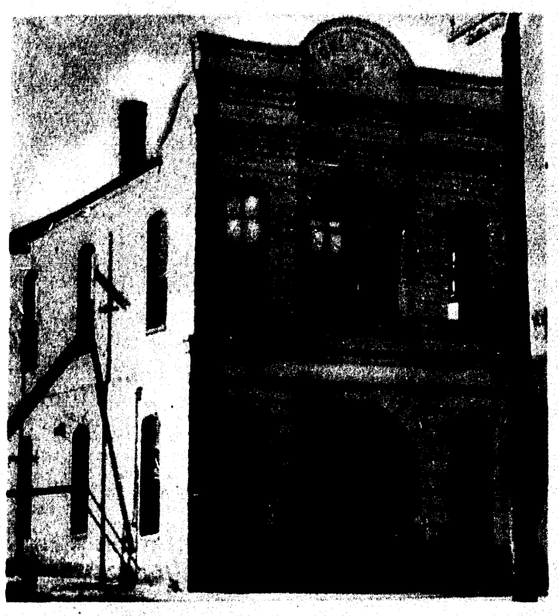
New Orleans Fire Stations Go Modern

NINETEEN city fire stations, some 100 years old and almost ready to collapse, have been completely repaired and renovated during the past two years. The work has been done at little cost with firemen pressed into service and working with materials for the most part salvaged from other buildings which were torn down.

When Carrollton was an incorporated town and before the day of fire alarm systems, this tower station was built at Fern and Jeannette streets. Firemen watched for fires from tower.

Repaired, the old tower was found to be eaten away inside by termites. It was removed and the station rebuilt.

Minus its tower, rebuilt inside and out, the station today at Fern and Jeannette shows graphically how ancient fire stations of the city have been rejuvenated under the stimulus of the Maestri public building improvement campaign.



Engine House No. 21, North Claiborne avenue and St. Peter street, built in 1885, was one of the 19 stations repaired. Above it is shown before repair and at right after it was modernized.

Along The Floral Trail . . . .

Azalea colors contrast with green of trees.

The Parkway Commission during the past two years launched a city beautiful campaign that has kept New Orleans at the top of cities beautiful. In addition to planting parks, neutral grounds, public squares and grounds around public buildings, the commission has planted beautiful azalea bushes along 20 miles of streets and neutral grounds in New Orleans as part of the Azalea Trail which has its origin in Mobile. Such plantings are maintained along St. Claude, North and South Claiborne, Carrollton, St. Charles, City Park, Louisiana and Napoleon avenues and on Canal street.

This is typical of the azalea planting along the neutral ground of Claiborne avenue.

Multi-hued azaleas line the city's driveways.

And the people take pride in their flowers.

Gorgeous beauty in this street park azalea.

For miles azaleas line both sides of the street car tracks along St. Claude avenue.

Welfare

THROUGH the offices and the doorways and the conference rooms of one increasingly important department of the City of New Orleans, passes a stream of nearly 8000 men and women and children, aided at a cost of about $190,000 a month by the comparatively new division of Public Welfare.

Its responsibility are the needy "unemployables" of New Orleans. The Federal government, through its Works Progress administration, assumes the care of the unemployed, those able to work but unable to find it. As part of the broad Federal-state-city plan of social security, the city looks after this other large group.

Three major classes of Orleanians are its wards: the aged, over 65, who cannot support themselves; the children of mothers whose husbands have died or are incapacitated; and the needy blind. In addition, the department looks after other "unemployables," tides them over until an expected job or relief assignment arrives, and those "in between" the various welfare classifications.

Meeting standards of assistance set by the Federal government, the department has main offices in the Soule building next to city hall, and uptown and downtown quarters, to which needy persons apply. It operates the Touro Shakespeare almshouse for those aged persons who are ill or for various reasons cannot care for themselves. It distributes commodities of various types; it provides nursing help; and it investigates applicants for assignment to the WPA.

THIS large, airy room is in the "uptown intake department" at 2828 South Carrollton avenue. Here applicants for aid from Public Welfare await turn to tell their stories to trained interviewers. Similar in this, with almost equal personnel, is the "downtown intake department" at 2256 North Claiborne. In each of these stations separate quarters are provided to interview the Negro applicants. Interesting is the fact that almost the exact number of applications are received at the two stations.

A TYPICAL "unemployable" is William Tucker. He was 85 just yesterday. Evicted from the home in which he lived for years, no longer able to pay rent, buy food, he starts out to look for "something."

1. A job? He is too old. Again and again he is turned down.

2. He hears of the City Welfare department, created to aid such as he is. He calls at the uptown intake office on Carrollton.

3. To Abraham Pettit, interviewer, he tells his story, his futile effort to get work. A complete record is taken.

4. The case of William Tucker has been investigated. His story has proven correct as he gave it to interviewer Pettit. So help comes. It is a check which will provide him with minimum needs. He can also expect further assistance in groceries from the Federal Surplus Commodity Corp.

DESTITUTE families, widows with children too small to aid in support; these people need help, too. They represent a major class of "unemployables." Interviewers call on such cases, ascertain the assistance needed. Nurses are sent out when there is illness. Extent of the service rendered by Welfare nurses is shown at right. The baby of a sick mother gets his bath from the visiting nurse.

BESIDES these services shown, the Welfare's work takes in hospitalization for old folks who are ill. Provides airy and sunny quarters for convalescents. In short, represents a haven for aged "unemployables" in their declining years.

Golf

Represents only one side of Mayor Maestri's interest in healthful sport and recreation. The St. Johns Golf Links, pictured at left, was built in the new City Park addition by WPA and is one of the finest public courses in America. There Maestri inaugurated the Crescent City Open Golf Tournament in which last year over 150 ranking professionals of America participated for a $5000 prize.

A Library Free of Politics

For years civic, educational, professional and other groups urged that the New Orleans library be divorced from politics but it was not until Mayor Maestri took office that this was accomplished. Under a trained librarian recommended by the American Library Association, the library has improved rapidly and with the aid of Mayor Maestri has been renovated, its stock of books improved and the mayor has promised more books and greater improvements.

The Auditorium Air-Conditioned

Under the Maestri regime, the Municipal auditorium has been converted into an all-weather insitution through installation of the largest air-conditioning unit ever built. The Carrier Corporation is doing the job at a cost of $180,000.

The air-conditioning plant for the auditorium is so constructed that it uses the same flow of water over and over again, eliminating the danger of breakdowns due to water shortage which in some mid-west cities has made air-conditioning systems almost impracticable. In the final analysis, the system delivers 140,000 cubic feet of cool air per minute to the auditorium.

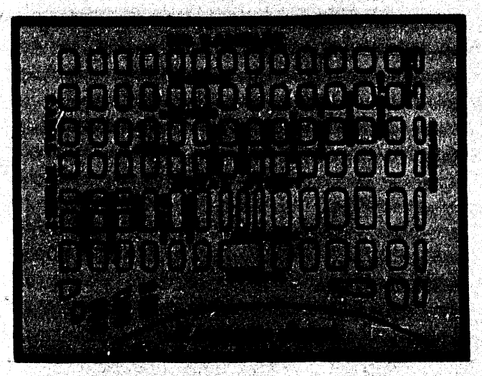
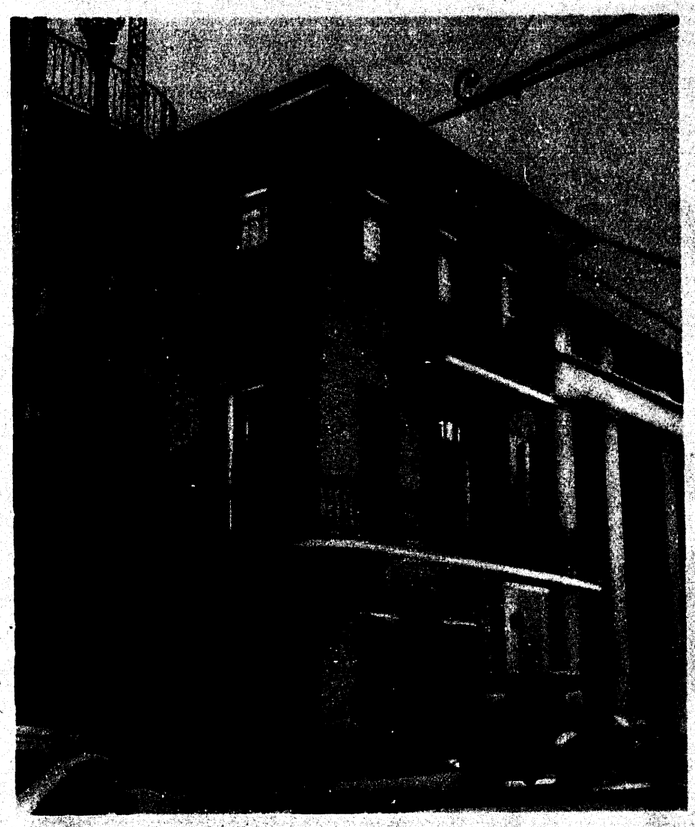
A Start On Saving The French Quarter

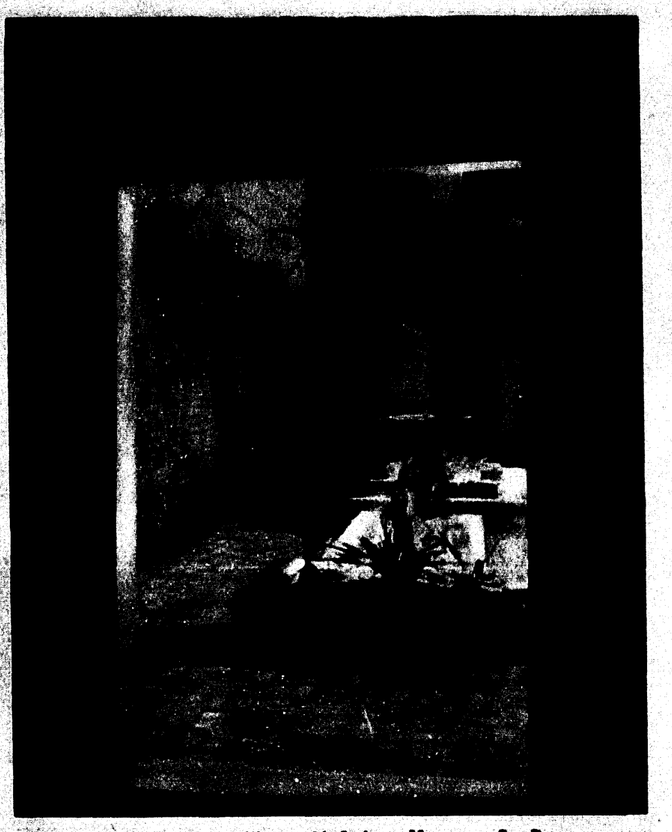


MAP OF THE VIEUX CARRE

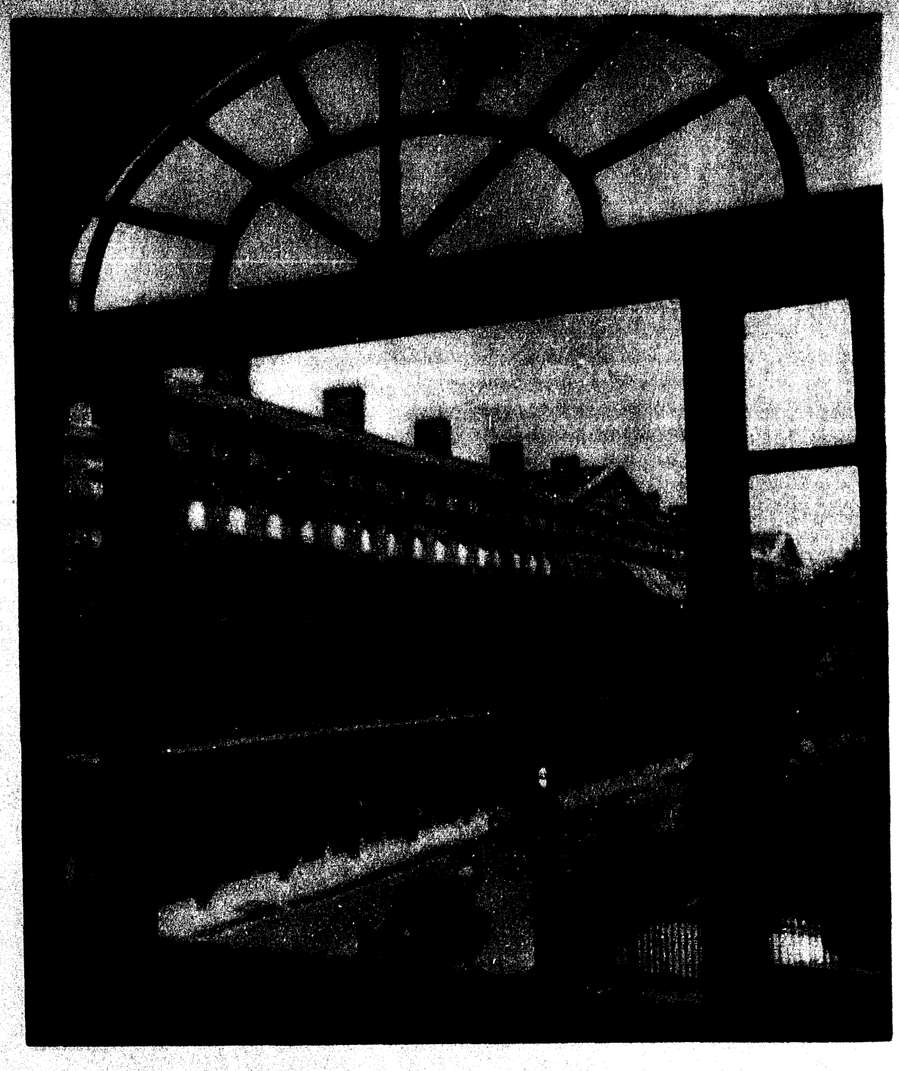
NEW ORLEANS' "billion dollar asset," the magnet that draws ten million dollars worth of tourist business here each year, has come in for a face-lifting under the Maestri administration. Starting from the ground up, so to speak, all of the streets in the quarter were paved. Then the city-owned Court Building was cleared inside and out and the grounds landscaped. The Mayor personally purchased the Napoleon House, already victim to neglect and decay, and gave it to the city. It will be restored and probably opened as a museum in a drive to get property owners in the quarter to rehabilitate their property. State laws and city ordinances have been passed to give the administration a greater measure of authority in the matter. A growing interest on the part of the Mayor, and a determination on his part to preserve the old quarter, has given heart to the thousands of citizens who have believed that the Vieux Carre is the one thing possessed by New Orleans that can't be found or duplicated elsewhere on this Continent.



WITHIN Jackson House is this Creole courtyard, connecting it with La Maison Creole which is next door. Jackson House was purchased and given to the state by the Daughters of 1776 and 1812.



RESTORED is the magnificent old Jackson House on St. Peter street which was occupied by General Andrew Jackson as headquarters before the Battle of New Orleans. It was rebuilt by WPA at a cost of $15,000 and is now part of the state museum.



VIEWED through a window of the Presbytere is the lower Pontalba on St. Ann street. Among the oldest of American apartment dwellings, these Pontalba Buildings flank Jackson Square, hub of the Vieux Carre. Completely renovated inside and out by the WPA-Maestri administration, they now afford modern living quarters in a setting of bygone historic days. The lower picture might be a bed chamber of the early Sixties. Only the modern (and useful) window screens give it away.

Napoleon House

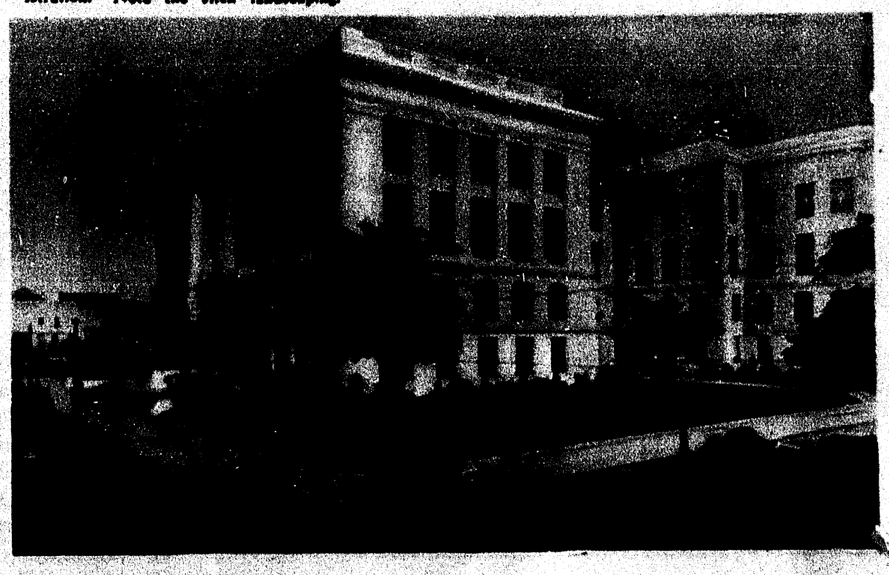
SOME IDEA of the utter wreck into which the Napoleon House had fallen can be gotten from these two pictures of the interior. Before Maestri bought it, the plan was to tear it down.

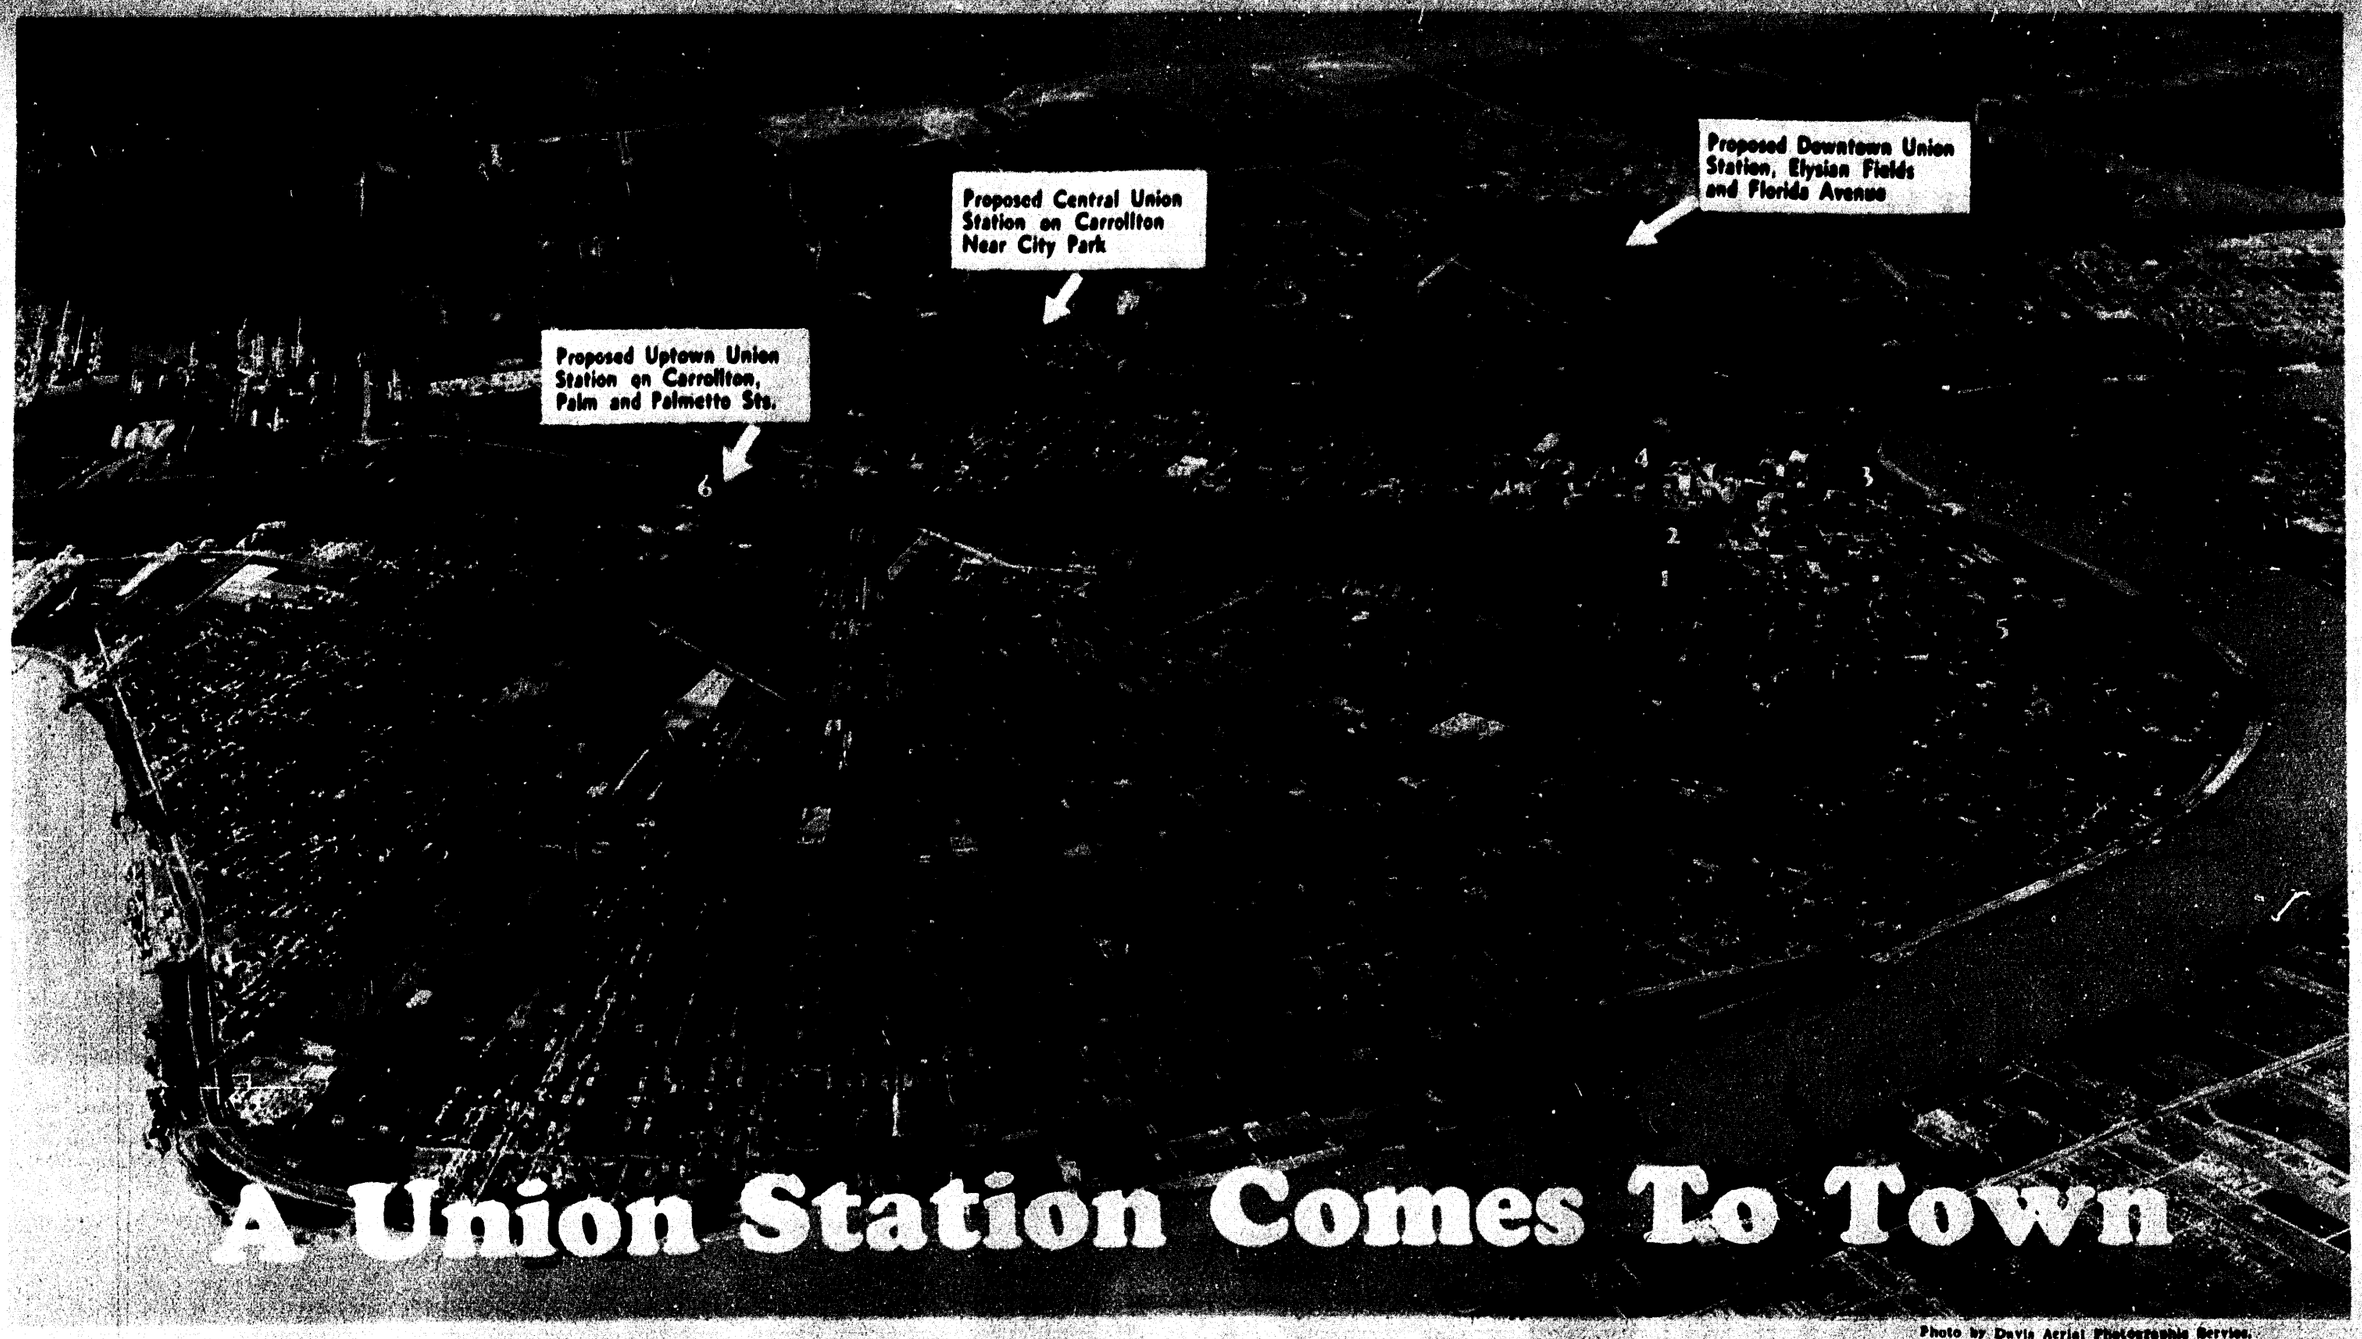
IT WAS ALL PLANNED. Napoleon was to be rescued from St. Helena. He was to be brought to New Orleans, French city in the New World. Even a house was built for him. At No. 514 Rue Chartres, it is shown at the right. But Napoleon never came. He died. And in the years that followed the house almost did too. Then Mayor Maestri stepped in. Out of his own pocket he bought the place. Now being restored, it will be presented to the city as another historic shrine. Below is seen architect's plan of the restored building.

French Market Improvement Aided Vieux Carre Traffic

QUAINTNESS and historical inheritances do not always fit in with present-day requirements. All of the streets of the French Quarter are narrow. This picture shows North Peters street looking toward Canal. It was widened and paved when the French Market was rebuilt. Today it enables traffic to move easily along the riverfront to Esplanade.

The lower picture is the Civil Court. Cleaned, repaired and painted was its treatment by the administration. Note the slick landscaping.





A Union Station Comes To Town

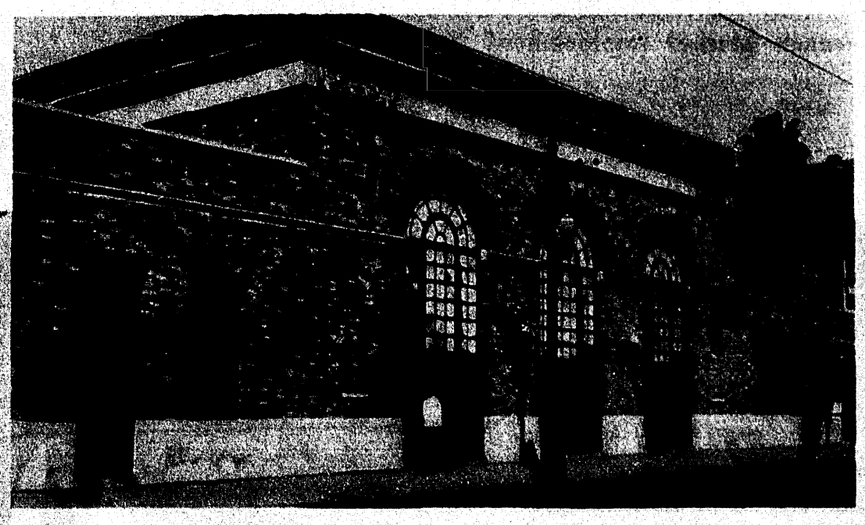
1 THIS IS THE FIRST glimpse of New Orleans for visitors to New Orleans, from Chicago, California, and points northwest. It is the backyard of the Illinois Central, Southern Pacific, Union Station. In bad weather it presents a condition of near panic.



2 TUCKED AWAY on South Rampart Street is this spick and span little terminal of the Louisiana and Arkansas Railway. Three trains a day are serviced.

3 ALMOST THE WORST of them all is the L. & N's grimy station at the foot of Canal street. Serving the many trains to the Gulf Coast, it is also the most overcrowded. The structure across the front is the approach to the Canal ferry.

WHEN NEW ORLEANS was much younger and not nearly grown-up, the railroads pushed their lines right down into the heart of the city—to Canal street and Rampart street. The freight lines came right along with the passenger lines. Then, as the city grew, and automobiles came into general use, Orleanians found themselves taking at least three hurdles on their way downtown and a couple on their way uptown.

The passenger terminals were allowed to run down and became dilapidated. Today some of them constitute an actual menace to health; and tourists arriving full of enthusiasm to see the city have their ardor, as well as their skins, thoroughly dampened as they are compelled to light from trains out in the rain and cinders.

Year after year has gone by and New Orleans has been absolutely neglected by the railroads while much better terminal facilities than exist here have been built in Baton Rouge, Shreveport, Jackson or almost any other city that can be named.

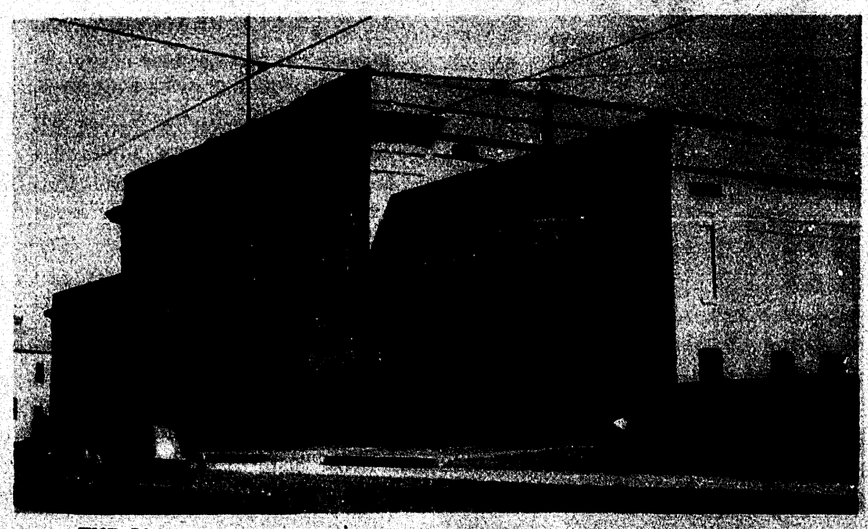
Mayor Maestri announced early in his term that it was time to stop fooling around. He got the railroad representatives into a huddle and told them that the "time had come." They would be required to move back out of the way of the city's growth and movement; that the city must have new passenger facilities; and, when they balked, they were told that their only choice was as to whether they would have one central station or two stations, one uptown and one downtown. Legislation was introduced at Baton Rouge, and is now law, under which the city has ample power to compel the improvements.

The city will build the station or stations with money it borrows largely from the Federal government. The railroads will pay rental, the station or stations being the property of the city, will not be taxed, so the railroads will pay rent instead of taxes and the rent money will be used to pay off the loan. In the meantime the increase in property values in neighborhoods heretofore retarded in growth by these barriers will more than offset the loss of any tax money now received from terminal property.

THE AERIAL PICTURE shows how the railroad lines have become great barriers in the development of the city. Some years ago the I. C. line, which forms part of the Rampart-Poydras-Clio barrier, extended on to the river. Eventually they were ordered to take up tracks on St. Joseph street and that barrier was cut. The I. C., Y. and M. V., the Southern Pacific and the L. & A. Railroads drove a wedge extending from Rampart street to Carrollton avenue across all crosstown traffic. The Southern railroad's trackage along Basin street and back across St. Louis, the L. & N's extensive right of way in Elysian Fields avenue, and the Press street tracks, make three hurdles downtown. When traffic is brought to a halt beyond Carrollton avenue, except for the limited service freight lines and the movement over the Public Belt river front tracks, coming in at the upper protection levee, these barriers will cease to exist.

Half a dozen over-passes and under-passes are part of the plan, and they will keep traffic moving over even the limited freight service tracks. All switch yards will be back of Carrollton.

4 THE SOUTHERN Railway's Terminal Station is on Canal across from Elk Place. This is the sheds. Whenever a train arrives or departs, the iron gates are closed, much downtown traffic must detour.



5 THE PRINCIPAL OBJECTION to the Texas and Pacific station on Annunciation street, is its location. The building itself is the most modern of them all, but stuck away down on the uptown river front. New Orleans growing lakeward has left it behind.

6 SMALL-TOWNISH and almost quaint is this suburban station of the Illinois Central and Southern Pacific trains on Carrollton avenue. All of the through trains stop here, many passengers arrive and depart.
